Joint resolution, August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 671), provided that the above-quoted act of June 16, 1898 "shall be applicable in all cases of military service rendered in connection with operations in Mexico, or along the borders thereof, or in mobilization camps elsewhere, whether such service be in the military or naval organization of the United States or the National Guard of the several States now or hereafter in the service of the United States." [Selection of live-oak and red-cedar tracts.] The President is authorized to appoint surveyors of public lands, who shall perform the duties prescribed in the preceding section, and report to him the tracts by them selected, with the boundaries ascertained and accurately designated by actual survey or water-courses; and the tracts of land thus selected with the approbation of the President shall be reserved, unless otherwise directed by law, from any future sale of the public lands, and be appropriated to the sole purpose of supplying timber for the Navy of the United States; but nothing in this section contained shall be construed to prejudice the prior rights of any person claiming lands, which may be reserved in the manner herein provided.—(1 Mar., 1817, c. 22, s. 1, v. 3, p. 347.)

Transfer to Interior Department of lands in Florida.—"That the Secretary of the Navy be, and he is hereby, authorized to cause an examination to be made of the condition of all lands in the State of Florida which have been set apart or reserved for naval purposes, excepting the reservation upon which the navy-yard at Pensacola is located, and to ascertain whether or not such reserved lands are or will be of any value to the Government of the United States for naval purposes.

"SEC. 2. That all of said lands which, in the judgment of the Secretary of the Navy, are no longer required for naval purposes shall, as soon as practicable, be certified by him to the Secretary of the Interior, and be subject to entry and sale in the same manner and under the same conditions as other public lands of the United States: Provided, That all persons who have, in good faith, made improvements on said reserved lands so certified at the time of the passage of this act, and who occupy the same, shall be entitled to purchase the part or parts so occupied or improved by them, not to exceed one hundred and sixty acres to any one person at one dollar and twenty-five cents per acre within such reasonable time as may be fixed by the Secretary of the Interior." (Act Mar. 2, 1895, 28 Stat., 814.)

Sec. 2460 [Protection of timber in Florida.] The President is authorized to employ so much of the land and naval forces of the United States as may be necessary to effectually prevent the felling, cutting down, or other destruction of the timber of the United States in Florida, and to prevent the transportation or carrying away any such timber as may be already felled or cut down; and to take such other and further measures as may be deemed advisable for the preservation of the timber of the United States in Florida.—(23 Feb., 1822, c. 9, v. 3, p. 651.)

[Clearance of vessel; timber cut by consent of Navy Department.] It shall be the duty of all collectors of the customs within the States of Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, and Florida, before allowing a clearance to any vessel laden in whole or in part with live-oak timber, to ascertain satisfactorily that such timber was cut from private lands, or, if from public ones, by consent of the Navy Department. And it is also made the duty of all officers of the customs, and of the land officers within those States, to cause prosecutions to be seasonably instituted against all persons known to be guilty of depredations on, or injuries to, the live oak growing on the public lands.—(2 Mar., 1833, c. 67, s. 3, v. 4, p. 647.)

Sec. 2687. [Apportionment of compensation for part of year's service.] Collectors and all other officers of the customs, serving for a less period than a year, shall not be paid for the entire year, but shall be allowed in no case a greater than a pro rata of the maximum compensation of such officers respectively for the time only which they actually serve as such collectors or officers, whether the same be under one or more appointments, or before or after confirmation. And no collector or other officer shall, in any case, receive for his services, either as fees, salary, fines, penalties, forfeitures, or otherwise, for the time he may be in service, beyond the maximum pro rata rate provided by law. And this section shall be applied and enforced in regard to all officers, agents, and employes of the United States whomsoever, as well those whose compensation is determined by a commission on disbursements, not to exceed an annual maximum, as those paid by salary or otherwise.—(11 Feb., 1846, c. 7, s. 1, v. 9, p. 3. 18 July, 1866, c. 201, s. 34, v. 14, p. 186.)

By act of January 28, 1915 (38 Stat., 800), the Revenue-Cutter Service and the Life-Saving Service were consolidated and reestablished as the "Coast Guard," and it was provided that said organization "shall constitute a part of the military forces of the United States," and "shall operate under the Treasury Department in time of peace and operate as a part of the Navy, subject to the orders of the Secretary of the Navy, in time of war or when the President shall so direct." (See note to sec. 1492, R. S.)

By act of August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 600), it was provided that "hereafter whenever, in accordance with law, the expenses of the Coast Guard are paid by the Navy Department, any naval appropriations from which payments are so made shall be reimbursed from available appropriations made by Congress for the expenses of the Coast Guard." (By acts of June 15, 1917, 40 Stat., 212, and July 1, 1918, 40 Stat., 731, appropriations were made for the naval establishment, and it was provided that said appropriations "shall be available for similar expenses of the Coast Guard and Lighthouse Service while cooperating with the Navy in so far as the regular appropriations for these services are insufficient therefor; and, when expenditures are thus made, naval appropriations need not be reimbursed from the appropriations for the Coast Guard and Lighthouse Service.")

Such transfers, assignments, and powers of attorney, must recite the warrant for payment, and must be acknowledged by the person making them, before an officer having authority to take acknowledgements of deeds, and shall be certified by the officer; and it must appear by the certificate that the officer, at the time of the acknowledgement, read and fully explained the transfer, assignment, or warrant of attorney to the person acknowledging the same.—(29 July, 1846, c. 66, v. 9, p. 41. 26 Feb., 1853, c. 81, s. 1, v. 10, p. 170.)

In case of the non-receipt at the Treasury, or proper Bureau, of any accounts within a reasonable and proper time thereafter, the officer whose accounts are in default shall be required to furnish satisfactory evidence of having complied with the provisions of this section. The Secretary of the Treasury may, if in his opinion the circumstances of the case justify and require it, extend the time hereinbefore prescribed for the rendition of accounts. Nothing herein contained shall, however, be construed to restrain the heads of any of the Departments from requiring such other returns or reports from the officer or agent, subject to the control of such heads of [Department] [Departments], as the public interest may require.—(17 July 1862, c. 199 s. 1, v. 12, p. 593. 2 Mar., 1867, Res. 48, v. 14, p. 571. 15 July, 1870, c. 295, s. 15, v. 16, p. 334. 27 Feb., 1877, c. 69, v. 19, p. 249.)

This section is given above as it appears in the second edition of the Revised Statutes. The word "Department" was stricken from the original section and the word "Departments" substituted therefor (as indicated by brackets) by act of February 27, 1877 (19 Stat., 249).

Other amendments to this section were made by act of August 30, 1890, section 4 (26 Stat., 413), which provided that "hereafter all disbursing officers of the United States shall render their accounts quarterly; and the Secretary of the Senate shall render his accounts as heretofore; but the Secretary of the Treasury may direct any or all such accounts to be rendered more frequently when in his judgment the public interests may require"; and by act of July 31, 1894, section 12 (28 Stat., 209), which expressly struck from this section the words "The Secretary of the Treasury may, if in his opinion the circumstances of the case justify and require it, extend the time hereinbefore prescribed for the rendition of accounts," being the next to the last sentence of this section as given above. The said act of 1894 contained other provisions as to the rendition of accounts and authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to relax requirements and waive delinquency under specified conditions.

Penalty for failure to render accounts, see sections 86-92, Criminal Code, act March 4, 1909 (35 Stat., 1105), and section 1624, Revised Statutes, article 14, as to acts constituting embezzlement.

Sec. 3623. [Distinct accounts required.] All officers, agents, or other persons, receiving public moneys, shall render distinct accounts of the application thereof, according to the appropriation under which the same may have been advanced to them.—(3 Mar., 1809, c. 28, s. 1, v. 2, p. 535.)

Sec. 3624. [Suits to recover money from officers.] Whenever any person accountable for public money, neglects or refuses to pay into the Treasury the sum or balance reported to be due to the United States, upon the adjustment of his account, the First Comptroller of the Treasury shall institute suit for the recovery of the same, adding to the sum stated to be due on such account, the commissions of the delinquent, which shall be forfeited in every instance where suit is commenced and judgment obtained thereon, and an interest of six per centum per annum, from the time of receiving the money until it shall be repaid into the Treasury.—(3 Mar., 1797, c. 20, s. 1, v. 1, p. 512. U. S. v. Gaussen, 19 Wall., 198.)

Amendment to this section was made by act of July 31, 1894, section 4 (28 Stat., 205), which provided that “the First Comptroller of the Treasury shall hereafter be known as the Comptroller of the Treasury.”

See notes to sections 346 and 356, Revised Statutes, as to jurisdiction of the Attorney General; and note to section 236, Revised Statutes, as to jurisdiction of Comptroller of the Treasury.

Sec. 3639. [Duties of custodians of public moneys.] The Treasurer of the United States, all assistant treasurers, and those performing the duties of assistant treasurer, all collectors of the customs, all surveyors of the customs, acting also as collectors, all receivers of public moneys at the several land-offices, all postmasters, and all public officers of whatsoever character, are required to keep safely, without loaning, using, depositing in banks, or exchanging for other funds than as specially allowed by law, all the public money collected by them, or otherwise at any time placed in their possession and custody, till the same is ordered, by the proper Department or officer of the Government, to be transferred or paid out; and when such orders for transfer or payment are received, faithfully and promptly to make the same as directed, and to do and perform all other duties as fiscal agents of the Government which may be imposed by any law, or by any regulation of the Treasury Department made in conformity to law. The President is authorized, if in his opinion the interest of the United States requires the same, to regulate and increase the sums for which bonds are, or may be, required by law, of all district attorneys, collectors of customs, naval officers, and surveyors of customs, navy agents, receivers and registers of public lands, paymasters in the Army, commissary-general, and by all other officers employed in the disbursement of the public moneys, under the direction of the War or Navy Departments.—(6 Aug., 1846, c. 90, s. 6, v. 9, p. 60. 3 July, 1852, c. 54, s. 7, v. 10, p. 12. 3 Mar., 1857, c. 114, s. 2, v. 11, p. 249. 21 April, 1862, c. 59, s. 5, v. 12, p. 382. 3 Mar., 1863, c. 96, s. 5, v. 12, p. 770. 4 July, 1864, c. 24, s. 5, v. 13, p. 383. 18 Feb., 1869, c. 33, s. 4, v. 15, 271.)

Sec. 3643. [Entry of receipts, payments, and transfers.] All persons charged by law with the safe-keeping, transfer, and disbursement of the public moneys, other than those connected with the Post-Office Department, are required to keep an accurate entry of each sum received and of each payment or transfer.—(6 Aug., 1846, c. 90, s. 10, v. 9, p. 63.)

Sec. 3646. [Lost or stolen checks; duplicates.] That whenever any original check is lost, stolen, or destroyed disbursing officers and agents of the United States are authorized, within three years from the date of such check, to issue a duplicate check, under such regulations in regard to its issue and payment, and upon the execution of such bond, with sureties, to indemnify the United States, and proof of loss of original check, as the Secretary of the Treasury shall prescribe: Provided, That whenever any original check or warrant of the Post Office Department has been lost, stolen, or destroyed the

Postmaster General may authorize the issuance of a duplicate thereof, at any time within three years from the date of such original check or warrant, upon the execution by the owner thereof of such bond of indemnity as the Postmaster General may prescribe: Provided further, That when such original check or warrant does not exceed in amount the sum of $50 and the payee or owner is, at the date of the application, an officer or employee in the service of the Post Office Department, whether by contract, designation, or appointment, the Postmaster General may, in lieu of an indemnity bond, authorize the issuance of a duplicate check or warrant upon such an affidavit as he may describe, to be made before any postmaster by the payee or owner of an original check or warrant."

This section was expressly amended and re-enacted to read as above by act of March 21, 1916 (39 Stat., 37). | See section 300, Revised Statutes, and note thereto, as to lost checks.

Sec. 3647. [Duplicate check; officer dead.] In case the disbursing officer or agent by whom such lost, destroyed, or stolen original check was issued is dead or no longer in the service of the United States it shall be the duty of the proper accounting officer, under such regulations as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe, to state an account in favor of the owner of such original check for the amount thereof and to charge such amount to the account of such officer or agent: Provided, That in case a check drawn by any officer or agent of the Post-Office Department is lost, stolen, or destroyed a duplicate thereof may be issued under regulations prescribed by the Postmaster-General, as set forth in section thirty-six hundred and forty-six.

This section was expressly amended and re-enacted by act of February 23, 1909 (35 Stat., 644). | See section 300, Revised Statutes, which is similar to the general provisions of this section.

Sec. 3648. [Advances of public moneys prohibited.] No advance of public money shall be made in any case whatever. And in all cases of contracts for the performance of any service, or the delivery of articles of any description, for the use of the United States, payment shall not exceed the value of the service rendered, or of the articles delivered previously to such payment. It shall, however, be lawful, under the special direction of the President, to make such advances to the disbursing officers of the Government as may be necessary to the faithful and prompt discharge of their respective duties, and to the fulfillment of the public engagements. The President may also direct such advances as he may deem necessary and proper, to persons in the military and naval service employed on distant stations, where the discharge of the pay and emoluments to which they may be entitled cannot be regularly effected.— (31 Jan., 1823, c. 9, s. 1, v. 3, p. 723. was authorized "during the period of the existing emergency" to advance payments to contractors for supplies in amounts not exceeding 30 per centum of the contract price and upon adequate security.

Sec. 3651. [Exchange of funds restricted.] No exchange of funds shall be made by any disbursing officer or agent of the Government, of any grade or denomination whatsoever, or connected with any branch of the public service, other than an exchange for gold, silver, United States notes, and national-bank notes; and every such disbursing officer, when the means for his disbursements are furnished to him in gold, silver, United States notes, or national-bank notes, shall make his payments in the moneys so furnished; or when they are furnished to him in drafts, shall cause those drafts to be presented at their place of payment, and properly paid according to law, and shall make his payments in the money so received for the drafts furnished, unless, in either case, he can exchange the means in his hands for gold and silver at par. And it shall be the duty of the head of the proper Department immediately to suspend from duty any disbursing officer or agent who violates the provisions of this section, and forthwith to report the name of the officer or agent to the President, with the fact of the violation, and all the circumstances accompanying the same, and within the knowledge of the Secretary, to the end that such officer or agent may be promptly removed from office, or restored to his trust and the performance of his duties, as the President may deem just and proper.—(6 Aug., 1846, c. 90, s. 20, v. 9, p. 64. 22 Feb., 1862, c. 33, s. 1, v. 12, p. 345. 11 July, 1862, c. 142, s. 1, v. 12, p. 532. 3 Mar., 1863, c. 73, s. 3, v. 12, p. 710. 3 June, 1864, c. 106, s. 23, v. 13, p. 106. [Manner of communicating estimates.] The heads of Departments, in communicating estimates of expenditures and appropriations to Congress, or to any of the committees thereof, shall specify, as nearly as may be convenient, the sources from which such estimates are derived, and the calculations upon which they are founded, and shall discriminate between such estimates as are conjectural in their character and such as are framed upon actual information and applications from disbursing officers. They shall also give references to any law or treaty by which the proposed expenditures are, respectively, authorized, specifying the date of each, and the volume and page of the Statutes at Large, or of the Revised Statutes, as the case may be, and the section of the act in which the authority is to be found.—(26 Aug., 1842, c. 202, s. 14, v. 5, p. 525. 3 Mar., 1875, c. 129, s. 3, v. 18, p. 370.)

See sections 429 and 430, Revised Statutes, and laws noted thereunder.

Sec. 3663. [Estimates for public works.] Whenever any estimate submitted to Congress by the head of a Department asks an appropriation for any new specific expenditure, such as the erection of a public building, or the construction of any public work, requiring a plan before the building or work can be properly completed, such estimate shall be accompanied by full [plan] [plans] and detailed estimates of the cost of the whole work. All subsequent estimates for any such work shall state the original estimated cost, the aggregate amount theretofore appropriated for the same, and the amount actually expended thereupon, as well as the amount asked for the current year for which such estimate is made. And if the amount asked is in excess of the original estimate, the full reasons for the excess, and the extent of the anticipated excess, shall be also stated.—(17 June, 1844, c. 105, s. 2, v. 5, p. 693. 3 Mar., 1855, c. 175, s. 8, v. 10, p. 670. 27 Feb., 1877, c. 69, v. 19, p. 249.)

Sec. 3664. [Explanation of estimates.] Whenever the head of a Department, being about to submit to Congress the annual estimates of expenditures required for the coming year, finds that the usual items of such estimates vary materially in amount from the appropriation ordinarily asked for the object named, and especially from the appropriation granted for the same objects for the preceding year, and whenever new items not theretofore usual are introduced into such estimates for any year, he shall accompany the estimates by minute and full explanations of all such variations and new items, showing the reasons and grounds upon which the amounts are required, and the different items added.—(17 June, 1844, c. 105, s. 2, v. 5, p. 693. 3 Mar., 1855, c. 175, s. 8, v. 10, p. 670.)

Sec. 3673. [Money requisitions for War and Navy Departments.] All moneys appropriated for the use of the War and Navy Departments shall be drawn from the Treasury, by warrants of the Secretary of the Treasury, upon the requisitions of the Secretaries of those Departments, respectively, countersigned by the Second Comptroller of the Treasury, and registered by the proper Auditor.—(3 Mar., 1817, c. 45, ss. 5, 9, v. 3, p. 367. 7 May, 1822, c. 90, s. 3, v. 3, p. 689. 4 Mar., 1874, c. 44, v. 18, p. 19.)

Amendment to this section was made by act of July 31, 1894, section 4 (28 Stat., 205), which abolished the office of Second Comptroller of the Treasury and created the office of Comptroller of the Treasury.

By act of June 19, 1878 (20 Stat., 167-168), the Secretary of the Navy was authorized to issue requisitions for advances to disbursing officers under a "General account of advances," not to exceed the total appropriation for the Navy, the amount so advanced to be charged to the proper appropriation and to be returned to "General account of advances" by pay and counter-warrant.

Sec. 3676. [Appropriations for the Navy, how controlled.] All appropriations for specific, general, and contingent expenses of the Navy Department shall be under the control and expended by the direction of the Secretary of the Navy, and the appropriation for each Bureau shall be kept separate in the Treasury.—(5 July, 1862, c. 134, s. 5, v. 12, p. 511.)

When one bureau of the War or Navy Departments procures materials or performs services for another bureau of such Departments, the funds of the bureau or Department for which the materials are to be procured or the service performed, may be placed subject to the requisition of the bureau or Department making the procurement or per-

Sec. 3679. [No expenditures beyond appropriations; voluntary services prohibited.] No Executive Department or other Government establishment of the United States shall expend, in any one fiscal year, any sum in excess of appropriations made by Congress for that fiscal year, or involve the Government in any contract or other obligation for the future payment of money in excess of such appropriations unless such contract or obligation is authorized by law. Nor shall any Department or any officer of the Government accept voluntary service for the Government or employ personal service in excess of that authorized by law, except in cases of sudden emergency, involving the loss of human life or the destruction of property. All appropriations made for contingent expenses or other general purposes, except appropriations made in fulfillment of contract obligations expressly authorized by law, or for objects required or authorized by law without reference to the amounts annually appropriated therefor, shall, on or before the beginning of each fiscal year, be so apportioned by monthly or other allotments as to prevent expenditures in one portion of the year which may necessitate deficiency or additional appropriations to complete the service of the fiscal year for which said appropriations are made; and all such apportionments shall be adhered to and shall not be waived or modified except upon the happening of some extraordinary emergency or unusual circumstance which could not be anticipated at the time of making such apportionment, but this provision shall not apply to the contingent appropriations of the Senate or House of Representatives; and in case said apportionments are waived or modified as herein provided, the same shall be waived or modified in writing by the head of such Executive Department or other Government establishment having control of the expenditure, and the reasons therefor shall be fully set forth in each particular case and communicated to Congress in connection with estimates for any additional appropriations required on account thereof. Any person violating any provision of this section shall be summarily removed from office and may also be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars or by imprisonment for not less than one month.

[Expenses of commissions and inquiries.] No accounting or disbursing officer of the Government shall allow or pay any account or charge whatever, growing out of, or in any way connected with, any commission or inquiry, except courts-martial or courts of inquiry in the military or naval service of the United States, until special appropriations shall have been made by law to pay such accounts and charges. This section, however, shall not extend to the contingent fund connected with the foreign intercourse of the Government, placed at the disposal of the President.—(26 Aug., 1842, c. 202, s. 25, v. 5, p. 533.)

The omitted portions of this section do not relate to the Navy Department.

Indemnity for seamen and marines, lost clothing.—The provision of this section for indemnity to seamen and marines for lost clothing was to provide reimbursement in the cases authorized by section 288, Revised Statutes. That section was expressly repealed (see note thereunder) by act of October 6, 1917 (40 Stat., 390), which act also provided that “in cases involving persons in the Navy reimbursement in money shall be made from the appropriation ‘Pay of the Navy,’ and reimbursement in kind shall be made from the appropriation ‘outfits on first enlistment,’ and in cases involving persons in the Marine Corps reimbursement in money shall be made from the appropriation ‘Pay, Marine Corps,’ and reimbursement in kind shall be made from the appropriation ‘Clothing, Marine Corps,’ respectively, current at the time the claim covering such loss, damage, or destruction is paid.”

Prize money to captors.—The provision of this section to cover payment of prize money to captors was superseded by the naval personnel act of March 3, 1899, section 13 (30 Stat., 1007), which repealed “all provisions of law authorizing the distribution among captors of the whole or any portion of the proceeds of vessels, or any property hereafter captured, condemned as prize.”

Naval hospital fund.—By sections 1614, 4808, and 4809, Revised Statutes, and act of June 7, 1900 (31 Stat., 697), provision was made for a fund for the maintenance of naval hospitals, known as the “Naval hospital fund.”

Expenses of discharged naval prisoners.—By act of March 3, 1909 (35 Stat., 756), provision was made for payment of expenses of discharged naval prisoners from fines and forfeitures imposed by naval courts-martial, modifying the laws above quoted with respect to the naval hospital fund, as such fines and forfeitures had previously gone in their entirety to the latter fund.

Profits on sales from ships' stores.—By act of June 24, 1910 (36 Stat., 619), it was provided that profits on sales from ships' stores in the Navy may be expended in the discretion of the Secretary of the Navy for the amusement, comfort, and contentment of the enlisted force.

Receipts from post laundries, Marine Corps.—See act of July 11, 1919 (41 Stat., 155-156).

Clothing and small stores.—By acts of February 14, 1879 (20 Stat., 288), and June 30, 1890 (26 Stat., 197), a "clothing and small stores fund" was credited for the Navy, to be credited with the value of issues of clothing and small stores, the resources of the fund to be used in the purchases of supplies of clothing and small stores for issue. This fund was increased by acts of June 8, 1898 (30 Stat., 439), and January 5, 1899 (30 Stat., 781).

By naval appropriation act of June 4, 1920 (41 Stat., 815), it was provided that "during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1921, the clothing and small stores fund shall be charged with the value of all issues of clothing and small stores made to enlisted men and apprentice seamen required as outfits on first enlistment, not to exceed $100 each, and for civilian clothing not to exceed $15 per man to men given discharges for bad conduct, undesirability, or inaptitude, and the uniform gratuity paid to officers of the Naval Reserve Force."

See also section 3692, Revised Statutes, as amended.

Naval supply account fund shall be charged with the cost of all stores procured for and credited with the value of all issues or sales made from the naval supply account. (Act Mar. 1, 1921, 41 Stat., 1169; see also acts June 25, 1910, 36 Stat., 792; Mar. 4, 1911, 36 Stat., 1279; June 30, 1914, 38 Stat., 405.)

Naval pension fund.—See section 4750, Revised Statutes, and note thereto.

Navy petroleum fund.—See act of August 25, 1914 (38 Stat., 709).

Permanent appropriations defined.—As to what appropriations are to be construed as permanent, or available continuously without reference to a fiscal year, see act of August 24, 1912, section 7 (37 Stat., 487).

Reserve material, Navy.—See acts of March 4, 1917 (39 Stat., 1183), and June 15, 1917 (40 Stat., 211).

Sec. 3690. [Expenditure of balances of appropriations.] All balances of appropriations contained in the annual appropriation bills and made specifically for the service of any fiscal year, and remaining unexpended at the expiration of such fiscal year, shall only be applied to the payment of expenses properly incurred during that year, or to the fulfillment of contracts properly made within that year; and balances not needed for such purposes shall be carried to the surplus fund. This section, however, shall not apply to appropriations known as permanent or indefinite appropriations.—(12 July, 1870, c. 251, s. 5, v. 16, p. 251.)

See note to section 3691, Revised Statutes.

Sec. 3691. [Disposal of balances after two years.] All balances of appropriations which shall have remained on the books of the Treasury, without being drawn against in the settlement of accounts, for two years from the date of the last appropriation made by law, shall be reported by the Secretary of the Treasury to the Auditor of the Treasury, whose duty it is to settle accounts thereunder, and the Auditor shall examine the books of his Office, and certify to the Secretary whether such balances will be required in the settlement of any accounts pending in his office; and if it appears that such balances will not be required for this purpose, then the Secretary may include such balances in his surplus-fund warrant, whether the head of the proper Department shall have certified that it may be carried into the general Treasury or not. But no appropriation for the payment of the interest or principal of the public debt, or to which a longer duration is given by law, shall be thus treated.—(Ibid., s. 6. 20 June, 1874, c. 328, v. 18, p. 110.)

Other provisions as to the disposition of unexpended balances of appropriations are contained in acts of June 20, 1874, section 5 (18 Stat., 110), July 26, 1886, section 2 (24 Stat., 157), and August 24, 1912, section 7 (37 Stat., 487).

The reappropriation and diversion of the unexpended balance of any appropriation to a purpose other than that for which it was originally made shall be construed and accounted as a new appropriation, and the unexpended balance shall be reduced by the sum proposed to be so diverted. (Act Mar. 4, 1915, sec. 4, 38 Stat., 1161.)

Sec. 3692. [Proceeds of sales, condemned clothing, etc.] All moneys received from the leasing or sale of marine hospitals, or the sale of revenue-cutters, or from the sale of commissary stores to the officers and enlisted men of the Army, [or from the sale of materials, stores, or supplies sold to officers and soldiers of the Army,] or from sales of condemned clothing of the Navy, or from sales of materials, stores, or supplies to any exploring or surveying expedition authorized by law, shall respectively revert to that appropriation out of which they were originally expended, and shall be applied to the purposes for which they are appropriated by law.—(3 Mar., 1847, c. 48, s. 1, v. 9, p. 171. 20 April, 1866, c. 63, ss. 1, 2, v. 14, p. 40. 28 July, 1866, c. 299, s. 25, v. 14, p. 336. 8 May, 1872, c. 140, s. 5, v. 17, p. 83. 8 June, 1872, c. 348, v. 17, p. 337. 3 Mar., 1875, c. 130, v. 18, p. 388. 3 Mar., 1875, c. 131, v. 18, p. 410. 27 Feb., 1877, c. 69, v. 19, p. 249.)

When immediate delivery or performance is required by the public exigency, the articles or service required may be procured by open purchase or contract, at the places and in the manner in which such articles are usually bought and sold, or such services engaged, between individuals.—(2 Mar., 1861, c. 84, s. 10, v. 12, p. 220. 22 June, 1874, c. 389, v. 18, p. 177.)

This section was expressly amended by act of January 27, 1891 (28 Stat., 33), by adding thereto the following: "And the advertisement for such proposals shall be made by all the Executive Departments, including the Department of Labor, the United States Fish Commission, the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Smithsonian Institution, the Government Printing Office, the government of the District of Columbia, and the superintendent of the State, War, and Navy building, except for paper and materials for use of the Government Printing Office, and materials used in the work of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing,

And if any or all of such proposals shall be rejected, advertisements for proposals shall again be invited and proceeded with in the same manner."

Further amendment was made by act of April 21, 1894, section 2 (28 Stat., 62), which provided that said amendatory act of January 27, 1894, above quoted, "be, and the same is hereby, so amended that the provisions thereof shall apply only to advertisements for proposals for fuel, ice, stationery and other miscellaneous supplies to be purchased at Washington for the use of the Executive Departments and other Government establishments therein named; and no advertisements made or contract awarded or to be awarded thereon since January twenty-seven, eighteen hundred and ninety-four, in accordance with the laws in force prior to said date, shall be declared to be illegal or invalid for non-compliance with said law of January twenty-seventh, eighteen hundred and ninety-four."

Section 3709, Revised Statutes, as thus amended, was expressly modified by act of June 17, 1910, section 4 (36 Stat., 531), which contained new provisions as to the procurement of supplies for the Executive Departments and other Government establishments in Washington.

Sec. 3711. [Inspection of fuel in the District of Columbia.] It shall not be lawful for any officer or person in the civil, military, or naval service of the United States in the District of Columbia to purchase anthracite or bituminous coal or wood for the public service except on condition that the same shall, before delivery, be inspected and weighed or measured by some competent person, to be appointed by the head of the department or chief of the branch of the service for which the purchase is made from among the persons authorized to be employed in such department or branch of the service. The person appointed under this section shall ascertain that each ton of coal weighed by him shall consist of two thousand two hundred and forty pounds, and that each cord of wood to be so measured shall be of the standard measure of one hundred and twenty-eight cubic feet. Each load or parcel of wood or coal weighed and measured by him shall be accompanied by his certificate of the number of tons or pounds of coal and the number of cords or parts of cords of wood in each load or parcel.

Sec. 3714. [Contracts for military or naval service.] All purchases and contracts for supplies or services for the military and naval service shall be made by or under the direction of the chief officers of the Departments of War and of the Navy, respectively. [And all agents or contractors for supplies or service as aforesaid shall render their accounts for settlement to the accountant of the proper department for which such supplies or services are required, subject, nevertheless, to the inspection and revision of the officers of the Treasury in the manner before prescribed.]—(16 July, 1798, c. 85, s. 3, v. 1, p. 610. 27 Feb., 1877, c. 69, v. 19, p. 249. In the case of transportation of such articles, he shall advertise for a period of not less than five days. All such proposals shall be kept sealed until the day specified in such advertisement for opening the same, when they shall be opened by or under the direction of the officer making such advertisement, in the presence of at least two persons. If, after the acceptance of a proposal, and a notification thereof to the bidder, he fails to give such bond within the time prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy, the Secretary shall proceed to contract with some other person for furnishing the supplies; and shall forthwith cause the difference between the amount contained in the proposal so guaranteed and the amount for which he may have contracted for furnishing the supplies, for the whole period of the proposal, to be charged up against the bidder and his guarantor; and the same may be immediately recovered by the United States, for the use of the Navy Department, in an action of debt against either or all of such persons.—(10 Aug., 1846, c. 176, s. 6, v. 9, p. 101.)

This section was expressly amended by act of May 25, 1896 (29 Stat., 136), which added at the end of said section, the following: “Provided, That the Secretary of the Navy may, in his discretion, accept, in lieu of the written guaranty required to accompany a proposal for naval supplies, and in lieu of the bond required for the faithful performance of a contract for furnishing such supplies, a certified check, payable to the order of the Secretary of the Navy, for the full amount of such proposal or contract, the check to be held by the Secretary of the Navy until the requirements of the proposal or contract shall be complied with and as a guaranty for compliance with the same.”

Further amendment to this section, but without express reference thereto, was made by act of December 11, 1906 (34 Stat., 841), reading as follows: “That the Secretary of the Navy may, in his discretion, accept, in lieu of the written guaranty required to accompany a proposal for naval supplies, and in lieu of the bond required for the faithful performance of a contract for furnishing such supplies, a certified check, payable to the order of the Secretary of the Navy, for from twenty-five to fifty per centum of the amount of such proposal or contract, the check to be held by the Secretary of the Navy until the requirements of the proposal or contract shall be complied with and as a guaranty for compliance with the same.”

[Delinquent contractor; penalty.] All such proposals for naval supplies shall be preserved and recorded, and reported by the Secretary of the Navy to Congress at the commencement of every regular session. The report shall contain a schedule embracing the offers by classes, indicating such as have been accepted. In case of a failure to supply the articles or to perform the work by the person entering into such contract, he and his sureties shall be liable for the forfeiture specified in such contract, as liquidated damages, to be sued for in the name of the United States.—(3 Mar., 1843, c. 83, v. 5, p. 617.)

(B) On the starboard side, a green light, of such a character as to be visible on a dark night, with a clear atmosphere, at a distance of at least two miles, and so constructed as to show a uniform and unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of ten points of the compass, and so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the starboard side.

(C) On the port side, a red light, of such a character as to be visible on a dark night, with a clear atmosphere, at a distance of at least two miles, and so constructed as to show a uniform and unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of ten points of the compass, and so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the port side.

The green and red lights shall be fitted with inboard screens, projecting at least three feet forward from the lights, so as to prevent them from being seen across the bow.

Rule four. Steam-vessels, when towing other vessels, shall carry two bright white mast-head lights vertically, in addition to their side-lights, so as to distinguish them from other steam-vessels. Each of these mast-head lights shall be of the same character and construction as the mast-head lights prescribed by Rule three.

Rule twelve. Coal-boats, trading-boats, produce-boats, canal-boats, oyster-boats, fishing-boats, rafts, or other water-craft, navigating any bay, harbor, or river, by hand-power, horse-power, sail, or by the current of the river, or which shall be anchored or moored in or near the channel or fairway of any bay, harbor, or river, shall carry one or more good white lights, which shall be placed in such manner as shall be prescribed by the board of supervising inspectors of steam-vessels.

Rule thirteen. Open boats, when at anchor or stationary, shall exhibit a bright white light. They shall not, however, be prevented from using a flare-up, in addition, if considered expedient.

Rule fourteen. The exhibition of any light on board of a vessel of war of the United States may be suspended whenever, in the opinion of the Secretary of the Navy, the commander in chief of a squadron, or the commander of a vessel acting singly, the special character of the service may require it. The exhibition of any light on board of a revenue cutter of the United States may be suspended whenever, in the opinion of the commander of the vessel, the special character of the service may require it.

STEERING AND SAILING RULES.

Rule 16. Risk of collision can, when circumstances permit, be ascertained by carefully watching the compass bearing of an approaching vessel. If the bearing does not appreciably change such risk should be deemed to exist.

This section was expressly reenacted to read as above by act of March 3, 1897, section 12 (29 Stat., 690).

Rule 17. When two sailing vessels are approaching one another, so as to involve risk of collision, one of them shall keep out of the way of the other, as follows, namely:

Rule nineteen. If two vessels under steam are crossing so as to involve risk of collision, the vessel which has the other on her own starboard side shall keep out of the way of the other.

Rule twenty. If two vessels, one of which is a sail-vessel and the other a steam-vessel, are proceeding in such directions as to involve risk of collision, the steam-vessel shall keep out of the way of the sail-vessel.

Sec. 4615. [Duties of commanding officer upon making capture.] The commanding officer of any vessel making a capture shall secure the documents of the ship and cargo, including the log-book, with all other documents, letters, and other papers found on board, and make an inventory of the same, and seal them up, and send them, with the inventory, to the court in which proceedings are to be had, with a written statement that they are all the papers found, and are in the condition in which they were found; or explaining the absence of any documents or papers, or any change in their condition. He shall also send to such court, as witnesses, the master, one or more of the other officers, the supercargo, purser, or agent of the prize, and any person found on board whom he may suppose to be interested in, or to have knowledge respecting, the title, national character, or destination of the prize. He shall send the prize, with the documents, papers, and witnesses, under charge of a competent prize-master and prize-crew, into port for adjudication, explaining the absence of any usual witnesses; and in the absence of instructions from superior authority as to the port to which it shall be sent, he shall select such port as he shall deem most convenient, in view of the interests of probable claimants, as well as of the captors. If the captured vessel, or any part of the captured property, is not in condition to be sent in for adjudication, a survey shall be had thereon and an appraisalment made by persons as competent and impartial as can be obtained, and their reports shall be sent to the court in which proceedings are to be had; and such property, unless appropriated for the use of the Government, shall be sold by the authority of the commanding officer present, and the proceeds deposited with the assistant treasurer of the United States most accessible to such court, and subject to its order in the cause.—(Ibid., s. 1, p. 306. The Sally Magee, 3 Wall., 451; The Sir William Peel, 5 Wall., 517.)

See "Instructions for the Navy of the United States governing Maritime Warfare," Navy Department, June, 1917; see also sections

4294-4299, and 5310-5311, Revised Statutes; and see article 15 of section 1624, Revised Statutes.

Sec. 4616. [Statement of claim to share in prize.] If any vessel of the United States shall claim to share in a prize, either as having made the capture, or as having been within signal distance of the vessel or vessels making the capture, the commanding officer of such vessel shall make out a written statement of his claim, with the grounds on which it is founded, the principal facts tending to show what vessels made the capture, and what vessels were within signal distance of those making the capture, with reasonable particularity as to times, distances, localities, and signals made, seen, or answered; and such statement of claim shall be signed by him and sent to the court in which proceedings shall be had, and shall be filed in the cause.—(Ibid., s. 2, p. 307.)

By Navy personnel act of March 3, 1899, section 13 (30 Stat., 1007), it was provided that "all provisions of law authorizing the distribution among captors of the whole or any portion of the proceeds of vessels, or any property hereafter captured, condemned as prize, or providing for the payment of bounty for the sinking or destruction of vessels of the enemy hereafter occurring in time of war, are hereby repealed."

See section 1624, Revised Statutes, articles 16 and 17; and see sections 5310 and 5311, Revised Statutes.

Sec. 4617. [Duties of prize-master.] The prize-master shall make his way diligently to the selected port, and there immediately deliver to a prize-commissioner the documents and papers, and the inventory thereof, and make affidavit that they are the same, and are in the same condition as delivered to him, or explaining any absence or change of condition therein, and that the prize-property is in the same condition as delivered to him, or explaining any loss or damage thereto; and he shall further report to the district attorney and give to him all the information in his possession respecting the prize and her capture; and he shall deliver over the persons sent as witnesses to the custody of the marshal, and shall retain the prize in his custody until it shall be taken therefrom by process from the prize-court.—(Ibid., s. 3.)

See "Instructions for the Navy of the United States governing Maritime Warfare," Navy Department, June, 1917.

Sec. 4618. [Libel and proceedings by district attorney.] Upon receiving the report of the prize-master directed by the preceding section, the attorney of the United States for the district shall immediately file a libel against such prize property, and shall forthwith obtain a warrant from the court, directing the marshal to take it into his custody, and shall proceed diligently to obtain a condemnation and distribution thereof; and to that end shall see that the proper preparatory evidence is taken by the prize-commissioners, and that the prize-commissioners also take the depositions de bene esse of the prize-crew, and of other transient persons cognizant of any facts bearing on condemnation or distribution.—(Ibid., s. 4.)

Sec. 4619. [Duties of district attorneys; claim for damages against captors.] The district attorneys of the several judicial districts shall represent the interests of the United States in all prize-causes, and shall not act as separate counsel for the captors on any private retainer or compensation from them, unless in a question between the claimants and the captors, on a demand for damages. They shall examine all fees, costs, and expenses, sought to be charged on any prize-fund, and protect the interest of the captors and of the United States. The district attorneys of all districts in which any prize-causes are or may be pending shall, as often as once in three months, send to the Secretary of the Navy a statement of the condition of all prize-causes pending in their districts, in such form and embracing such particulars as the Secretary of the Navy shall require.—(Ibid.)

By section 970, Revised Statutes, it is provided that "When, in any prosecution commenced on account of the seizure of any vessel, goods, wares, or merchandise, made by any collector or other officer, under any act of Congress authorizing such seizure, judgment is rendered for the claimant, but it appears to the court that there was reasonable cause of seizure, the court shall cause a proper certificate thereof to be entered, and the claimant shall not, in such case, be entitled to costs, nor shall the person who made the seizure, nor the prosecutor, be liable to suit or judgment on account of such suit or prosecution: Provided, That the vessel, goods, wares, or merchandise be, after judgment, forthwith returned to such claimant or his agent."

See note to Constitution, Article I, section 8, clause 13, under "IV. Responsibility of military authorities for illegal acts"; see also articles 16 and 17, section 1624, Revised Statutes.

Sec. 4621. [Appointment of prize-commissioners; retired naval officer.] Any district court may appoint prize-commissioners, not exceeding three in number; of whom one shall be a retired naval officer, approved by the Secretary of the Navy, who shall receive no other compensation than his pay in the Navy, and who shall protect the interests of the captors and of the Department of the Navy in the prize-property; and at least one of the others shall be a member of the bar of the court, of not less than three years' standing, and acquainted with the taking of depositions.—(30 June, 1864, c. 174, s. 5, v. 13, p. 307.)

Sec. 4622. [Duties of prize-commissioners.] The prize-commissioners, or one of them, shall receive from the prize-master the documents and papers, and inventory thereof, and shall take the affidavit of the prize-master required by section forty-six hundred and seventeen, and shall forthwith take the testimony of the witnesses sent in, separate from each other, on interrogatories prescribed by the court, in the manner usual in prize-courts; and the witnesses shall not be permitted to see the interrogatories, documents, or papers, or to consult with counsel, or with any persons interested, without special authority from the court; and witnesses who have the rights of neutrals shall be discharged as soon as practicable. The prize-commissioners shall also take depositions de bene esse of the prize-crew and others, at the request of the district attorney, on interrogatories prescribed by the court. They shall also, as soon as any prize-property comes within the district for adjudication, examine the same, and make an inventory thereof, founded on an actual examination, and report to the court whether any part of it is in a condition requiring immediate sale for the interests of all parties, and notify the district attorney thereof; and if it be necessary to the examination or making of the inventory that the cargo be unladen, they shall apply to the court for an order to the marshal to unlade the same, and shall, from time to time, report to the court anything relating to the condition of the property, or its custody or disposal, which may require any action by the court, but the custody of the property shall be in the marshal only. They shall also seasonably return into court, sealed and secured from inspection, the documents and papers which shall come to their hands, duly scheduled and numbered, and the other preparatory evidence, and the evidence taken de bene esse, and their own inventory of the prize-property; and if the captured vessel, or any of its cargo or stores, are such as in their judgment may be useful to the United States in war, they shall report the same to the Secretary of the Navy.—(Ibid., s. 6, p. 308.)

Sec. 4623. [Duties of marshal.] The marshal shall safely keep all prize-property under warrant from the court, and shall report to the court any cargo or other property that he thinks requires to be unladen and stored, or to be sold. He shall insure prize-property, if in his judgment it is for the interest of all concerned. He shall keep in his custody all persons found on board a prize and sent in as witnesses, until they are released by the prize-commissioners or the court. If a sale of property is ordered, he shall sell the same in the manner required by the court, and collect the purchase-money, and forthwith deposit the gross proceeds of the sales with the assistant treasurer of the United States nearest the place of sale, subject to the order of the court in the particular cause; and each marshal shall forward to the Secretary of the Navy, whenever and as often as the Secretary of the Navy may require it, a full statement of the condition of each prize and of the disposal made thereof.—(Ibid., s. 7.)

Sec. 4624. [Appraisal, etc., of property taken for Government.] Whenever any captured vessel, arms, munitions, or other material are taken for the use of the United States before it comes into the custody of the prize court, it shall be surveyed, appraised, and inventoried, by persons as competent and impartial as can be obtained, and the survey, appraisal, and inventory shall be sent to the court in which proceedings are to be had; and if taken afterward, sufficient notice shall first be given to enable the court to have the property appraised for the protection of the rights of the claimants and captors. In all cases of prize-property taken for or appropriated to the use of the Government, the Department for whose use it is taken or appropriated shall deposit the value thereof with the assistant treasurer of the United States nearest to the place of the session of the court, subject to the order of the court in the cause.—(Ibid., s. 27, p. 314.)

See "Instructions for the Navy of the United States governing Maritime Warfare," Navy Department, June 1917.

Sec. 4625. [Proceedings for adjudication; property not sent in.] If by reason of the condition of the captured property, or if because the whole has been appropriated to the use of the United States, no part of it has been or can be sent in for adjudication, or if the property has been entirely lost or destroyed, proceedings for adjudication may be commenced in any district the Secretary of the Navy may designate; and in any such case the proceeds of anything sold, or the value of anything taken or appropriated for the use of the United States, shall be deposited with the assistant treasurer in or nearest to that district, subject to the order of the court in the cause. If, when no property can be sent in for adjudication, the Secretary of the Navy shall not, within three months after any capture, designate a district for the institution of proceedings, the captors may institute proceedings for adjudication in any district. And if in any case of capture no proceedings for adjudication are commenced within a reasonable time, any parties claiming the captured property may, in any district court as a court of prize, move for a monition to show cause why such proceedings shall not be commenced, or institute an original suit in such court for restitution, and the monition issued in either case shall be served on the attorney of the United States for the district, and on the Secretary of the Navy, as well as on such other persons as the court shall order to be notified.—(30 June, 1864, c. 174, s. 28, v. 13, p. 314.)

See "Instructions for the Navy of the United States governing Maritime Warfare," Navy Department, June 1917.

Sec. 4626. [Delivery of property on stipulation.] No prize-property shall be delivered to the claimants on stipulation, deposit, or other security, except where there has been a decree of restitution and the captors have appealed therefrom, or where the court, after a full hearing on the preparatory proofs, has refused to condemn the property on those proofs, and has given the captors leave to take further proofs, or where the claimant of any property shall satisfy the court that the same has a peculiar and intrinsic value to him, independent of its market-value. In any of these cases, the court may deliver the property on stipulation or deposit of its value, if satisfied that the rights and interests of the United States and captors, or of other claimants, will not be prejudiced thereby; but a satisfactory appraisement shall be first made, and an opportunity given to the district attorney and naval prize-commissioner to be heard as to the appointment of appraisers. Any money deposited in lieu of stipulation, and all money collected on a stipulation, not being costs, shall be deposited with the assistant treasurer, in the same manner as proceeds of a sale.—(Ibid., s. 26, p. 313.)

Sec. 4627. [When property may be sold.] Whenever any prize-property is condemned, or at any stage of the proceedings is found by the court to be perishing, perishable, or liable to deteriorate or depreciate, or whenever the costs of keeping the same are disproportionate to its value, the court shall order a sale of such property; and whenever, after the return-day on the libel, all the parties in interest who have appeared in the cause agree thereto, the court may make such order; and no appeal shall operate to prevent the making or execution of such order.—(Ibid., s. 8, p. 308.)

Sec. 4628. [Mode of making sale.] Upon a sale of any prize-property by order of the court, the Secretary of the Navy shall employ an auctioneer of known skill in the branch of business to which any sale pertains, to make the sale, but the sale shall be conducted under the supervision of the marshal, and the collecting and depositing of the gross proceeds shall be by the auctioneer or his agent. Before any sale the marshal shall cause full catalogues and schedules to be prepared and circulated, and a copy of each shall be returned by the marshal to the court in each cause. The marshal shall cause all sales to be advertised fully and conspicuously in newspapers ordered by the court, and by posters, and he shall, at least five days before the sale, serve notice thereof upon the naval prize-commissioner, and the goods shall be open to inspection at least three days before the sale.—(Ibid.)

Sec. 4629. [Transfer of property to another district for sale.] Whenever it appears to the court, in the case of any prize-property ordered to be sold, that it will be for the interest of all parties to have it sold in another district, the court may direct the marshal to transfer the same to the district selected by the court for the sale, and to insure the same, with proper orders as to the time and manner of selling the same. It shall be the duty of the marshal so to transfer the property, and keep and sell the same in like manner as if the property were in his own district; and he shall deposit the gross proceeds of the sale with the assistant treasurer nearest to the place of sale, subject to the order of the court in which the adjudication thereon is pending. The necessary expenses attending the insuring, transferring, receiving, keeping, and selling the property shall be a charge upon it and upon the proceeds thereof; and whenever any such expense is paid in advance by the marshal, and he is not repaid from the proceeds, any amount not so repaid shall be allowed to him, as in case of expenses incurred in suits in which the United States is a party. The Secretary of the Navy may, in like manner, either by a general regulation or by special direction in any cause, require a marshal to transfer any prize-property from the district in which the judicial proceedings are pending, to any other district for sale; and the same proceedings shall be had as if such transfer had been made by order of the court.—(Ibid., s. 30, p. 315.)

Sec. 4630. [Share of captors.] The net proceeds of all property condemned as prize, shall, when the prize was of superior or equal force to the vessel or vessels making the capture, be decreed to the captors; and when of inferior force, one-half shall be decreed to the United States and the other half to the captors, except that in case of privateers and letters of marque, the whole shall be decreed to the captors, unless it shall be otherwise provided in the commissions issued to such vessels.—(Ibid., s. 10, p. 309.)

See act of March 3, 1899, quoted under section 4616, Revised Statutes; and see sections 5310 and 5311, Revised Statutes.

Sec. 4631. [Distribution of proceeds to captors.] All prize-money adjudged to the captors shall be distributed in the following proportions:

First. To the commanding officer of a fleet or squadron, one-twentieth part of all prize money awarded to any vessel or vessels under his immediate command.

Second. To the commanding officer of a division of a fleet or squadron, on duty under the orders of the commander-in-chief of such fleet or squadron, a sum equal to one-fiftieth part of any prize-money awarded to a vessel of such division for a capture made while under his command, such fiftieth part to be deducted from the moiety due to the United States, if there be such moiety, otherwise from the amount awarded to the captors; but such fiftieth part shall not be in addition to any share which may be due to the commander of the division, and which he may elect to receive, as commander of a single ship making or assisting in the capture.

Third. To the fleet-captain, one-hundredth part of all prize-money awarded to any vessel or vessels of the fleet or squadron in which he is serving, except in a case where the capture is made by the vessel on board of which he is serving at the time of such capture; and in such case he shall share, in proportion to his pay, with the other officers and men on board such vessel.

Fourth. To the commander of a single vessel, one-tenth part of all the prize-money awarded to the vessel under his command, if such vessel at the time of the capture was under the command of the commanding officer of a fleet or squadron, or a division, and three-twentieths if his vessel was acting independently of such superior officer.

Fifth. After the foregoing deductions, the residue shall be distributed and proportioned among all others doing duty on board, including the fleet-captain, and borne upon the books of the ship, in proportion to their respective rates of pay in the service.—(Ibid. 8 June, 1874, c. 256, v. 18, p. 63.)

distribution of salvage, etc.; see also sections 5310 and 5311, Revised Statutes.

Sec. 4632. [What vessels entitled to share.] All vessels of the Navy within signal-distance of the vessel or vessels making the capture, under such circumstances and in such condition as to be able to render effective aid, if required, shall share in the prize; and in case of vessels not in the Navy, none shall be entitled to share except the vessel or vessels making the capture; in which term shall be included vessels present at and rendering actual assistance in the capture.—(30 June, 1864, c. 174, s. 10, v. 13, p. 309.)

See act of March 3, 1899, quoted under section 4616, Revised Statutes; and see sections

4642 and 4652, Revised Statutes, as to distribution of salvage, etc.

Sec. 4633. [What officers entitled to share.] No commanding officer of a fleet or squadron shall be entitled to receive any share of prizes captured by any vessel or vessels not under his command, nor of such prizes as may have been captured by any vessels intended to be placed under his command, before they have acted under his orders. Nor shall the commanding officer of a fleet or squadron, leaving the station where he had command, have any share in the prizes taken by ships left on such station after he has gone out of the limits of his command, nor after he has transferred his command to his successor. No officer or other person who shall have been temporarily absent on duty from a vessel on the books of which he continued to be borne, while so absent, shall be deprived, in consequence of such absence, of any prize-money to which he would otherwise be entitled. And he shall continue to share in the captures of the vessels to which he is attached, until regularly discharged therefrom.—(30 June, 1864, c. 174, s. 10, v. 13, c. 309.)

4642 and 4652, Revised Statutes, as to distribution of salvage, etc.

Sec. 4634. [Determination of shares.] Whenever a decree of condemnation is rendered, the court shall consider the claims of all vessels to participate in the proceeds, and for that purpose shall, at as early a stage of the cause as possible, order testimony to be taken tending to show what part should be awarded to the captors, and what vessels are entitled to share; and such testimony may be sworn to before any judge or commissioner of the courts of the United States, consul or commercial agent of the United States, or notary public, or any officer of the Navy highest in rank, reasonably accessible to the deponent. The court shall make a decree of distribution, determining what vessels are entitled to share in the prize, and whether the prize was of superior, equal, or inferior force to the vessel or vessels making the capture. The decree shall recite the amount of the gross proceeds of the prize subject to the order of the court, and the amount deducted therefrom for costs and expenses, and the amount remaining for distribution, and whether the whole of such residue is to go to the captors, or one-half to the captors, and one-half to the United States.—(Ibid., s. 9.)

4642 and 4652, Revised Statutes, as to distribution of salvage, etc.

Sec. 4636. [Appeals and amendments in prize cases.] The Supreme Court may, if, in its judgment, the purposes of justice require it, allow any amendment, either in form or substance, of any appeal in prize cases, or allow a prize appeal therein, if it appears that any notice of appeal or of intention to appeal was filed with the clerk of the district court within thirty days next after the rendition of the final decree therein.—(3 Mar., 1873, c. 230, s. 2, v. 17, p. 556.)

Sec. 4637. [Powers of district court after appeal.] Notwithstanding any appeal to the Supreme Court, the district court may make and execute all necessary orders for the custody and disposal of the prize-property; and in case of appeal from a decree of condemnation, may still proceed to make a decree of distribution so far as to determine what share of the prize shall go to the captors, and what vessels are entitled to participate therein.—(30 June, 1864, c. 174, s. 13, v. 13, p. 310.)

See act of March 3, 1899, quoted under section 4616, Revised Statutes.

Sec. 4638. [Security for costs.] The court may require any party, at any stage of the cause, and on claiming an appeal, to give security for costs.—(Ibid., s. 15, p. 311.)

Sec. 4639. [Costs and expenses.] All costs and all expenses incident to the bringing in, custody, preservation, insurance, sale, or other disposal of prize-property, when allowed by the court, shall be a charge upon such property, and shall be paid from the proceeds thereof, unless the court shall decree restitution free from such charge.—(Ibid., s. 14.)

Sec. 4640. [Payment of expenses from prize-fund.] No payments shall be made for any prize-fund, except upon the order of the court. All charges for work and labor, materials furnished, or money paid, shall be supported by affidavit or vouchers. The court may, at any time, order the payment, from the deposit made with the assistant treasurer in the cause, of any costs or charges accrued and allowed. When the cause is finally disposed of, the court shall make its order or orders on the assistant treasurer to pay the costs and charges allowed and unpaid; and in case the final decree shall be for restitution, or in case there shall be no money subject to the order of the court in the cause, any costs or charges allowed by the court, and not paid by the claimants, shall be a charge upon, and be paid out of, the fund for defraying the expenses of suits in which the United States is a party or interested.—(Ibid.)

Sec. 4641. [Payment of prize money.] The net amount decreed for distribution to the United States, or to vessels of the Navy, shall be ordered by the court to be paid into the Treasury of the United States, to be distributed according to the decree of the court. The Treasury Department shall credit the Navy Department with each amount received to be distributed to vessels of the Navy; and the persons entitled to share therein shall be severally credited in their accounts with the Navy Department with the amounts to which they are respectively entitled. In case of vessels not of the Navy, and not controlled by any Department of the Government, the distribution shall be made by the court to the several parties entitled thereto, and the amounts decreed to them shall be divided between the owners and the ship's company, according to any written agreement between them, and in the absence of such agreement, one-half to the owners and one-half to the ship's company, according to their respective rates of pay on board; and the court may appoint a commissioner to make such distribution, subject to the control of the court, who shall make due return of his doings, with proof of actual payments by him, and who shall receive no other compensation, directly or indirectly, than such as shall be allowed him by the court. In case of vessels not of the Navy, but controlled by either Executive Department, the whole amount decreed to the captors shall be divided among the ship's company.—(Ibid., s. 16.)

See act of March 3, 1899, quoted under section 4616, Revised Statutes.

Sec. 4642. [Distribution of salvage, etc.] All ransom-money, salvage, bounty, or proceeds of condemned property, accruing or awarded to any vessel of the Navy, shall be distributed and paid to the officers and men entitled thereto in the same manner as prize-money, under the direction of the Secretary of the Navy.—(Ibid., s. 11, p. 310.)

See act of March 3, 1899, noted under section 4616, Revised Statutes.

By act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 705), it was provided "that hereafter the Secretary of the Navy is authorized to cause vessels under his control adapted to the purpose, to afford salvage service to public or private vessels in distress: Provided, That when such salvage service is rendered by a vessel specially equipped for the purpose or by a tug, the Secretary of the Navy may determine and collect reasonable compensation therefor."

See act of March 9, 1920, sections 10 and 11 (41 Stat., 528), relating to suits for salvage.

Sec. 4644. [Clerks of district courts; accounts.] The clerk of each district court shall render, to the Secretary of the Treasury and the Secretary of the Navy, a semi-annual statement of all the sums allowed by the court, and ordered to be paid, within the previous half-year, to the district attorney and prize-commissioners for services, and to marshals for fees and commissions; and he shall, in all prize-causes in the district, for the purpose of the final decree of distribution, ascertain and keep an account of the amount deposited with the assistant treasurer, subject to the order of the court, in each prize-cause, and the amounts ordered to be paid therefrom as costs and charges, and the residue for distribution; and shall send copies of all final decrees of distribution to the Secretary of the Treasury and the Secretary of the Navy; and shall draw the orders of the court for the payment of all costs and allowances, and for the distribution of the residue. For these services he shall be entitled to receive the sum of twenty-five dollars in each prize-cause, which shall be in full for the services required by this action.—(Ibid., s. 17, p. 312.)

Sec. 4645. [Marshals; commissions allowed.] The marshal shall be allowed his actual and necessary expenses for the custody, care, preservation, insurance, sale, or other disposal of the prize-property, and for executing any order of the court respecting the same, and shall have a commission of one-quarter of one per centum on vessels, and of one-half of one per centum on all other prize-property, calculated on the gross proceeds of each sale; and if, after he has had any prize-property in his custody, and has actually performed labor and incurred responsibility for the care and preservation thereof, the same is taken by the United States for its own use without a sale, or if it is delivered on stipulation to the claimants, he shall, in case the same is condemned, be entitled to one-half the above commissions on the amount deposited by the United States to the order of the courts, or collected upon the stipulation. No charges of the marshal for expenses or disbursements shall be allowed, except upon his oath that the same have been actually and necessarily incurred for the purpose stated.—(Ibid., s. 18.)

Sec. 4646. [District attorney and prize-commissioners; compensation.] The district attorney and prize-commissioners, except the naval officer, shall be allowed a just and suitable compensation for their respective services in each prize-cause, to be adjusted and determined by the court, and to be paid as costs in the cause.—(Ibid., s. 20.)

See section 3667, Revised Statutes, and note thereto, as to naval pension fund.

Sec. 4647. [District attorney and prize-commissioners; accounts.] Each district attorney and prize-commissioner, except the naval officer, shall render to the Attorney-General an annual account of all sums he shall have received for all services in prize-causes within the previous year; and the district attorney shall be allowed to retain therefrom a sum not exceeding three thousand dollars a year, in addition to the maximum compensation allowed to be retained by him; under the provisions of Title XIII, "THE JUDICIARY," or in addition to any salary he may receive in lieu of such maximum compensation; and each such prize-commissioner shall be allowed to retain a sum not exceeding three thousand dollars a year, which shall be in full for all his official services in prize-causes; and any excess over those respective amounts shall be paid by the officer receiving the same into the Treasury of the United States, and shall be credited to the fund for paying naval pensions.—(30 June, 1864, c. 174, s. 21, v. 13, p. 312. 22 June, 1870, c. 150, s. 15, v. 16, p. 164.)

Sec. 4650. [Auctioneers; commissions.] The auctioneers employed to make sales of prize-property shall be entitled to receive commissions by a scale to be established by the Secretary of the Navy, not to exceed, in any case, one-half of one per centum on any sum exceeding ten thousand dollars on vessels, nor one per centum on that sum on other prize-property, which shall be in full for expenses, as well as for services; and in case no such scale shall be established, they shall be entitled to receive such compensation as the court shall deem just under the circumstances of each case.—(Ibid., s. 22.)

Sec. 4651. [Witnesses' fees.] Whenever the court shall allow fees to any witness in a prize-cause, or fees for taking evidence out of the district in which the court sits, and there is no money subject to its order in the cause, the same shall be paid by the marshal, and shall be repaid to him from any money deposited to the order of the court in the cause; and any amount not so repaid the marshal shall be allowed as witness-fees paid by him in cases in which the United States is a party.—(30 June, 1864, c. 174, s. 25, v. 13, p. 313.)

Sec. 4652. [Recaptures; salvage.] When any vessel or other property shall have been captured by any force hostile to the United States, and shall be recaptured, and it shall appear to the court that the same had not been condemned as prize before its recapture, by any competent authority, the court shall award a meet and competent sum as salvage, according to the circumstances of each case. If the captured property belonged to the United States, it shall be restored to the United States, and there shall be paid from the Treasury of the United States the salvage, costs, and expenses ordered by the court. If the recaptured property belonged to persons residing within or under the protection of the United States, the court shall adjudge the property to be restored to its owners, upon their claim, on the payment of such sum as the court may award as salvage, costs, and expenses. If the recaptured property belonged to any person permanently resident within the territory and under the protection of any foreign prince, government, or state in amity with the United States, and by the law or usage of such prince, government, or state, the property of a citizen of the United States would be restored under like circumstances of recapture, it shall be adjudged to be restored to such owner, upon his claim, upon such terms as by the law or usage of such prince, government, or state would be required of a citizen of the United States under like circumstances of recapture; or when no such law or usage shall be known, it shall be adjudged to be restored upon the payment of such salvage, costs, and expenses as the court shall order. The whole amount awarded as salvage shall be decreed to the captors, and no part to the United States, and shall be distributed as in the case of proceeds of property condemned as prize. Nothing in this Title shall be construed to contravene any treaty of the United States.—(Ibid., s. 29, p. 314.)

See section 4642, Revised Statutes, and note thereto, as to distribution of salvage.

LIGHTS AND BUOYS.

Sec. 4679. [Light-House Board; no additional compensation to officers.] No additional salary shall be allowed to any civil, military, or naval officer on account of his being employed on the Light-House Board, or being in any manner attached to the light-house service.—(31 Aug., 1852, c. 112, s. 17, v. 10, p. 120.)

By act of June 17, 1910, section 4 (36 Stat., 537), a bureau of light-houses was established in the Department of Commerce and Labor (now the Department of Commerce); and by section 5 of the same act it was provided that "all employees of or in the Light-House Board or the Light-House Establishment are hereby transferred to the bureau of light-houses, excepting, however, Army and Navy officers."

"Hereafter officers of the Army and Navy detailed for service in connection with the Light-House Establishment shall be paid their actual traveling expenses when traveling under orders on official duty to and from points which can not be conveniently reached by vessel or railroad." (Act Feb. 26, 1907, sec. 6, 34 Stat., 997; see also sec. 1566, R. S., and notes thereto, as to mileage and actual expenses of naval officers traveling on duty.)

By section 4671, Revised Statutes, it was provided that "an officer of the Army or Navy shall be assigned to each district as a light-house inspector, subject to the orders of the Light-House Board;" etc. Said section was expressly repealed by the act of June 17, 1910, section 13 (36 Stat., 539), which said act, section 11 (36 Stat., 538, 539) provided that "the President may, for a period not exceeding three years from the taking effect of this section, assign Army and Navy officers to act in lieu of the appointment of civilian light-house inspectors, but such Army and Navy officers shall not receive any salary or compensation in addition to the salary or compensation they are entitled to as such Army or Navy officers."

TITLE LVI.

THE COAST SURVEY.

Sec. 4684. [Employment of officers of Army and Navy.] The President shall carry into effect the plan of the board, as agreed upon by a majority of its members; and shall cause to be employed as many officers of the Army and Navy of the United States as will be compatible with the successful prosecution of the work; the officers of the Navy to be employed on the hydrographical parts, and the officers of the Army on the topographical parts of the work; and no officer of the Army or Navy shall receive any extra pay out of any appropriations for surveys.—(Ibid.)

The "board" referred to in this section is that provided for in section 4683, Revised Statutes, as follows: "All appropriations made for the work of surveying the coast of the United States shall be expended in accordance with the plan of reorganizing the mode of executing the survey which has been submitted to the President by a board of officers organized under the act of March three, eighteen hundred and forty-three, chapter one hundred."

Sec. 4686. [Power to employ vessels.] The President is authorized, for any of the purposes of surveying the coast of the United States, to cause to be employed such of the public vessels in actual service as he deems it expedient to employ, and to give such instructions for regulating their conduct as he deems proper, according to the tenor of this Title.—(10 Feb., 1807, c. 8, s. 3, v. 2, p. 414. 14 April, 1818, c. 58, s. 1, v. 3, p. 425.)

Sec. 4687. [Officers of the Army and Navy; manner of employment.] Officers of the Army and Navy shall, as far as practicable, be employed in the work of surveying the coast of the United States, whenever and in the manner required by the Department having charge thereof.—(17 June, 1844, c. 105, s. 1, v. 5, pp. 681, 691.)

Sec. 4688. [Allowance for subsistence.] The Secretary of the Treasury may make such allowances to the officers and men of the Army and Navy, while employed on Coast Survey service, for subsistence, in addition to their compensation, as he may deem necessary, not exceeding the sum authorized by the Treasury regulation of the eleventh day of May, eighteen hundred and forty-four.—(12 June, 1858, c. 154, s. 1, v. 11, pp. 319, 320.)

For restriction upon allowance to officers of Army and Navy attached to the Coast and

See sections 3667, 3689, 4647, and 4752-4757, Revised Statutes.

Maintenance of Naval Home.—The annual naval appropriation act, in appropriating for the maintenance of the Naval Home, Philadelphia, Pa., provides that the sum so appropriated "shall be paid out of the income of the naval pension fund" (e. g., act June 4, 1920, 41 Stat., 818).

Payment of naval pensions.—The annual act making appropriation for Army and Navy pensions provides that the sum so appropriated for Navy pensions "shall be paid from the income of the Navy pension fund, so far as the same shall be sufficient for that purpose" (e. g., act. Feb. 16, 1921, 41 Stat., 1104). See also section 4755, Revised Statutes.

History of naval pension fund.—See "Manual for the Medical Department of the United States Navy," 1917, paragraphs 3761-3784.

"All moneys derived from the sale of material at the Naval Home, which was originally purchased from moneys appropriated from the income from the naval pension fund, and all moneys derived from the rental of Naval Home property, shall hereafter be turned into the naval pension fund." (Act Mar. 4, 1917, 39 Stat., 1175.)

Pensions of deceased inmates of the Naval Home are to escheat to the naval pension fund in certain cases. (See act June 30, 1914, 38 Stat., 398, quoted under sec. 4813, R. S.)

Money belonging to deceased inmates of the Naval Home is to be credited to the naval pension fund in certain cases. (See act June 30, 1914, 38 Stat., 398.)

Sec. 4752. [Navy pension-fund, prize money accruing to United States.] All money accruing or which has already accrued to the United States from sale of prizes shall be and remain forever a fund for the payment of pensions to the officers, seamen, and marines who may be entitled to receive the same; and if such fund be insufficient for the purpose, the public faith is pledged to make up the deficiency; but if it should be more than sufficient, the surplus shall be applied to the making of further provision for the comfort of the disabled officers, seamen, and marines.—(17 July, 1862, c. 204, s. 11, v. 12, p. 607.)

See note to section 4750, Revised Statutes; and see sections 4613–4652, Revised Statutes, as to capture and sale of prizes.

Sec. 4753. [Navy pension-fund, how invested.] The Secretary of the Navy, as trustee of the naval pension-fund, is directed to cause to be invested in the registered securities of the United States, on the first day of January and the first day of July of each year, so much of such fund then in the Treasury of the United States as may not be required for the payment of naval pensions for the then current fiscal year; and upon the requisition of the Secretary, so much of the fund as may not be required for such payment of pensions accruing during the current fiscal year shall be held in the Treasury on the days above named in each year, subject to his order, for the purpose of such immediate investment; and the interest payable in coin upon the securities in which the fund may be invested, shall be so paid, when due, to the order of the Secretary of the Navy, and he is authorized and directed to exchange the amount of such interest when paid in coin, for so much of the legal currency of the United States as may be obtained therefor at the current rates of premium on gold, and to deposit the interest so converted in the Treasury to the credit of the naval pension-fund; but nothing herein contained shall be construed to interfere with the payment of naval pensions under the supervision of the Secretary of the Interior, as regulated by law.—(1 July, 1864, Res. No. 62, v. 13, p. 414.)

See note to section 4750, Revised Statutes.

Sec. 4754. [Navy pension-fund, rate of interest.] The interest on the naval pension-fund shall hereafter be at the rate of three per centum per annum in lawful money.—(23 July, 1868, c. 229, s. 2, v. 15, p. 170.)

See note to section 4750, Revised Statutes.

Sec. 4755. [Navy pensions payable from fund.] The Navy pensions shall be paid from the Navy pension-fund, but no payments shall be made therefrom except upon appropriations authorized by Congress.—(23 July, 1868, c. 229, s. 2, v. 15, p. 170. 11 July, 1870, c. 238, v. 16, p. 222. 20 June, 1874, c. 335, v. 18, p. 115. 23 Mar., 1876, c. 30, v. 19, p. 8. 19 Jan., 1877, c. 27, v. 19, p. 224.)

See note to section 4750, Revised Statutes.

Sec. 4756. [Disabled enlisted men, twenty years' service.] There shall be paid out of the naval pension-fund to every person who, from age or infirmity, is disabled from sea-service, but who has served as an enlisted person or as an appointed petty officer, or both, in the Navy or Marine Corps for the period of twenty years, and not been discharged for misconduct, in lieu of being provided with a home in the Naval Asylum, Philadelphia, if he so elects, a sum equal to one-half the pay of his rating at the time he was discharged, to be paid to him quarterly, under the direction of the Commissioner of Pensions; and applications for such pension shall be made to the Secretary of the Navy, who, upon being satisfied that the applicant comes within the provisions of this section, shall certify the same to the Commissioner of Pensions, and such certificate shall be his warrant for making payment as herein authorized.—(2 Mar., 1867, c. 174, s. 6, v. 14, p. 516.)

This section was expressly amended to read as above by act of December 23, 1886 (24 Stat., 353), the amendment consisting of inserting therein the words, "or as an appointed petty officer, or both," after the words, "as an enlisted person."

"The laws providing for gratuities or payments in the event of death in the service and existing pension laws shall not be applicable after the enactment of this amendment to any person in the active military or naval service on the sixth day of October, nineteen hundred and seventeen, or who thereafter entered the active military or naval service, or to their widows, children, or their dependents, except in so far as rights under any such law have heretofore accrued." (Act Oct. 6, 1917, sec. 312, 40 Stat., 408, as amended by act of June 25, 1918, sec. 17, 40 Stat., 613.)

"The pensions of beneficiaries of the Naval Home shall be disposed of in the same manner as prescribed for inmates of the Soldiers' Home, * * * under such regulations as the Secretary of the Navy may prescribe." (Act June 30, 1914, 38 Stat., 398.) See note to section 4813, Revised Statutes.

Jurisdiction of the Secretary of the Navy.—The Secretary of the Navy has exclusive jurisdiction to determine who are entitled to the money benefits granted by section 4756 of the Revised Statutes, and after that official has issued a certificate allowing same, the Commissioner of Pensions, in making payment of said money benefits, acts only in a ministerial capacity. (31 Op. Atty. Gen., 127; affirmed, Op. Atty. Gen., Nov. 7, 1917, file 26510-1022: 11; see C. M. O. 37-1918, p. 20.)

See note to section 471, Revised Statutes, as to jurisdiction of the Secretary of the Navy and the Commissioner of Pensions.

Effect of War Risk Insurance Act.—Section 4756, Revised Statutes, is, under the established practice of the Navy Department, to be regarded as one of the "existing pension laws" referred to in section 312 of the War Risk Insurance Act of October 6, 1917 (quoted above). Payments under section 4756 can not, therefore, be any longer made except so far as rights under the said section had accrued on October 6, 1917. (31 Op. Atty. Gen., 296.)

A sergeant in the Marine Corps who, prior to the enactment of the War Risk Insurance Act of October 6, 1917 (above quoted), had served in the corps for more than 21 years, and who had become "disabled from sea service" by a wound received in action in June 1916, but who, though entitled to honorable discharge from the service on October 6, 1917, did not actually receive his discharge until November 5, 1917, is entitled both to the benefits of section 4756, Revised Statutes, and also to whatever allowance he may be otherwise entitled to under the provisions of the War Risk Insurance Act. (31 Op. Atty. Gen., 296.)

In this case the rights of the sergeant under section 4756 had "accrued" on October 6, 1917, and the fact that he did not actually receive his discharge until November 5, 1917, is immaterial. (31 Op. Atty. Gen., 296.)

Allowance in addition to pension.—Allowances under sections 4756 and 4757, Revised Statutes, do not fall within the prohibition of section 4715, Revised Statutes (prohibiting the allowance of more than one pension at the same time), and may therefore be paid in addition to a pension under the general pension laws. (31 Op. Atty. Gen., 268.)

Allowance in addition to War Risk compensation.—Assuming that the provisions of the War Risk Insurance Act, providing compensation for injuries, are to be regarded as constituting a general pension law, nevertheless the prohibition of section 4715, Revised Statutes, against the allowance of more than one pension at the same time to the same person does not affect the case of allowances under section 4756, Revised Statutes. (31 Op. Atty. Gen., 296, citing 31 Op. Atty. Gen., 268.)

See note above, under "Effect of War Risk Insurance Act."

Allowance to inmates of Naval Home.—The money benefits provided for in section 4756 of the Revised Statutes are "pensions" within the purview of section 4813 of the Revised Statutes and the pertinent provision of the act of June 30, 1914 (quoted above), and such money benefits inure to the grantees concurrently with maintenance in the Naval Home. (31 Op. Atty. Gen., 268. See secs. 4757 and 4813, R. S., and notes thereto.)

Allowance to inmates of St. Elizabeths Hospital.—Allowances under sections 4756 and 4757, Revised Statutes, which accrue to inmates of St. Elizabeths Hospital, should be paid to the superintendent of the hospital, notwithstanding such inmates are represented by a legal guardian or committee. (31 Op. Atty. Gen., 354.) See sections 1551, 4838, and 4839, Revised Statutes.

For other cases, see note to section 4757, Revised Statutes.

Sec. 4757. [Disabled enlisted men, ten years' service.] Every disabled person who has served in the Navy or Marine Corps as an enlisted man or as an appointed petty officer, or both, for a period not less than ten years, and not been discharged for misconduct, may apply to the Secretary of the Navy for aid from the surplus income of the naval pension-fund; and the Secretary of the Navy is authorized to convene a board of not less than three naval officers, one of whom shall be a surgeon, to examine into the condition of the applicant, and to recommend a suitable amount for his relief, and for a specified time, and upon the approval of such recommendation by the Secretary of the Navy, and certificate thereof to the Commissioner of Pensions, the amount shall be paid in the same manner as is provided in the preceding section for the payment to persons disabled by long service in the Navy; but no allowance so made shall exceed the rate of a pension for full disability corresponding to the grade of the applicant, nor, if in addition to a pension, exceed one-fourth the rate of such pension.—(2 Mar., 1867, c. 174, s. 6, v. 14, p. 516.)

This section was expressly amended to read as above by act of December 23, 1886 (24 Stat., 353), the amendment consisting of inserting the words, "or as an appointed petty officer, or both," after the words, "as an enlisted man."

See note to section 4756, Revised Statutes.

Allowance to inmates of Naval Home.—Allowances under section 4757, Revised Statutes, are "pensions" within the meaning of section 4813 of the Revised Statutes and the act of June 30, 1914 (33 Stat., 398), and should therefore be disposed of, in cases where the beneficiaries are inmates of the Naval Home, in the manner prescribed by that act, that is, paid to the governor of the Naval Home for the use of the grantees. (31 Op. Atty. Gen., 268.)

See note to section 4756, Revised Statutes; and see section 4813, Revised Statutes, and note thereto.

Sec. 4787. [Artificial limbs.] Every officer, soldier, seaman, and marine, who was disabled, during the war for the suppression of the rebellion, in the military or naval service, and in the line of duty, or in consequence of wounds received or disease contracted therein, and who was furnished by the War Department, since the seventeenth day of June, eighteen hundred and seventy, with an artificial limb or apparatus for resection, or who was entitled to receive such limb or apparatus since said date, shall be entitled to receive a new limb or apparatus at the expiration of every five years thereafter, under such regulations as have been or may be prescribed by the Surgeon-General of the Army. [The provisions of this section shall apply to all officers, non-commissioned officers, enlisted and hired men of the land and naval forces of the United States, who, in the line of their duty as such, shall have lost limbs or sustained bodily injuries depriving them of the use of any of their limbs, to be determined by the Surgeon-General of the Army; and the term of five years herein specified shall be held to commence in each case with the filing of the application for the benefits of this section.]—(27 July, 1868, c. 264, s. 14, v. 15, p. 237. 17 June, 1870, c. 132, s. 1, v. 16, p. 153. 30 June, 1870, c. 179, v. 16, p. 174. 23 Mar., 1876, c. 30, v. 19, p. 8. 27 Feb., 1877, c. 69, v. 19, p. 252.)

This section is reproduced above as it appears in the second edition of the Revised Statutes. The portion thereof in brackets was added to the original section by act of February 27, 1877 (19 Stat., 252).

By act of August 15, 1876 (19 Stat., 203-204), provision was made for furnishing artificial limbs or appliances or commutation therefor to "every officer, soldier, seaman and marine, who, in the line of duty, in the military or naval service of the United States, shall have lost a limb, or sustained bodily injuries, depriving him of the use of any of his limbs." (See act cited.)

By act of March 3, 1891 (26 Stat., 1103), it was provided "That section forty-seven hundred and eighty-seven of the Revised Statutes of the United States be amended by striking out the word 'five' where it occurs therein, and inserting in lieu thereof the word "three" so that when amended said section will read as follows: Every officer, soldier, seaman, and marine who was disabled during the war for the suppression of the rebellion, in the military or naval service, and in the line of duty, or in consequence of wounds received or disease contracted therein, and who was furnished by the War Department since the seventeenth day of June, eighteen hundred and seventy, with an artificial limb or apparatus for resection, who was entitled to receive such limb or apparatus since said date, shall be entitled to receive a new limb or apparatus at the expiration of every three years thereafter, under such regulations as have been or may be prescribed by the Surgeon-General of the Army.

See note to section 1176, Revised Statutes.

Sec. 4788. [Commutation for artificial limbs.] Every person entitled to the benefits of the preceding section may, if he so elects, receive, instead of such limb or apparatus, the money value thereof, at the following rates, namely: For artificial legs, seventy-five dollars; for arms, fifty dollars; for feet, fifty dollars; for apparatus for resection, fifty dollars.—(17 June, 1870, c. 132, s. 1, v. 16, p. 153. 15 Aug., 1876, c. 300, v. 19, p. 203.)

See act of August 15, 1876 (19 Stat., 203-204), and note to section 1176, Revised Statutes.

Sec. 4789. [Commutation paid by Commissioner of Pensions.] The Surgeon-General shall certify to the Commissioner of Pensions a list of all soldiers who elect to receive money commutation instead of limbs or apparatus, with the amount due to each, and the Commissioner of Pensions shall cause the same to be paid to such soldiers in the same manner as pensions are paid.—(17 June, 1870, c. 132, s. 2, v. 16, p. 153.)

See act of August 15, 1876 (19 Stat., 203-204), and note to section 1176, Revised Statutes; see also act of March 3, 1891 (26 Stat., 979).

Sec. 4790. [Commutation to those who can not use artificial limb.] Every person in the military or naval service who lost a limb during the war of the rebellion, [or is entitled to the benefits of section forty-seven hundred and eighty-seven,] but from the nature of his injury is not able to use an artificial limb, shall be entitled to the benefits of section forty-seven hundred and eighty-eight, and shall receive money commutation as therein provided.—(Ibid., s. 3. 27 Feb., 1877, c. 69, v. 19, p. 252.)

This section was amended to read as above by act of February 27, 1877 (19 Stat., 252), which inserted therein the words inclosed in brackets.

Sec. 4791. [Transportation to persons receiving artificial limbs.] The Secretary of War is authorized and directed to furnish to the persons embraced by the provisions of section forty-seven hundred and eighty-seven, transportation to and from their homes and the place where they may be required to go to obtain artificial limbs provided for them under authority of law. [The transportation allowed for having artificial limbs fitted shall be furnished by the Quartermaster-General of the Army, the cost of which shall be refunded from the appropriations for invalid pensions.]—(28 July, 1866, c. 305, v. 14, p. 342. 23 Mar., 1876, c. 30, v. 19, p. 8. 15 Aug., 1876, c. 300, s. 2, v. 19, p. 204. 27 Feb., 1877, c. 69, v. 19, p. 252.)

This section was amended to read as above by act of February 27, 1877 (19 Stat., 252), which added thereto the words inclosed in brackets.

By act of June 12, 1906 (34 Stat., 255), it was provided that "all persons" admitted to treatment in the general hospital at Fort Bayard, New Mexico, shall, while patients therein, "be subject to the rules and articles for the government of the armies of the United States;" and by the act of March 2, 1907 (34 Stat., 1172), it was provided that the hospital at Fort Bayard, New Mexico, for the treatment of tuberculosis, "shall be opened to the treatment of the officers and men of the Navy and Marine Corps." (See notes to secs. 1342, 1621, and 1624, R. S., as to persons subject to military law.)

By act of March 3, 1919, section 2 (40 Stat., 1302), there were permanently transferred to the Treasury Department for the use of the Public Health Service, "such hospitals, with other necessary buildings, hereafter vacated by the War Department, as may be required and found suitable for the needs of the Public Health Service for hospital or sanatoria purposes;" and by the same act, section 3 (40 Stat., 1303), it was provided that "the President is authorized to direct the transfer to the Treasury Department of the United States of such lands or parts of lands, buildings, fixtures, appliances, furnishings, or furniture under the control of any other department of the Government not required for the purposes of such department and suitable for the uses of the Public Health Service."

See section 4810, Revised Statutes, and note thereto

Sec. 4812. [Allowance of rations to Navy hospitals.] For every Navy officer, seaman, or marine admitted into a Navy hospital, the institution shall be allowed one ration per day during his continuance therein, to be deducted from the account of the United States with such officer, seaman, or marine.—(Ibid., s. 5.)

As to rations allowed in Navy and Marine Corps see sections 1577-1585 and 1615, Revised Statutes, and notes thereto.

As to medicines and medical attendance allowed persons in the Navy, see section 1586, Revised Statutes.

Sec. 4813. [Allowance from pensions to Navy hospitals.] Whenever any Navy officer, seaman, or marine, entitled to a pension, is admitted to a Navy hospital, the pension, during his continuance in the hospital, shall be paid to the Secretary of the Navy and deducted from the account of such pensioner.—(Ibid.)

Amendment to this section was made by act of May 4, 1898 (30 Stat., 377), which provided that "whenever any officer, seaman, or marine entitled to a pension is admitted to the Naval Home at Philadelphia, or to a naval hospital, his pension, while he remains there, shall be deducted from his accounts and paid to the Secretary of the Navy for the benefit of the fund from which such home or hospital, respectively, is maintained; and section forty-eight hundred and thirteen of the Revised Statutes of the United States is hereby amended accordingly." This amendment was repeated in identical language in the naval appropriation act of March 3, 1899 (30 Stat., 1027).

By act of June 30, 1914 (38 Stat., 398), it was provided that "the pensions of beneficiaries of the Naval Home shall be disposed of in the same manner as prescribed for inmates of the Soldiers' Home, as provided for in section four of the Act approved March third, eighteen hundred and eighty-three, under such regulations as the Secretary of the Navy may prescribe, except that in the case of death of any beneficiary leaving no heirs at law nor next of kin any pension due him shall, subject to the foregoing provisions, escheat to the naval pension fund."

By act of March 3, 1883, section 4 (22 Stat., 564), relating to the Soldiers' Home, and which was extended to the Naval Home, with certain modifications, by the act of June 30, 1914, above-quoted, it was provided that "Any inmate of the Home who is receiving a pension from the government, and who has a child, wife, or parent living, shall be entitled, by filing with the pension agent from whom he receives his money a written direction to that effect, to have his pension, or any part of it, paid to such child, wife, or parent. The pensions of all who now are or shall hereafter become inmates of the Home, except such as shall be assigned as aforesaid, shall be paid to the treasurer of the Home. The money thus derived shall not become a part of the funds of the Home, but shall be held by the treasurer in trust for the pensioner to whom it would otherwise have been paid, and such part of it as shall not sooner have been paid to him shall be paid to him on his discharge from the institution. The board of commissioners may from time to time pay over to any inmate such part of his pension-money as they think best for his interest and consistent with the discipline and good order of the Home, but such pensioner shall not be entitled to demand or have the same so long as he remains an inmate of the Home. In case of the death of any pensioner, any pension money due him and remaining in the hands of the treasurer shall be paid to his legal heirs, if demand is made within three years; otherwise the same shall escheat to the Home."

The superintendent shall be a well-educated physician, possessing competent experience in the care and treatment of the insane; he shall reside on the premises and devote his whole time to the welfare of the institution; he shall, subject to the approval of the board of visitors, appoint a responsible disbursing agent for the institution, who shall give a bond satisfactory to the Secretary of the Interior, and the said superintendent shall engage and discharge all needful and useful employees in the care of the insane and all laborers on the farm and determine their wages and duties; he shall also be an ex officio secretary of the board of visitors. During the time that any pensioner shall be an inmate of the Government Hospital for the Insane, all money due or becoming due upon his or her pension shall be paid by the pension agent to the superintendent or disbursing agent of the hospital, upon a certificate by such superintendent that the pensioner is an inmate of the hospital and is living, and such pension money shall be by said superintendent or disbursing agent disbursed and used, under regulations to be prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior, for the benefit of the pensioner, and, in case of a male pensioner, his wife, minor children, and dependent parents, or, if a female pensioner, her minor children, if any, in the order named, and to pay his or her board and maintenance in the hospital, the remainder of such pension money, if any, to be placed to the credit of the pensioner and to be paid to the pensioner or the guardian of the pensioner in the event of his or her discharge from the hospital; or, in the event of the death of said pensioner while an inmate of said hospital, shall, if a female pensioner, be paid to her minor children, and, in the case of a male pensioner, be paid to his wife, if living; if no wife survives him, then to his minor children; and in case there is no wife nor minor children, then the said unexpended balance to his or her credit shall be applied to the general uses of said hospital: Provided, That in the case of any pensioner transferred to the hospital from the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers any pension money to his credit at said Home at the time of his said transfer shall be transferred with him to said hospital and placed to his credit therein, to be expended as hereinbefore provided, and in case of his return from said hospital to the Home any balance to his credit at said hospital shall in like manner be transferred to said Home, to be expended in accordance with the rules established in regard thereto, * * *.

Third. Men who, while in the service of the United States, in the Army Navy, or Marine Corps, have been admitted to the hospital, and have been thereafter discharged from it on the supposition that they have recovered their reason, and have, within three years after such discharge, become again insane from causes existing at the time of such discharge, and have no adequate means of support.

Fourth. Indigent insane persons who have been in either of the said services and been discharged therefrom on account of disability arising from such insanity.

Fifth. The production of the honorable discharge of a deceased man in the former case, and a duly executed permit of the Secretary of War in the latter case, shall be sufficient authority for the superintendent of any cemetery to permit the interment. Army nurses honorably discharged from their service as such may be buried in any national cemetery, and, if in a destitute condition, free of cost. The Secretary of War is authorized to issue certificates to those Army nurses entitled to such burial.

Sec. 5297. [Insurrection against State.] In case of an insurrection in any State against the government thereof, it shall be lawful for the President, on application of the legislature of such State, or of the executive, when the legislature cannot be convened, to call forth such number of the militia of any other State or States, which may be applied for, as he deems sufficient to suppress such insurrection; or, on like application, to employ, for the same purposes, such part of the land or naval forces of the United States as he deems necessary.—(28 Feb., 1795, c. 36, s. 1, v. 1, p. 424. 3 Mar., 1807, c. 39, v. 2, p. 443.)

See note to Constitution, Article I, section 8, clause 11, as to war power.

Sec. 5298. [Insurrection against United States.] Whenever, by reason of unlawful obstructions, combinations, or assemblages of persons, or rebellion against the authority of the Government of the United States, it shall become impracticable, in the judgment of the President, to enforce, by the ordinary course of judicial proceedings, the laws of the United States within any State or Territory, it shall be lawful for the President to call forth the militia of any or all the States, and to employ such parts of the land and naval forces of the United States as he may deem necessary to enforce the faithful execution of the laws of the United States, or to suppress such rebellion, in whatever State or Territory thereof the laws of the United States may be forcibly opposed, or the execution thereof forcibly obstructed.—(29 July, 1861, c. 25, s. 1, v. 12, p. 281.)

Sec. 5299. [Domestic violence in violation of civil rights.] Whenever insurrection, domestic violence, unlawful combinations, or conspiracies in any State so obstructs or hinders the execution of the laws thereof, and of the United States, as to deprive any portion or class of the people of such State of any of the rights, privileges, or immunities, or protection, named in the Constitution and secured by the laws for the protection of such rights, privileges, or immunities, and the constituted authorities of such State are unable to protect, or, from any cause, fail in or refuse protection of the people in such rights, such facts shall be deemed a denial by such State of the equal protection of the laws to which they are entitled under the Constitution of the United States; and in all such cases, or whenever any such insurrection, violence, unlawful combination, or conspiracy, opposes or obstructs the laws of the United States, or the due execution thereof, or impedes or obstructs the due course of justice under the same, it shall be lawful for the President, and it shall be his duty, to take such measures, by the employment of the militia or the land and naval forces of the United States, or of either, or by other means, as he may deem necessary, for the suppression of such insurrection, domestic violence, or combinations.—(20 April, 1871, c. 22, s. 3, v. 17, p. 14.)

Sec. 5300. Violations of this section shall be cognizable before any court, civil or military, competent to try the same.—(2 July, 1864, c. 225, s. 10, v. 13, p. 377.)

Sec. 5310. [Property taken on inland waters.] No property seized or taken upon any of the inland waters of the United States by the naval forces thereof shall be regarded as maritime prize; but all property so seized or taken shall be promptly delivered to the proper officers of the courts.—(2 July, 1864, c. 225, s. 7, v. 13, p. 377.)

See sections 4613–4652, Revised Statutes, and notes thereto, on subject of prize.

Sec. 5311. [Condemnation proceedings; property seized.] The Attorney-General, or the attorney of the United States for any judicial district in which such property may at the time be, may institute the proceedings of condemnation, and in such case they shall be wholly for the benefit of the United States; or any person may file an information with such attorney, in which case the proceedings shall be for the use of such informer and the United States in equal parts.—(6 Aug., 1861, c. 68, s. 3, v. 12, p. 319.)

Sec. 5313. [Trading in captured or abandoned property; punishment.] All persons in the military or naval service of the United States are prohibited from buying or selling, trading, or in any way dealing in captured or abandoned property, whereby they shall receive or expect any profit, benefit, or advantage to themselves, or any other person, directly or indirectly connected with them; and it shall be the duty of such person whenever such property comes into his possession or custody, or within his control, to give notice thereof to some agent, appointed by virtue of this Title, and to turn the same over to such agent without delay. Any officer of the United States, civil, military, or naval, or any sutler, soldier, or marine, or other person who shall violate any provision of this section, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not more than five thousand dollars, and imprisoned in the penitentiary not more than three years. Violations of this section shall be cognizable before any court, civil or military, competent to try the same.—(2 July, 1864, c. 225, s. 10, v. 13, p. 377.)

Sec. 5314. [Collection of duties; insurrection.] Whenever the President shall deem it impracticable, by reason of unlawful combinations of persons in opposition to the laws of the United States, to collect the duties on imports in the ordinary way, at any port of entry in any collection-district, he may cause such duties to be collected at any port of delivery in the district until such obstruction ceases; in such case the surveyor at such port of delivery shall have the powers and be subject to all the obligations of a collector at a port of entry. The Secretary of the Treasury, with the approval of the President, shall also appoint such weighers, gaugers, measurers, inspectors, appraisers, and clerks, as he may deem necessary, for the faithful execution of the revenue laws at such port of delivery, and shall establish the limits within which such port of delivery is constituted a port of entry. And all the provisions of law regulating the issue of marine papers, the coasting-trade, the warehousing of imports, and the collection of duties, shall apply to the ports of entry thus constituted, in the same manner as they do to ports of entry established by law.—(13 July, 1861, c. 3, s. 1, v. 12, p. 255.)

Sec. 5315. [Removal of custom-house.] Whenever, at any port of entry, the duties on imports can not, in the judgment of the President, be collected in the ordinary way, or by the course provided in the preceding section, by reason of the cause mentioned therein, he may direct that the custom-house for the district be established in any secure place within the district, either on land or on board any vessel in the district, or at sea near the coast; and in such case the collector shall reside at such place, or on shipboard, as the case may be, and there detain all vessels and cargoes arriving within or approaching the district, until the duties imposed by law on such vessels and their cargoes are paid in cash. But if the owner or consignee of the cargo on board any vessel thus detained, or the master of the vessel, desires to enter a port of entry in any other district where no such obstructions to the execution of the laws exist, the master may be permitted so to change the destination of the vessel and cargo in his manifest; whereupon the collector shall deliver him a written permit to proceed to the port so designated. And the Secretary of the Treasury, with the approval of the President, shall make proper regulations for the enforcement on shipboard of such provisions of the laws regulating the assessment and collection of duties as in his judgment may be necessary and practicable.—(Ibid., s. 2, p. 256. 3 Mar., 1875, c. 136, s. 2, v. 18, p. 469.)

Sec. 5316. [Enforcement of preceding sections; use of Navy.] It shall be unlawful to take any vessel or cargo detained under the preceding section from the custody of the proper officers of the customs, unless by process of some court of the United States; and in case of any attempt otherwise to take such vessel or cargo by any force, or combination, or assemblage of persons too great to be overcome by the officers of the customs, the President, or such person as he shall have empowered for that purpose, may employ such part of the Army or Navy or militia of the United States, or such force of citizen volunteers as may be necessary, to prevent the removal of such vessel or cargo, and to protect the officers of the customs in retaining the custody thereof.— (12 July, 1861, c. 3, s 3, v. 12, p. 256.)

TITLE LXXIV.

REPEAL PROVISIONS.

Sec.
5595. What Revised Statutes embrace.
5596. Repeal of acts embraced in revision.
5600. Arrangement and classification of sections.

Sec.
5601. Acts passed since December 1, 1873, not affected.

Sec. 5595. [What Revised Statutes embrace.] The foregoing seventy-three titles embrace the statutes of the United States general and permanent in their nature, in force on the 1st day of December one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three, as revised and consolidated by commissioners appointed under an act of Congress, and the same shall be designated and cited, as The Revised Statutes of the United States.—(20 June, 1874, c. 333, v. 18, p. 113. 28 Dec., 1874, c. 9, v. 18, p. 293.)

See “Introduction,” under “II. The Revised Statutes.”

Sec. 5596. [Repeal of acts embraced in revision.] All acts of Congress passed prior to said first day of December one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three, any portion of which is embraced in any section of said revision, are hereby repealed, and the section applicable thereto shall be in force in lieu thereof; all parts of such acts not contained in such revision, having been repealed or superseded by subsequent acts, or not being general and permanent in their nature: Provided, That the incorporation into said revision of any general and permanent provision, taken from an act making appropriations, or from an act containing other provisions of a private, local, or temporary character, shall not repeal, or in any way affect any appropriation, or any provision of a private, local or temporary character, contained in any of said acts, but the same shall remain in force; and all acts of Congress passed prior to said last-named day no part of which are embraced in said revision, shall not be affected or changed by its enactment.—(U. S. v. Jordan, 2 Low., 537.)

See “Introduction,” under VI, E, “Construction of particular statutes,” subheading, “Revised Statutes.”

Sec. 5600. [Arrangement and classification of sections.] The arrangement and classification of the several sections of the revision have been made for the purpose of a more convenient and orderly arrangement of the same, and therefore no inference or presumption of a legislative construction is to be drawn by reason of the Title, under which any particular section is placed.

Sec. 5601. [Acts passed since Dec. 1, 1873, not affected.] The enactment of the said revision is not to affect or repeal any act of Congress passed since the 1st day of December one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three, and all acts passed since that date are to have full effect as if passed after the enactment of this revision, and so far as such acts vary from, or conflict with any provision contained in said revision, they are to have effect as subsequent statutes, and as repealing any portion of the revision inconsistent therewith.—(18 Feb., 1875, c. 84, v. 18, p. 329. 3 Mar., 1875, c. 130, s. 9, v. 18, p. 401.)

Extra compensation to civil officers prohibited.] That no civil officer of the Government shall hereafter receive any compensation or perquisites, directly or indirectly, from the treasury or property of the United States beyond his salary or compensation allowed by law: Provided, That this shall not be construed to prevent the employment and payment by the Department of Justice of district attorneys as now allowed by law for the performance of services not covered by their salaries or fees.—(18 Stat, 109, chap. 328.)

See sections 1763-1765, Revised Statutes, and notes thereto.

[1875, Mar. 3. Land grant railroads.] That no money shall hereafter be paid to any railroad company for the transportation of any property or troops of the United States over any railroad which in whole or in part was constructed by the aid of a grant of public land on the condition that such railroad should be a public highway for the use of the Government of the United States free from toll or other charge, or upon any other conditions for the use of such road, for such transportation; nor shall any allowance be made for the transportation of officers of the Army over any such road when on duty and under orders as military officers of the United States. But nothing herein contained shall be construed as preventing any such railroad from bringing a suit in the Court of Claims for the charges for such transportation, and recovering for the same if found entitled thereto by virtue of the laws in force prior to the passage of this act; provided that the claim for such charges shall not have been barred by the statute of limitations at the time of bringing the suit, and either party shall have the right of appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States; And provided further, That the foregoing provision shall not apply for the current fiscal year, nor thereafter, to roads where the sole condition of transportation is that the company shall not charge the Government higher rates than they do individuals for like transportation, and when the Quartermaster-General shall be satisfied that this condition has been faithfully complied with.—(18 Stat., 453–454, chap. 133.)

Most of the acts of Congress which granted lands in aid of railroads provide that they shall be “free from toll or other charge upon the transportation of any property or troops of the United States.” A few of the acts granting lands in aid of railroads provide that the grant is “subject to such regulations as Congress may impose restricting the charges for * * * Government transportation.” (E. g., act July 27, 1866, sec. 11, 14 Stat., 292, 297). (U. S. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 249 U. S., 354, affirming 52 Ct. Cls., 226.)

By act of February 28, 1920, section 208 (41 Stat., 464), it was provided that “any land grant railroad organized under the Act of July 28, 1866 (chapter 300) [14 Stat., 338], shall receive the same compensation for transportation of property and troops of the United States as is paid to land grant railroads organized under the Land Grant Act of March 3, 1863 [12 Stat., 772], and the Act of July 27, 1866 (chapter 278) [14 Stat., 292]."

The term "troops of the United States" as used in land-grant acts in relation to transportation for the Government does not embrace any of the following classes of persons, when traveling separately and not as part of a moving body or detachment of soldiers, viz., discharged soldiers, discharged military prisoners, and rejected applicants for enlistment; applicants for enlistment, provisionally accepted, but subject to final examination and not sworn in; retired enlisted men; and furloughed soldiers en route back to their stations. (United States v. Union Pac. R. Co., 249 U. S., 354, affirming 52 Ct. Cls., 226.)

[1876, June 30. Mileage of Navy officers.] And so much of the act of June sixteenth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four, making appropriations for the support of the Army for the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five, and for other purposes, as provides that only actual traveling expenses shall be allowed to any person holding employment or appointment under the United States while engaged on public business, as is applicable to officers of the Navy so engaged, is hereby repealed; and the sum of eight cents per mile shall be allowed such officers while so engaged, in lieu of their actual expenses.—(19 Stat., 65, chap. 159.)

See note to section 1566, Revised Statutes.

[1876, June 30. Increase of force at navy yards before elections.] And no increase of the force at any navy-yard shall be made at any time within sixty days next before any election to take place for President of the United States, or member of Congress, except when the Secretary of the Navy shall certify that the needs of the public service make such increase necessary at that time which certificate shall be immediately published when made.—(19 Stat., 69–70, chap. 159.)

See note to section 1546, Revised Statutes.

[1876, Aug. 15, sec. 3. Changes in grades of clerks; honorably discharged soldiers and sailors.] That whenever, in the judgment of the head of any department, the duties assigned to a clerk of one class can be as well performed by a clerk of a lower class or by a female clerk, it shall be lawful for him to diminish the number of clerks of the higher grade and increase the number of the clerks of the lower grade within the limit of the total appropriation for such clerical service: Provided, That in making any reduction of force in any of the executive departments, the head of such department shall retain those persons who may be equally qualified who have been honorably discharged from the military or naval service of the United States, and the widows and orphans of deceased soldiers and sailors.—(19 Stat., 169, chap. 287.)

See note to section 166, Revised Statutes, under "Increasing and diminishing clerks of different grades"; and see note to section 416, Revised Statutes, under "Honorably discharged soldiers or sailors"; see also section 1754, Revised Statutes.

[1876, Aug. 15, sec. 5. Employing clerks beyond legal allowance.] That the executive officers of the Government are hereby prohibited from employing any clerk, agent, engineer, draughtsman messenger watchman, laborer, or other employee, in any of the executive departments in the city of Washington, or elsewhere beyond provision made by law.—(19 Stat., 169, chap. 287.)

See act of August 5, 1882, section 4 (22 Stat., 255); and see section 3679, Revised Statutes, as to acceptance of voluntary services by the Government.

with the advice and consent of the Senate, are prohibited from requesting, giving to, or receiving from, any other officer or employee of the Government, any money or property or other thing of value for political purposes; and any such officer or employee, who shall offend against the provisions of this section shall be at once discharged from the service of the United States; and he shall also be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be fined in a sum not exceeding five hundred dollars.—(19 Stat., 169, chap. 287.)

See section 1546, Revised Statutes, and laws noted thereunder.

[1876, Aug. 15. Artificial limbs to soldiers and sailors.] That every officer, soldier, seaman and marine, who, in the line of duty, in the military or naval service of the United States, shall have lost a limb, or sustained bodily injuries, depriving him of the use of any of his limbs, shall receive once every five years an artificial limb or appliance, or commutation therefor, as provided and limited by existing laws, under such regulations as the Surgeon-General of the Army may prescribe; and the period of five years shall be held to commence with the filing of the first application after the seventeenth day of June, in the year eighteen hundred and seventy.

SEC. 2. That necessary transportation to have artificial limbs fitted shall be furnished by the Quartermaster-General of the Army, the cost of which shall be refunded out of any money appropriated for the purchase of artificial limbs.—(19 Stat., 203–204, chap. 300.)

See note to section 1176, Revised Statutes.

[1877, Mar. 3, sec. 5. Mail matter, official business, free of postage.] That it shall be lawful to transmit through the mail, free of postage, any letters, packages, or other matters relating exclusively to the business of the Government of the United States: Provided, That every such letter or package to entitle it to pass free shall bear over the words “Official business” an endorsement showing also the name of the Department, and, if from a bureau or office, the names of the Department and bureau or office, as the case may be, whence transmitted.—(19 Stat., 335–336, chap. 103.)

A further provision of this section, relating to punishment for unlawful use of official envelopes, was expressly repealed by the Criminal Code, act of March 4, 1909, section 341 (35 Stat., 1153), and other provisions on the subject were embodied in section 227 of the same act (35 Stat., 1134). See notes to sections 388 and 398, Revised Statutes; and see note to next section of this act, set forth below.

[1877, Mar. 3, sec. 6. Endorsement on official envelopes.] That for the purpose of carrying this act into effect, it shall be the duty of each of the Executive Departments of the United States to provide for itself and its subordinate offices the necessary envelopes: and in addition to the endorsement designating the Department in which they are to be used, the penalty for the unlawful use of these envelopes shall be stated thereon.—(19 Stat., 336, chap. 103.)

See note to preceding section, set forth above. This and the preceding section were extended to all officers of the United States, except Members of Congress, by act of March 3, 1879, section 29 (20 Stat., 362), as amended and reenacted by act of July 5, 1884, section 3 (23 Stat., 158), which acts also contained other provisions on the subject of penalty envelopes. See also act of June 26, 1906 (34 Stat., 477), and see notes to sections 388 and 398, Revised Statutes.

See acts of August 5, 1882 (22 Stat., 241), and March 3, 1883 (22 Stat., 552); and see section 3679, Revised Statutes.

A somewhat similar provision was contained in act of June 22, 1874 (18 Stat., 144).

And it shall be the duty of the several accounting-officers of the Treasury to continue to receive, examine, and consider the justice and validity of all claims under appropriations the balances of which have been exhausted or carried to the surplus fund under the provisions of said section that may be brought before them within a period of five years. And the Secretary of the Treasury shall report the amount due each claimant, at the commencement of each session, to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, who shall lay the same before Congress for consideration: Provided, That nothing in this act shall be construed to authorize the re-examination and payment of any claim or account which has been once examined and rejected, unless reopened in accordance with existing law.—(20 Stat., 130, chap. 191.)

See acts of June 20, 1874, section 5 (18 Stat., 110), and July 7, 1884 (23 Stat., 254). See also section 236, Revised Statutes, and note thereto.

Purchase of material for steam boilers.] That on and after the passage of this act, the Secretary of the Navy be, and he is hereby authorized to purchase at the lowest market price, such plate iron and other material as may enter into the construction of steam boilers for the Navy, without advertising for bids to furnish the same: Provided, That he shall cause to

No. 30.)

See sections 3718 and 3721, Revised Statutes, and notes thereto.

No. 6.)

The act of March 3, 1879 (20 Stat., 484), which established the "National Board of Health," was repealed by act of February 15, 1893, section 9 (27 Stat., 452), "granting additional quarantine powers and imposing additional duties upon the Marine Hospital Service," now "Public Health Service."

[1880, May 31. Vessels of Fish Commission.] And the Secretary of the Navy is hereby directed to place the vessels of the United States Fish Commission on the same footing with the Navy Department as those of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey.—(21 Stat., 151, chap. 113.)

See sections 4397, 4684-4688, Revised Statutes. By act of July 7, 1884 (23 Stat., 239), it was enacted that the above provision "shall be construed as having given to the United States Commissioner of Fish and Fisheries, to July first, eighteen hundred and eighty-four, but no longer, the same authority in regard to allowances for subsistence to officers and men of the Navy serving in the operations of the United States Commissioner of Fish and Fisheries as is given to the Secretary of the Treasury in regard to service of officers and men of the Navy in the Coast Survey by section forty-six hundred and eighty-eight of the Revised Statutes of the United States."

And the office of the said judge-advocate-general shall be in the Navy Department, where he shall, under the direction of the Secretary of the Navy, receive, revise, and have recorded the proceedings of all courts-martial, courts of inquiry, and boards for the examination of officers for retirement and promotion in the naval service, and perform such other duties as have heretofore been performed by the solicitor and naval judge-advocate-general.—(21 Stat., 164, chap. 129.)

This act was amended by act of June 5, 1896 (29 Stat., 251), by inserting therein, in lieu of the words, "with the rank, pay, and allowances of a captain in the Navy, or a colonel in the Marine Corps, as the case may be," the words "with the rank and highest pay of a captain [in] the Navy, or the rank, pay, and allowances of a colonel in the Marine Corps, as the case may be," with a proviso that said amendment shall take effect from July 19, 1892, "the date on which the present incumbent entered on duty."

It was again amended by act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 717), under which the Judge Advocate General is to have the same rank, pay and allowances as the Judge Advocate General of the Army.

The Secretary of the Navy shall have the power to reject any or all bids made under the provisions of this act.

"SEC. 8. That the sum of one million dollars is hereby appropriated towards the armament of the vessels authorized by the act of March third, eighteen hundred and eighty-five, of the vessels authorized by section one of this act, and of the unfinished monitors hereinbefore mentioned, and of the Miantonomoh; and the Secretary of the Navy is hereby authorized to direct the application of such portions of this sum as may be necessary to the manufacture or purchase of such tools and machinery or the erection of such structures as may be required for use in the manufacture of such armament, or any part thereof: Provided, That the Secretary of the Navy may contract with domestic manufacturers for the construction of such portion of the heavy guns herein provided for as may not be built by the Government.

"The Pneumatic Dynamite-Gun Company shall furnish bonds satisfactory to the Secretary of the Navy for the faithful performance of its contract, and for the refunding of the money paid hereunder in case of the nonperformance of the same, and shall further agree with the Secretary of the Navy upon a limit of price which shall not be exceeded in any future contracts which the Government may desire to enter into for the purchase of the company's guns.

"SEC. 10. The provisions contained in the foregoing act of August 3, 1886, relating to the construction of the particular vessels therein specified, were applied to the construction of other vessels thereafter authorized by appropriations under "Increase of the Navy" in annual naval appropriation acts, to and including the act of June 24, 1910 (36 Stat., 628), the language of which act with respect thereto being as follows:

"In the construction of all of said vessels the provisions of the act of August third, eighteen hundred and eighty-six, entitled 'An act to increase the naval establishment,' as to materials for said vessels, their engines, boilers, and machinery, the contracts under which they are built, the notice of any proposals for the same; the plans, drawings, specifications therefor, and the method of executing said contracts shall be observed and followed, and, subject to the provisions of this act, except that the Secretary of the Navy may accept, in lieu of an indemnity bond, the deposit by contractors of United States Government or State bonds, under such conditions and in such manner as the Secretary may prescribe, having due regard for the rights and protection of the United States, all said vessels shall be built in compliance with the terms of said act, and in all their parts shall be of domestic manufacture; and the steel materials shall be of domestic manufacture, and of the quality and characteristics best adapted to the various purposes for which it may be used, in accordance with specifications approved by the Secretary of the Navy, provided contracts for furnishing the same in a reasonable time, at a reasonable price, and of the required quality can be made with responsible parties."

In the appropriations for new vessels subsequent to the above-quoted act of June 24, 1910, no reference has been made to the act of August 3, 1886.

Changes in contracts.—Prior to 1911 contracts for the construction of naval vessels contained stipulations as to changes therein, in accordance with section 7 of the act of August 3, 1886, made applicable to such new construction by specific clauses in the annual naval appropriation acts under "Increase of the Navy." Since 1910 similar provisions as to changes have been embodied in such contracts, although no longer required by law. This practice is based on an opinion of the Attorney General of December 21, 1911 (29 Op. Atty. Gen., 285), which held that "the Secretary of the Navy may insert in the contracts for vessels constructed under authority of the act of March 4, 1911 (36 Stat., 1265), a provision for making changes in said contracts and for determining the amount of increased or diminished compensation arising therefrom, whether such compensation be of the nature of liquidated or unliquidated damages." (File 22724-51, Apr. 7, 1921.)

From an examination of the cases it is clear that changes in public contracts may be made without specific authority therefor; but it is also clear that contract provisions relating to such changes must be strictly observed. PRELIMINARY.

In the following rules every steam-vessel which is under sail and not under steam is to be considered a sailing-vessel, and every vessel under steam, whether under sail or not, is to be considered a steam-vessel.

The word "steam-vessel" shall include any vessel propelled by machinery.

A vessel is "under way" within the meaning of these rules when she is not at anchor, or made fast to the shore, or aground.—(26 Stat., 320–321, chap. 802.)

RULES CONCERNING LIGHTS, AND SO FORTH.

The word "visible" in these rules when applied to lights shall mean visible on a dark night with a clear atmosphere.

ARTICLE 1. The rules concerning lights shall be complied with in all weathers from sunset to sunrise, and during such time no other lights which may be mistaken for the prescribed light shall be exhibited.—(26 Stat., 321, chap. 802.)

ART. 2.—A steam-vessel when under way shall carry—(a) On or in front of the foremast, or if a vessel without a foremast, then in the fore part of the vessel, at a height above the hull of not less than twenty feet, and if the breadth of the vessel exceeds twenty feet, then at a height above the hull not less than such breadth, so, however, that the light need not be carried at a greater height above the hull than forty feet, a bright white light, so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of twenty points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light ten points on each side of the vessel, namely, from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on either side, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least five miles.

(b) On the starboard side a green light so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of ten points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the starboard side, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least two miles.

(c) On the port side a red light so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of ten points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the port side, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least two miles.

(d) The said green and red side-lights shall be fitted with inboard screens projecting at least three feet forward from the light, so as to prevent these lights from being seen across the bow.

(c) A steam-vessel when under way may carry an additional white light similar in construction to the light mentioned in subdivision (a). These two lights shall be so placed in line with the keel that one shall be at least fifteen feet higher than the other, and in such a position with reference to each other that the lower light shall be forward of the upper one. The vertical distance between these lights shall be less than the horizontal distance.—(26 Stat., 321, chap. 802.)

ART. 3. A steam-vessel when towing another vessel shall, in addition to her side-lights, carry two bright white lights in a vertical line one over the other, not less than six feet apart, and when towing more than one vessel shall carry an additional bright white light six feet above or below such light, if the length of the tow measuring from the stern of the towing vessel to the stern of the last vessel towed exceeds six hundred feet. Each of these lights shall be of the same construction and character, and shall be carried in the same position as the white light mentioned in article two (a), excepting the additional light, which may be carried at a height of not less than fourteen feet above the hull.

Such steam-vessel may carry a small white light abaft the funnel or aftermast for the vessel towed to steer by, but such light shall not be visible forward of the beam.—(26 Stat., 321, chap. 802.)

ART. 4. (a) A vessel which from any accident is not under command shall carry at the same height as a white light mentioned in article two (a), where they can best be seen, and if a steam-vessel in lieu of that light, two red lights, in a vertical line one over the other, not less than six feet apart, and of such a character as to be visible all around the horizon at a distance of at least two miles; and shall by day carry in a vertical line one over the other, not less than six feet apart, where they can best be seen, two black balls or shapes, each two feet in diameter.

(b) A vessel employed in laying or in picking up a telegraph cable shall carry in the same position as the white light mentioned in article two (a), and if a steam-vessel in lieu of that light, three lights in a vertical line one over the other not less than six feet apart. The highest and lowest of these lights shall be red, and the middle light shall be white, and they shall be of such a character as to be visible all around the horizon, at a distance of at least two miles. By day she shall carry in a vertical line, one over the other, not less than six feet apart, where they can best be seen, three shapes not less than two feet in diameter, of which the highest and lowest shall be globular in shape and red in color, and the middle one diamond in shape and white.

(c) The vessels referred to in this article, when not making way through the water, shall not carry the side-lights, but when making way shall carry them.

(d) The lights and shapes required to be shown by this article are to be taken by other vessels as signals that the vessel showing them is not under command and can not therefore get out of the way.

These signals are not signals of vessels in distress and requiring assistance. Such signals are contained in article thirty-one.—(26 Stat., 322, chap. 802.)

ART. 5. A sailing-vessel under way and any vessel being towed shall carry the same lights as are prescribed by article two for a steam-vessel under way, with the exception of the white lights mentioned therein, which they shall never carry.—(26 Stat., 322, chap. 802.)

ART. 6. Whenever, as in the case of small vessels under way during bad weather, the green and red side-lights can not be fixed, these lights shall be kept at hand, lighted and ready for use; and shall, on the approach of or to other vessels, be exhibited on their respective sides in sufficient time to prevent collision, in such manner as to make them most visible, and so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side, nor, if practicable, more than two points abaft the beam on their respective sides.

To make the use of these portable lights more certain and easy the lanterns containing them shall each be painted outside with the color of the light they respectively contain, and shall be provided with proper screens.—(26 Stat., 322, chap. 802.)

ART. 7. Steam vessels of less than forty, and vessels under oars or sails of less than twenty tons gross tonnage, respectively, and rowing boats, when under way, shall not be required to carry the lights mentioned in article two (a), (b), and (c), but if they do not carry them they shall be provided with the following lights:

“First. Steam vessels of less than forty tons shall carry—

“(a) In the fore part of the vessel, or on or in front of the funnel, where it can best be seen, and at a height above the gunwale of not less than nine feet, a bright white light constructed and fixed as prescribed in article two (a), and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least two miles.

“(b) Green and red side-lights constructed and fixed as prescribed in article two (b) and (c), and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least one mile, or a combined lantern showing a green light and a red light from right ahead of two points abaft the beam on their respective sides. Such lanterns shall be carried not less than three feet below the white light.

“Second. Small steamboats, such as are carried by seagoing vessels, may carry the white light at a less height than nine feet above the gunwale, but it shall be carried above the combined lantern mentioned in subdivision one (b).

“Third. Vessels under oars or sails of less than twenty tons shall have ready at hand a lantern with a green glass on one side and a red glass on the other, which, on the approach of or to other vessels, shall be exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision, so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side.

“Fourth. Rowing boats, whether under oars or sail, shall have ready at hand a lantern showing a white light which shall be temporarily exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision.

“The vessels referred to in this article shall not be obliged to carry the lights prescribed by article four (a) and article eleven, last paragraph.—(26 Stat., 322-323, chap. 802; 28 Stat., 82-83, chap. 83.)

This article was expressly amended and reenacted to read as above, by act of May 28, 1894. (28 Stat., 82-83.)

ART. 8. Pilot vessels when engaged on their station on pilotage duty shall not show the lights required for other vessels, but shall carry a white light at the masthead, visible all around the horizon, and shall also exhibit a flare-up light at short intervals, which shall never exceed fifteen minutes.

On the near approach of or to other vessels they shall have their side lights lighted, ready for use, and shall flash or show them at short intervals, to indicate the direction in which they are heading, but the green light shall not be shown on the port side, nor the red light on the starboard side.

A pilot-vessel of such a class as to be obliged to go alongside of a vessel to put a pilot on board may show the white light instead of carrying it at the masthead, and may, instead of the colored lights above mentioned, have at hand, ready for use, a lantern with a green glass on the one side and a red glass on the other, to be used as prescribed above.

Pilot-vessels when not engaged on their station on pilotage duty shall carry lights similar to those of other vessels of their tonnage.—(26 Stat., 323, chap. 802.)

By act of February 19, 1900 (31 Stat., 30-31), which was expressly "supplementary" to this article, it was provided: "That a steam pilot vessel, when engaged on her station on pilotage duty and in waters of the United States, and not at anchor, shall, in addition to the lights required for all pilot boats, carry at a distance of eight feet below her white masthead light a red light, visible all around the horizon and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night with a clear atmosphere at a distance of at least two miles, and also the colored side lights required to be carried by vessels when under way.

"When engaged on her station on pilotage duty and in waters of the United States, and at anchor, she shall carry in addition to the lights required for all pilot boats the red light above mentioned, but not the colored side lights.

"When not engaged on her station on pilotage duty, she shall carry the same lights as other steam vessels.

"SEC. 2. That this Act shall be construed as supplementary to article eight of the Act approved June seventh, eighteen hundred and ninety-seven, entitled 'An Act to adopt regulations for preventing collisions upon certain harbors, rivers, and inland waters of the United States,' and to article eight of an Act approved August nineteenth, eighteen hundred and ninety, entitled 'An Act to adopt regulations for preventing collisions at sea.'"

ARTICLE 9. Fishing vessels and fishing boats, when under way and when not required by this article to carry or show the lights hereinafter specified, shall carry or show the lights prescribed for vessels of their tonnage under way.

(a) Open boats, by which is to be understood boats not protected from the entry of sea water by means of a continuous deck, when engaged in any fishing at night, with outlying tackle extending not more than one hundred and fifty feet horizontally from the boat into the seaway, shall carry one all-round white light.

Open boats, when fishing at night, with outlying tackle extending more than one hundred and fifty feet horizontally from the boat into the seaway, shall carry one all-round white light, and in addition, on approaching or being approached by other vessels, shall show a second white light at least three feet below the first light and at a horizontal distance of at least five feet away from it in the direction in which the outlying tackle is attached.

(b) Vessels and boats, except open boats as defined in subdivision (a), when fishing with drift nets, shall, so long as the nets are wholly or partly in the water, carry two white lights where they can best be seen. Such lights shall be placed so that the vertical distance between them shall be not less than six feet and not more than fifteen feet, and so that the horizontal distance between them, measured in a line with the keel, shall be not less than five feet and not more than ten feet. The lower of these two lights shall be in the direction of the nets, and both of them shall be of such a character as to show all around the horizon, and to be visible at a distance of not less than three miles.

Within the Mediterranean Sea and in the seas bordering the coasts of Japan and Korea sailing fishing vessels of less than twenty tons gross tonnage shall not be obliged to carry the lower of these two lights. Should they, however, not carry it, they shall show in the same position (in the direction of the net or gear) a white light, visible at a distance of not less than one sea mile, on the approach of or to other vessels.

(e) Vessels and boats, except open boats as defined in subdivision (a) when line fishing with their lines out and attached to or hauling their lines, and when not at anchor or stationary within the meaning of subdivision (h), shall carry the same lights as vessels fishing with drift nets. When shooting lines, or fishing with towing lines, they shall carry the lights prescribed for a steam or sailing vessel under way, respectively.

Within the Mediterranean Sea and in the seas bordering the coasts of Japan and Korea sailing fishing vessels of less than twenty tons gross tonnage shall not be obliged to carry the lower of these two lights. Should they, however, not carry it, they shall show in the same position (in the direction of the lines) a white light, visible at a distance of not less than one sea mile on the approach of or to other vessels.

(d) Vessels when engaged in trawling, by which is meant the dragging of an apparatus along the bottom of the sea—

First. If steam vessels, shall carry in the same position as the the white light mentioned in article two (a) a tri-colored lantern so constructed and fixed as to show a white light from right ahead to two points on each bow, and a green light and a red light over an arc of the horizon from two points on each bow to two points abaft the beam on the starboard and port sides, respectively; and not less than six nor more than twelve feet below the tri-colored lantern a white light in a lantern, so constructed as to show a clear, uniform, and unbroken light all around the horizon.

Second. If sailing vessels, shall carry a white light in a lantern, so constructed as to show a clear, uniform, and unbroken light all around the horizon, and shall also, on the approach of or to other vessels, show where it can best be seen a white flare-up light or torch in sufficient time to prevent collision.

All lights mentioned in subdivision (d) first and second shall be visible at a distance of at least two miles.

(e) Oyster dredgers and other vessels fishing with dredge nets shall carry and show the same lights as trawlers.

(f) Fishing vessels and fishing boats may at any time use a flare-up light in addition to the lights which they are by this article required to carry and show, and they may also use working lights.

(g) Every fishing vessel and every fishing boat under one hundred and fifty feet in length, when at anchor, shall exhibit a white light visible all around the horizon at a distance of at least one mile.

Every fishing vessel of one hundred and fifty feet in length or upward, when at anchor, shall exhibit a white light visible all around the horizon at a distance of at least one mile, and shall exhibit a second light as provided for vessels of such length by article eleven.

Should any such vessel, whether under one hundred and fifty feet in length or of one hundred and fifty feet in length or upward, be attached to a net or other fishing gear, she shall on the approach of other vessels show an additional white light at least three feet below the anchor light, and at a horizontal distance of at least five feet away from it in the direction of the net or gear.

(h) If a vessel or boat when fishing becomes stationary in consequence of her gear getting fast to a rock or other obstruction, she shall in daytime haul down the day signal required by subdivision (k); at night show the light or lights prescribed for a vessel at anchor; and during fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rain storms make the signal prescribed for a vessel at anchor. (See subdivision (d) and the last paragraph of article fifteen.)

(i) In fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rain storms drift-net vessels attached to their nets, and vessels when trawling, dredging, or fishing with any kind of a drag net, and vessels line fishing with their lines out, shall, if of twenty tons gross tonnage or upward, respectively, at intervals of not more than one minute make a blast; if steam vessels, with the whistle or siren, and if sailing vessels, with the fog-horn, each blast to be followed by ringing the bell. Fishing vessels and boats of less than twenty tons gross tonnage shall not be obliged to give the above-mentioned signals; but if they do not, they shall make some other efficient sound signal at intervals of not more than one minute.

(k) All vessels or boats fishing with nets or lines or trawls, when under way, shall in daytime indicate their occupation to an approaching vessel by displaying a basket or other efficient signal where it can best be seen. If vessels or boats at anchor have their gear out, they shall, on the approach of other vessels, show the same signal on the side on which those vessels can pass.

The vessels required by this article to carry or show the lights hereinbefore specified shall not be obliged to carry the lights prescribed by article four (a) and the last paragraph of article eleven.—(26 Stat., 323–324, chap. 802; 28 Stat., 83, chap. 83; 34 Stat., 850–852, chap. 300.)

The original article 9 of this act was expressly repealed by act of May 28, 1894 (28 Stat., 83); and the article given above was expressly inserted in the original act of August 19, 1890, as article 9 thereof, by act of January 19, 1907 (34 Stat., 850–852).

ART. 10. A vessel which is being overtaken by another shall show from her stern to such last-mentioned vessel a white light or a flare-up light.

The white light required to be shown by this article may be fixed and carried in a lantern, but in such case the lantern shall be so constructed, fitted, and screened that it shall throw an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of twelve points of the compass, namely, for six points from right aft on each side of the vessel so as to be visible at a distance of at least one mile. Such light shall be carried as nearly as practicable on the same level as the side-lights. (26 Stat., 324, chap. 802.)

ART. 11. A vessel under one hundred and fifty feet in length, when at anchor, shall carry forward, where it can best be seen, but at a height not exceeding twenty feet above the hull, a white light in a lantern so constructed as to show a clear, uniform, and unbroken light visible all around the horizon at a distance of at least one mile.

A vessel of one hundred and fifty feet or upwards in length, when at anchor, shall carry in the forward part of the vessel, at a height of not less than twenty and not exceeding forty feet above the hull, one such light, and at or near the stern of the vessel, and at such a height that it shall be not less than fifteen feet lower than the forward light, another such light.

The length of a vessel shall be deemed to be the length appearing in her certificate of registry.

A vessel aground in or near a fair-way shall carry the above light or lights and the two red lights prescribed by article four (a).—(26 Stat., 324–325, chap. 802.)

ART. 12. Every vessel may, if necessary in order to attract attention, in addition to the lights which she is by these rules required to carry, show a flare-up light or use any detonating signal that can not be mistaken for a distress signal.—(26 Stat., 325, chap. 802.)

ART. 13. Nothing in these rules shall interfere with the operation of any special rules made by the Government of any nation with respect to additional station and signal-lights for two or more ships of war or for vessels sailing under convoy, or with the exhibition of recognition signals adopted by ship owners, which have been authorized by their respective Governments and duly registered and published.—(26 Stat., 325, chap. 802.)

ART. 14. A steam-vessel proceeding under sail only but having her funnel up, shall carry in day-time, forward, where it can best be seen, one black ball or shape two feet in diameter.—(26 Stat., 325, chap. 802.)

SOUND SIGNALS FOR FOG, AND SO FORTH.

ART. 15. All signals prescribed by this article for vessels under way shall be given:

First. By “steam vessels” on the whistle or siren.

Second. By “sailing vessels” and “vessels towed” on the fog horn.

The words “prolonged blast” used in this article shall mean a blast of from four to six seconds duration.

A steam vessel shall be provided with an efficient whistle or siren, sounded by steam or by some substitute for steam, so placed that the sound may not be intercepted by any obstruction, and with an efficient fog horn, to be sounded by mechanical means, and also with an efficient bell. (In all cases where the rules require a bell to be used a drum may be substituted on board Turkish vessels, or a gong where such articles are used on board small seagoing vessels.) A sailing vessel of twenty tons gross tonnage or upward shall be provided with a similar fog horn and bell.

In fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rainstorms, whether by day or night, the signals described in this article shall be used as follows, namely:

(a) A steam vessel having way upon her shall sound, at intervals of not more than two minutes, a prolonged blast.

(b) A steam vessel under way, but stopped, and having no way upon her, shall sound, at intervals of not more than two minutes, two prolonged blasts, with an interval of about one second between.

(c) A sailing vessel under way shall sound, at intervals of not more than one minute, when on the starboard tack, one blast; when on the port tack, two blasts in succession, and when with the wind abaft the beam, three blasts in succession.

(d) A vessel when at anchor shall, at intervals of not more than one minute, ring the bell rapidly for about five seconds.

(e) A vessel when towing, a vessel employed in laying or in picking up a telegraph cable, and a vessel under way, which is unable to get out of the way of an approaching vessel through being not under command, or unable to maneuver as required by the rules, shall, instead of the signals prescribed in subdivisions (a) and (c) of this article, at intervals of not more than two minutes, sound three blasts in succession, namely: One prolonged blast followed by two short blasts. A vessel towed may give this signal and she shall not give any other.

Sailing vessels and boats of less than twenty tons gross tonnage shall not be obliged to give the above-mentioned signals, but, if they do not, they shall make some other efficient sound signal at intervals of not more than one minute.—(26 Stat., 325–326, chap. 802; 29 Stat., 381, chap. 401.)

This article was expressly amended and reenacted to read as above by act of June 10, 1896 (29 Stat., 381).

SPEED OF SHIPS TO BE MODERATE IN FOG, AND SO FORTH.

ART. 16. Every vessel shall, in a fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rain-storms, go at a moderate speed, having careful regard to the existing circumstances and conditions.

A steam vessel hearing, apparently forward of her beam, the fog-signal of a vessel the position of which is not ascertained shall, so far as the circumstances of the case admit, stop her engines, and then navigate with caution until danger of collision is over.—(26 Stat., 326, chap. 802.)

STEERING AND SAILING RULES.

PRELIMINARY—RISK OF COLLISION.

Risk of collision can, when circumstances permit, be ascertained by carefully watching the compass bearing of an approaching vessel. If the bearing does not appreciably change, such risk should be deemed to exist.

ART. 17. When two sailing vessels are approaching one another, so as to involve risk of collision, one of them shall keep out of the way of the other, as follows, namely:

(a) A vessel which is running free shall keep out of the way of a vessel which is close-hauled.

(b) A vessel which is close-hauled on the port tack shall keep out of the way of a vessel which is close-hauled on the starboard tack.

(c) When both are running free, with the wind on different sides, the vessel which has the wind on the port side shall keep out of the way of the other.

(d) When both are running free, with the wind on the same side, the vessel which is to the windward shall keep out of the way of the vessel which is to leeward.

(e) A vessel which has the wind aft shall keep out of the way of the other vessel.—(26 Stat., 326, chap. 802.)

ART. 18. When two steam-vessels are meeting end on, or nearly end on, so as to involve the risk of collision, each shall alter her course to starboard, so that each may pass on the port side of the other.

This article only applies to cases where vessels are meeting end on, or nearly end on, in such a manner as to involve risk of collision, and does not apply to two vessels which must, if both keep on their respective courses, pass clear of each other.

The only cases to which it does apply are when each of the two vessels is end on, or nearly end on, to the other; in other words, to cases in which, by day, each vessel sees the masts of the other in a line, or nearly in a line, with her own; and by night, to cases in which each vessel is in such a position as to see both the side lights of the other.

It does not apply by day to cases in which a vessel sees another ahead crossing her own course; or by night, to cases where the red light of one vessel is opposed to the red light of the other, or where the green light of one vessel is opposed to the green light of the other, or where a red light without a green light, or a green light without a red light, is seen ahead, or where both green and red lights are seen anywhere but ahead.—(26 Stat., 326–327, chap. 802.)

ART. 19. When two steam-vessels are crossing, so as to involve risk of collision, the vessel which has the other on her own starboard side shall keep out of the way of the other.—(26 Stat., 327, chap. 802.)

ART. 20. When a steam-vessel and a sailing vessel are proceeding in such directions as to involve risk of collision, the steam-vessel shall keep out of the way of the sailing-vessel.—(26 Stat., 327, chap. 802.)

Article twenty-one. Where, by any of these rules, one of two vessels is to keep out of the way the other shall keep her course and speed.

NOTE.—When, in consequence of thick weather or other causes, such vessel finds herself so close that collision can not be avoided by the action of the giving-way vessel alone, she also shall take such action as will best aid to avert collision. (See articles twenty-seven and twenty-nine.)—(26 Stat., 327, chap. 802; 28 Stat., 83, chap. 83.)

This article was expressly amended and reenacted to read as above by act of May 28, 1894 (28 Stat., 83).

ART. 22. Every vessel which is directed by these rules to keep out of the way of another vessel shall, if the circumstances of the case admit, avoid crossing ahead of the other.—(26 Stat., 327, chap. 802.)

ART. 23. Every steam-vessel which is directed by these rules to keep out of the way of another vessel shall, on approaching her, if necessary, slacken her speed or stop or reverse.—(26 Stat., 327, chap. 802.)

ART. 24. Notwithstanding anything contained in these rules every vessel, overtaking any other, shall keep out of the way of the overtaken vessel.

Every vessel coming up with another vessel from any direction more than two points abaft her beam, that is in such a position, with reference to the vessel which she is overtaking that at night she would be unable to see either of that vessel's side-lights, shall be deemed to be an overtaking vessel; and no subsequent alteration of the bearing between the two vessels shall make the overtaking vessel a crossing vessel within the meaning of these rules, or relieve her of the duty of keeping clear of the overtaken vessel until she is finally passed and clear.

As by day the overtaking vessel can not always know with certainty whether she is forward of or abaft this direction from the other vessel she should, if in doubt, assume that she is an overtaking vessel and keep out of the way.—(26 Stat., 327, chap. 802.)

ART. 25. In narrow channels every steam-vessel shall, when it is safe and practicable, keep to that side of the fair-way or mid-channel which lies on the starboard side of such vessel.—(26 Stat., 327, chap. 802.)

ART. 26. Sailing vessels under way shall keep out of the way of sailing vessels or boats fishing with nets, or lines, or trawls. This rule shall not give to any vessel or boat engaged in fishing the right of obstructing a fair-way used by vessels other than fishing vessels or boats.—(26 Stat., 327, chap. 802.)

ART. 27. In obeying and construing these rules due regard shall be had to all dangers of navigation and collision, and to any special circumstances which may render a departure from the above rules necessary in order to avoid immediate danger.—(26 Stat., 327, chap. 802.)

SOUND-SIGNALS FOR VESSELS IN SIGHT OF ONE ANOTHER.

ART. 28. The words "short blast" used in this article shall mean a blast of about one second's duration.

When vessels are in sight of one another, a steam-vessel under way, in taking any course authorized or required by these rules, shall indicate that course by the following signals on her whistle or siren, namely:

One short blast to mean, "I am directing my course to starboard."

Two short blasts to mean, "I am directing my course to port."

Three short blasts to mean, "My engines are going at full speed astern."—(26 Stat., 328, chap. 802.)

NO VESSEL, UNDER ANY CIRCUMSTANCES, TO NEGLECT PROPER PRECAUTIONS.

ART. 29. Nothing in these rules shall exonerate any vessel or the owner or master or crew thereof, from the consequences of any neglect to carry lights or signals, or of any neglect to keep a proper look-out, or of the neglect of any precaution which may be required by the ordinary practice of seamen, or by the special circumstances of the case.—(26 Stat., 328, chap. 802.)

RESERVATION OF RULES FOR HARBORS AND INLAND NAVIGATION.

ART. 30. Nothing in these rules shall interfere with the operation of a special rule, duly made by local authority, relative to the navigation of any harbor, river, or inland waters.—(26 Stat., 328, chap. 802.)

DISTRESS SIGNALS.

Article thirty-one. When a vessel is in distress and requires assistance from other vessels or from the shore the following shall be the signals to be used or displayed by her, either together or separately, namely:

In the daytime—

First. A gun or other explosive signal fired at intervals of about a minute.

Second. The international code signal of distress indicated by N C.

Third. The distance signal, consisting of a square flag, having either above or below it a ball or anything resembling a ball.

Fourth. A continuous sounding with any fog-signal apparatus.

At night—

First. A gun or other explosive signal fired at intervals of about a minute.

Second. Flames on the vessel (as from a burning tar barrél, oil barrel, and so forth).

Third. Rockets or shells throwing stars of any color or description, fired one at a time, at short intervals.

Fourth. A continuous sounding with any fog-signal apparatus.—(26 Stat., 328, chap. 802; 28 Stat., 83, chap. 83.)

This article was expressly amended and reenacted to read as above by act of May 28, 1894 (28 Stat., 83).

This section shall not be construed to mean that so long as a clerk or employee is borne upon the rolls of the Department in excess of the time herein provided for or granted that he or she shall be entitled to pay during the period of such excessive absence, but that the pay shall stop upon the expiration of the granted leave.

Hereafter it shall be the duty of the head of each Executive Department to require monthly reports to be made to him as to the condition of the public business in the several bureaus or offices of his Department at Washington; and in each case where such reports disclose that the public business is in arrears, the head of the Department in which such arrears exist shall require, as provided herein, an extension of the hours of service to such clerks or employees as may be necessary to bring up such arrears of public business.

Hereafter it shall be the duty of the head of each Executive Department, or other Government establishment at the seat of government, not under an Executive Department, to make at the expiration of each quarter of the fiscal year a written report to the President as to the condition of the public business in his Executive Department or Government establishment, and whether any branch thereof is in arrears.—(27 Stat., 715, chap. 211; 30 Stat., 316-317, chap. 68.)

[1894, Aug. 13. Contractors on public works, protection of laborers and material men.] That hereafter any person or persons entering into a formal contract with the United States for the construction of any public building, or the prosecution and completion of any public work, or for repairs upon any public building or public work, shall be required, before commencing such work, to execute the usual penal bond, with good and sufficient sureties, with the additional obligation that such contractor or contractors shall promptly make payments to all persons supplying him or them with labor and materials in the prosecution of the work provided for in such contract; and any person, company, or corporation who has furnished labor or materials used in the construction or repair of any public building or public work, and payment for which has not been made, shall have the right to intervene and be made a party to any action instituted by the United States on the bond of the contractor, and to have their rights and claims adjudicated in such action and judgment rendered thereon, subject, however, to the priority of the claim and judgment of the United States. If the recovery on the bond should be inadequate to pay the amounts found due to all of said creditors, judgment shall be given to each creditor pro rata of the amount of the recovery. The surety on said bond may pay into court, for distribution among said claimants and creditors, the full amount of the sureties' liability, to wit, the penalty named in the bond, less any amount which said surety may have had to pay to the United States by reason of the execution of said bond, and upon so doing the surety will be relieved from further liability: Provided further, That in all suits instituted under the provisions of this Act such personal notice of the pendency of such suits, informing them of their right to intervene as the court may order, shall be given to all known creditors, and in addition thereto notice of publication in some newspaper of general circulation, published in the State or town where the contract is being performed, for at least three successive weeks, the last publication to be at least three months before the time limited therefor.—(28 Stat., 278, chap. 280; 33 Stat., 811–812, chap. 778.)

A steam vessel having a tow other than a raft shall in addition to the forward bright light mentioned in subdivision (a) of rule three carry in a vertical line not less than six feet above or below that light a second bright light of the same construction and character and fixed and carried in the same manner as the forward bright light mentioned in said subdivision (a) of rule three. Such steamer shall also carry a small bright light abaft the funnel or after mast for the tow to steer by, but such light shall not be visible forward of the beam.—(28 Stat., 646, chap. 64.)

RULE 5. A steam vessel having a raft in tow shall, instead of the forward lights mentioned in rule four, carry on or in front of the foremast, or if a vessel without a foremast then in the fore part of the vessel, at a height above the hull of not less than twenty feet, and if the beam of the vessel exceeds twenty feet then at a height above the hull not less than such beam, so however that such height need not exceed forty feet, two bright lights in a horizontal line athwartships and not less than eight feet apart, each so fixed as to throw the light all around the horizon and of such character as to be visible at a distance of at least five miles. Such steamer shall also carry the small bright steering light aft, of the character and fixed as required in rule four.—(28 Stat., 646, chap. 64.)

RULE 6. A sailing vessel under way and any vessel being towed shall carry the side lights mentioned in rule three.

A vessel in tow shall also carry a small bright light aft, but such light shall not be visible forward of the beam.—(28 Stat., 646, chap. 64.)

RULE 8. Whenever, as in the case of small vessels under way during bad weather, the green and red side lights can not be fixed, these lights shall be kept at hand lighted and ready for use, and shall, on the approach of or to other vessels, be exhibited on their respective sides in sufficient time to prevent collision, in such manner as to make them most visible, and so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side, nor the red light on the starboard side, nor, if practicable, more than two points abaft the beam on their respective sides. To make the use of these portable lights more certain and easy, they shall each be painted outside with the color of the light they respectively contain, and shall be provided with suitable screens.—(28 Stat., 646-647, chap. 64.)

RULE 9. A vessel under one hundred and fifty feet register length, when at anchor, shall carry forward, where it can best be seen, but at a height not exceeding twenty feet above the hull, a white light in a lantern constructed so as to show a clear, uniform, and unbroken light, visible all around the horizon, at a distance of at least one mile.

A vessel of one hundred and fifty feet or upward in register length, when at anchor, shall carry in the forward part of the vessel, at a height of not less than twenty and not exceeding forty feet above the hull, one such light, and at or near the stern of the vessel, and at such a height that it shall be not less than fifteen feet lower than the forward light, another such light.—(28 Stat., 647, chap. 64.)

RULE 10. Produce boats, canal boats, fishing boats, rafts, or other water craft navigating any bay, harbor, or river by hand power, horse power, sail, or by the current of the river, or which shall be anchored or moored in or near the channel or fairway of any bay, harbor, or river, and not otherwise provided for in these rules, shall carry one or more good white lights, which shall be placed in such manner as shall be prescribed by the Board of Supervising Inspectors of Steam Vessels.—(28 Stat., 647, chap. 64.)

RULE 11. Open boats shall not be obliged to carry the side lights required for other vessels, but shall, if they do not carry such lights, carry a lantern having a green slide on one side and a red slide on the other side; and on the approach of or to other vessels, such lantern shall be exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision, and in such a manner that the green light shall not be seen on the port side, nor the red light on the starboard side. Open boats, when at anchor or stationary, shall exhibit a bright white light. They shall not, however, be prevented from using a flare-up in addition if considered expedient.—(28 Stat., 647, chap. 64.)

RULE 12. Sailing vessels shall at all times, on the approach of any steamer during the nighttime, show a lighted torch upon that point or quarter to which such steamer shall be approaching.—(28 Stat., 647, chap. 64.)

RULE 13. FOG SIGNALS.

RULE 14. A steam vessel shall be provided with an efficient whistle, sounded by steam or by some substitute for steam, placed before the funnel not less than eight feet from the deck, or in such other place as the local inspectors of steam vessels shall determine, and of such character as to be heard in ordinary weather at a distance of at least two miles, and with an efficient bell, and it is hereby made the duty of the United States local inspectors of steam vessels when inspecting the same to require each steamer to be furnished with such whistle and bell. A sailing vessel shall be provided with an efficient fog horn and with an efficient bell.

Whenever there is thick weather by reason of fog, mist, falling snow, heavy rainstorms, or other causes, whether by day or by night, fog signals shall be used as follows:

(a) A steam vessel under way, excepting only a steam vessel with raft in tow, shall sound at intervals of not more than one minute three distinct blasts of her whistle.

(b) Every vessel in tow of another vessel shall, at intervals of one minute, sound four bells on a good and efficient and properly placed bell as follows: By striking the bell twice in quick succession, followed by a little longer interval, and then again striking twice in quick succession (in the manner in which four bells is struck in indicating time).

(c) A steamer with a raft in tow shall sound at intervals of not more than one minute a screeching or Modoc whistle for from three to five seconds.

(d) A sailing vessel under way and not in tow shall sound at intervals of not more than one minute—

If on the starboard tack with wind forward of abeam, one blast of her fog horn;

If on the port tack with wind forward of the beam, two blasts of her fog horn;

If she has the wind abaft the beam on either side, three blasts of her fog horn.

(e) Any vessel at anchor and any vessel aground in or near a channel or fairway shall at intervals of not more than two minutes ring the bell rapidly for three to five seconds.

(f) Vessels of less than ten tons registered tonnage, not being steam vessels, shall not be obliged to give the above-mentioned signals, but if they do not they shall make some other efficient sound signal at intervals of not more than one minute.

(g) Produce boats, fishing boats, rafts, or other water craft navigating by hand power or by the current of the river, or anchored or moored in or near the channel or fairway and not in any port, and not otherwise provided for in these rules, shall sound a fog horn, or equivalent signal, at intervals of not more than one minute.—(28 Stat., 647-648, chap. 64.)

RULE 15. Every vessel shall, in thick weather, by reason of fog, mist, falling snow, heavy rainstorms, or other causes, go at moderate speed. A steam vessel hearing, apparently not more than four points from right ahead, the fog signal of another vessel shall at once reduce her speed to bare steerage-way, and navigate with caution until the vessels shall have passed each other.—(28 Stat., 648, chap. 64.)

STEERING AND SAILING RULES.

SAILING VESSELS.

RULE 16. When two sailing vessels are approaching one another so as to involve risk of collision one of them shall keep out of the way of the other, as follows, namely:

(a) A vessel which is running free shall keep out of the way of a vessel which is closehauled.

(b) A vessel which is closehauled on the port tack shall keep out of the way of a vessel which is closehauled on the starboard tack.

(c) When both are running free, with the wind on different sides, the vessel which has the wind on the port side shall keep out of the way of the other.

(d) When they are running free, with the wind on the same side, the vessel which is to windward shall keep out of the way of the vessel which is to leeward.—(28 Stat., 648, chap. 64.)

STEAM VESSELS.

RULE 17. When two steam vessels are meeting end on, or nearly end on, so as to involve risk of collision each shall alter her course to starboard, so that each shall pass on the port side of the other.—(28 Stat., 648, chap. 64.)

RULE 18.—When two steam vessels are crossing so as to involve risk of collision the vessel which has the other on her own starboard side shall keep out of the way of the other.—(28 Stat., 648, chap. 64.)

RULE 19. When a steam vessel and a sailing vessel are proceeding in such directions as to involve risk of collision the steam vessel shall keep out of the way of the sailing vessel.—(28 Stat., 648, chap. 64.)

RULE 20.—Where, by any of the rules herein prescribed, one of two vessels shall keep out of the way, the other shall keep her course and speed.—(28 Stat., 649, chap. 64.)

RULE 21. Every steam vessel which is directed by these rules to keep out of the way of another vessel shall, on approaching her, if necessary, slacken her speed or stop or reverse.—(28 Stat., 649, chap. 64.)

RULE 22. Notwithstanding anything contained in these rules every vessel overtaking any other shall keep out of the way of the overtaken vessel.—(28 Stat., 649, chap. 64.)

RULE 23. In all weathers every steam vessel under way in taking any course authorized or required by these rules shall indicate that course by the following signals on her whistle, to be accompanied whenever required by corresponding alteration of her helm; and every steam vessel receiving a signal from another shall promptly respond with the same signal or, as provided in Rule Twenty-six:

One blast to mean, "I am directing my course to starboard."

Two blasts to mean, "I am directing my course to port." But the giving or answering signals by a vessel required to keep her course shall not vary the duties and obligations of the respective vessels.—(28 Stat., 649, chap. 64.)

RULE 24. That in all narrow channels where there is a current, and in the rivers Saint Mary, Saint Clair, Detroit, Niagara, and Saint Lawrence, when two steamers are meeting, the descending steamer shall have the right of way, and shall, before the vessel shall have arrived within the distance of one-half mile of each other, give the signal necessary to indicate which side she elects to take.—(28 Stat., 649, chap. 64.)

RULE 25. In all channels less than five hundred feet in width, no steam vessel shall pass another going in the same direction unless the steam vessel ahead be disabled or signify her willingness that the steam vessel astern shall pass, when the steam vessel astern may pass, subject, however, to the other rules applicable to such a situation. And when steam vessels proceeding in opposite directions are about to meet in such channels, both such vessels shall be slowed down to a moderate speed, according to the circumstances.—(28 Stat., 649, chap. 64.)

RULE 26. If the pilot of a steam vessel to which a passing signal is sounded deems it unsafe to accept and assent to said signal, he shall not sound a cross signal; but in that case, and in every case where the pilot of one steamer fails to understand the course or intention of an approaching steamer, whether from signals being given or answered erroneously, or from other causes, the pilot of such steamer so receiving the first passing signal, or the pilot so in doubt, shall sound several short and rapid blasts of the whistle; and if the vessels shall have approached within half a mile of each other both shall reduce their speed to bare steerageway, and, if necessary, stop and reverse. [28 Stat., 649, chap. 64.]

RULE 27. In obeying and construing these rules due regard shall be had to all dangers of navigation and collision and to any special circumstances which may render a departure from the above rules necessary in order to avoid immediate danger. [28 Stat., 649, chap. 64.]

RULE 28. Nothing in these rules shall exonerate any vessel, or the owner or master or crew thereof, from the consequences of any neglect to carry lights or signals, or of any neglect to keep a proper lookout, or of a neglect of any precaution which may be required by the ordinary practice of seamen, or by the special circumstances of the case. [28 Stat., 649, chap. 64.]

(28 Stat., 649, chap. 64.)

[1895, Feb. 8, sec. 3. Regulations to be established for enforcement of act; steam vessels passing each other; etc.] That the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States shall have authority to establish all necessary regulations, not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act, required to carry the same into effect.

The Board of Supervising Inspectors of the United States shall have authority to establish such regulations to be observed by all steam vessels in passing each other, not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act, as they shall from time to time deem necessary; and all regulations adopted by the said Board of Supervising Inspectors under the authority of this Act, when approved by the Secretary of the Treasury, shall have the force of law. Two printed copies of any such regulations for passing, signed by them, shall be furnished to each steam vessel, and shall at all times be kept posted up in conspicuous places on board.—(28 Stat., 649-650, chap. 64.)

This provision was expressly amended and reenacted to read as above by act of October 22, 1914 (38 Stat., 765–766).

[1896, June 10. Allotments of pay.] That the Secretary of the Navy be, and he is hereby, authorized to permit officers of the Navy and the Marine Corps to make allotments from their pay, under such regulations as he may prescribe, for the support of their families or relatives, for their own savings, or for other proper purposes, during such time as they may be absent at sea, on distant duty, or under other circumstances warranting such action.—(29 Stat., 361, chap. 399.)

See sections 1430, 1551, 1576, and 3477, Revised Statutes, and notes thereto.

[1896, June 10. Officers reappointed, credit for previous service.] That all officers who have been or may be appointed to any corps of the Navy or to the Marine Corps after service in a different corps of the Navy or of the Marine Corps shall have all the benefits of their previous service in the same manner as if said appointments were a reentry into the Navy or into the Marine Corps.—(29 Stat., 361, chapter, 399.)

This enactment superseded a similar provision contained in the act of July 26, 1894 (28 Stat., 123), which did not make specific reference to the Marine Corps.

See sections 1443, 1556, and 1600, Revised Statutes; and see act of March 3, 1883 (22 Stat., 473).

[1896, June 10. Officers employed by contractors.] That hereafter no payment shall be made from appropriations made by Congress to any officer in the Navy or Marine Corps on the active or retired list while such officer is employed, after June thirtieth, eighteen hundred and ninety-seven, by any person or company furnishing naval supplies or war material to the Government; and such employment is hereby made unlawful after said date.—(29 Stat., 361, chap. 399.)

See sections 1440, 1763-1765, and 1860, Revised Statutes, and notes thereto, for other restrictions upon employment of naval officers; see also sections 41 and 112, Criminal Code, act of March 4, 1909 (35 Stat., 1097, 1108).

Nature of employment forbidden.—"The law makes no distinction as to the character of service rendered by a retired officer of the Navy who might be in the employ of a contractor, and makes no provision for exceptions on any ground." Therefore, the acceptance by a retired officer of employment as assistant superintendent of motive power with a company furnishing naval supplies or war material for the Government would be unlawful, even though such officer would have nothing to do with the manufacture or sale of products. (Department's letter, January 19, 1910; file 9736-14.)

The question whether this law prevents retired officers from serving as "directors" of a company furnishing naval supplies to the Government depends upon the construction of the words "employed" and "employment" as used therein. It would seem that retired officers can not legally serve in this capacity. (Opinion of Judge Advocate General, June 6, 1908; file 9736-9.)

Without regard to whether employment by a retired officer as superintendent or foreman with contractors performing work on contracts at a naval training station is specifically prohibited by law or regulation, the acceptance of such employment by a retired officer would be regarded by the Department as in the highest degree objectionable and improper. (Department's letter, May 26, 1910; file 9736-17.)

[1896, June 10. Tobacco, advertisement for.] And the Secretary of the Navy is hereby authorized and directed to cause advertisement to be made for tobacco for the use of the Navy, as the needs of the service may require, in the manner prescribed by law for other supplies. Bidders shall submit with their proposals a sample of the tobacco which they propose to furnish, and the contract shall, in the discretion of the Department, be awarded to the bidder whose sample is found by a board of officers to be the best adapted for use in the Navy.—(29 Stat., 370, chap. 399.)

See sections 3718, 3721, Revised Statutes, and notes thereto.

[1896, June 10. Model tank for experiments.] For making plans, examining and preparing the ground, and other preliminary work toward the construction of a model tank, with all buildings and appliances, to be built upon the grounds of the navy yard at Washington, District of Columbia, under the Bureau of Construction and Repair of the Navy Department, which shall conduct therein the work of investigating and determining the most suitable and desirable shapes and forms to be adopted for United States naval vessels, seven thousand five hundred dollars: Provided, That upon the authorization of the Secretary of the Navy experiments may be made at this establishment for private shipbuilders, who shall defray the cost of material and of labor of per diem employees for such experiments: And provided further, That the results of such private experiments shall be regarded as confidential and shall not be divulged without the consent of the shipbuilder for whom they may be made.—(29 Stat., 372, chap. 399.)

[1896, June 10. Mileage, Marine Corps.] And hereafter officers of the Marine Corps traveling under orders without troops shall be allowed the same mileage as is now allowed officers of the Navy traveling without troops.—(29 Stat., 376, chap. 399.)

See notes to sections 1566 and 1612, Revised Statutes.

[1897, Feb. 13. Passed assistant surgeons to be commissioned.] That passed assistant surgeons now borne upon the Navy Register shall be commissioned as such by the President, such commissions to bear the dates upon which said passed assistant surgeons, respectively, received their appointments as such; and hereafter assistant surgeons shall be regularly promoted and commissioned as passed assistant surgeons, and passed assistant surgeons as surgeons, subject to such examinations as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy: Provided, however, That no examination of passed assistant surgeons shall be ordered until the expiration of six months from the passage of this Act, during which time promotions shall be made as now provided by law.—(29 Stat., 526, chap. 221.)

See note to section 1368, Revised Statutes under "Passed assistant surgeons."

[1897, Mar. 3, sec. 7. Applications for patents, heads of Departments to be represented.] That in every case where the head of any Department of the Government shall request the Commissioner of Patents to expedite the consideration of an application for a patent it shall be the duty of such head of a Department to be represented before the Commissioner in order to prevent the improper issue of a patent.—(29 Stat., 694, chap. 391.)

See note to section 4894, Revised Statutes.

[1897, June 4. Branch hydrographic offices.] That the Secretary of the Navy is hereby authorized to establish branch hydrographic offices at Duluth, in the State of Minnesota, Sault Sainte Marie, in the State of Michigan, and Buffalo, in the State of New York, the same to be conducted under the provisions of an Act entitled "An Act to establish a hydrographic office in the Navy Department," approved June twenty-first, eighteen hundred and sixty-six.—(30 Stat., 39, chap. 2.)

The act of June 21, 1866, referred to in this provision, is embodied in section 431, Revised Statutes.

See sections 431-433, Revised Statutes, and notes thereto.

[1897, June 7. Regulations for navigation of all harbors, rivers, and inland waters of the United States, except the Great Lakes, etc., and except the Red River of the North, etc.]

Whereas the provisions of chapter eight hundred and two of the laws of eighteen hundred and ninety, and the amendments thereto, adopting regulations for preventing collisions at sea, apply to all waters of the United States connected with the high seas navigable by seagoing vessels, except so far as the navigation of any harbor, river, or inland waters is regulated by special rules duly made by local authority; and

Whereas it is desirable that the regulations relating to the navigation of all harbors, rivers, and inland waters of the United States, except the Great Lakes and their connecting and tributary waters as far east as Montreal and the Red River of the North and rivers emptying into the Gulf of Mexico and their tributaries, shall be stated in one Act: Therefore,

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the following regulations for preventing collision shall be followed by all vessels navigating all harbors, rivers, and inland waters of the United States, except the Great Lakes and their connecting and tributary waters as far east as Montreal and the Red River of the North and rivers emptying into the Gulf of Mexico and their tributaries, and are hereby declared special rules duly made by local authority:—(30 Stat., 96, chap. 4.)

PRELIMINARY.

In the following rules every steam-vessel which is under sail and not under steam is to be considered a sailing-vessel, and every vessel under steam whether under sail or not, is to be considered a steam vessel.

The word "steam-vessel" shall include any vessel propelled by machinery.

A vessel is "under way," within the meaning of these rules, when she is not at anchor, or made fast to the shore, or aground.

RULES CONCERNING LIGHTS, AND SO FORTH.

The word "visible" in these rules, when applied to lights, shall mean visible on a dark night with a clear atmosphere.

ARTICLE 1. The rules concerning lights shall be complied with in all weathers from sunset to sunrise, and during such time no other lights which may be mistaken for the prescribed lights shall be exhibited.—(30 Stat., 96, chap. 4.)

ART. 2. A steam-vessel when under way shall carry—(a) On or in front of the foremast, or, if a vessel without a foremast, then in the fore part of the vessel, a bright white light so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of twenty points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light ten points on each side of the vessel, namely, from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on either side, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least five miles.

(b) On the starboard side a green light so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of ten points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the starboard side, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least two miles.

(c) On the port side a red light so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of ten points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the port side, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least two miles.

(d) The said green and red side-lights shall be fitted with inboard screens projecting at least three feet forward from the light, so as to prevent these lights from being seen across the bow.

(e) A sea-going steam-vessel when under way may carry an additional white light similar in construction to the light mentioned in subdivision (a). These two lights shall be so placed in line with the keel that one shall be at least fifteen feet higher than the other, and in such a position with reference to each other that the lower light shall be forward of the upper one. The vertical distance between these lights shall be less than the horizontal distance.

(f) All steam-vessels (except sea-going vessels and ferry-boats), shall carry in addition to green and red lights required by article two (b), (c), and screens as required by article two (d), a central range of two white lights; the after-light being carried at an elevation at least fifteen feet above the light at the head of the vessel. The head-light shall be so constructed as to show an unbroken light through twenty points of the compass, namely, from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on either side of the vessel, and the after-light so as to show all around the horizon.—(30 Stat., 96-97, chap. 4.)

ART. 3. A steam-vessel when towing another vessel shall, in addition to her side-lights, carry two bright white lights in a vertical line one over the other, not less than three feet apart, and when towing more than one vessel shall carry an additional bright white light three feet above or below such lights, if the length of the tow measuring from the stern of the towing vessel to the stern of the last vessel towed exceeds six hundred feet. Each of these lights shall be of the same construction and character, and shall be carried in the same position as the white light mentioned in article two (a) or the after range light mentioned in article two (f).

Such steam-vessel may carry a small white light abaft the funnel or aftermast for the vessel towed to steer by, but such light shall not be visible forward of the beam.—(30 Stat., 97, chap. 4.)

This act did not contain any article numbered four.

ART. 5. A sailing-vessel under way or being towed shall carry the same lights as are prescribed by article two for a steam-vessel under way, with the exception of the white lights mentioned therein, which they shall never carry.—(30 Stat., 97, chap. 4.)

ART. 6. Whenever, as in the case of vessels of less than ten gross tons under way during bad weather, the green and red side-lights can not be fixed, these lights shall be kept at hand, lighted and ready for use; and shall, on the approach of or to other vessels, be exhibited on their respective sides in sufficient time to prevent collision, in such manner as to make them most visible, and so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side, nor, if practicable, more than two points abaft the beam on their respective sides. To make the use of these portable lights more certain and easy the lanterns containing them shall each be painted outside with the color of the light they respectively contain, and shall be provided with proper screens.—(30 Stat., 97, chap. 4.)

ART. 7. Rowing boats, whether under oars or sail, shall have ready at hand a lantern showing a white light which shall be temporarily exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision.—(30 Stat., 98, chap. 4.)

ART. 8. Pilot-vessels when engaged on their station on pilotage duty shall not show the lights required for other vessels, but shall carry a white light at the masthead, visible all around the horizon, and shall also exhibit a flare-up light or flare-up lights at short intervals, which shall never exceed fifteen minutes.

On the near approach of or to other vessels they shall have their side-lights lighted, ready for use, and shall flash or show them at short intervals, to indicate the direction in which they are heading, but the green light shall not be shown on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side.

A pilot-vessel of such a class as to be obliged to go alongside of a vessel to put a pilot on board may show the white light instead of carrying it at the masthead, and may, instead of the colored lights above mentioned, have at hand, ready for use, a lantern with a green glass on the one side and a red glass on the other, to be used as prescribed above.

Pilot-vessels, when not engaged on their station on pilotage duty, shall carry lights similar to those of other vessels of their tonnage.—(30 Stat., 98, chap. 4.)

By act of February 19, 1900 (31 Stat., 30-31), which was expressly "supplementary" to this article, it was provided: "That a steam pilot vessel, when engaged on her station on pilotage duty and in waters of the United States, and not at anchor, shall, in addition to the lights required for all pilot boats, carry at a distance of eight feet below her white masthead light a red light, visible all around the horizon and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night with a clear atmosphere at a distance of at least two miles, and also the colored side lights required to be carried by vessels when under way.

"When engaged on her station on pilotage duty and in waters of the United States, and at anchor, she shall carry in addition to the lights required for all pilot boats the red light above mentioned, but not the colored side lights.

"When not engaged on her station on pilotage duty, she shall carry the same lights as other steam vessels.

"SEC. 2. That this Act shall be construed as supplementary to article eight of the Act approved June seventh, eighteen hundred and ninety-seven, entitled 'An Act to adopt regulations for preventing collisions upon certain harbors, rivers, and inland waters of the United States,' and to article eight of an Act approved August nineteenth, eighteen hundred and ninety, entitled 'An Act to adopt regulations for preventing collisions at sea.'"

ART. 9. (a) Fishing-vessels of less than ten gross tons, when under way and when not having their nets, trawls, dredges, or lines in the water, shall not be obliged to carry the colored side-lights; but every such vessel shall, in lieu thereof, have ready at hand a lantern with a green glass on one side and a red glass on the other side, and on approaching to or being approached by another vessel such lantern shall be exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision, so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side.

(b) All fishing-vessels and fishing-boats of ten gross tons or upward, when under way and when not having their nets, trawls, dredges, or lines in the water, shall carry and show the same lights as other vessels under way.

(c) All vessels, when trawling, dredging, or fishing with any kind of dragnets or lines, shall exhibit, from some part of the vessel where they can be best seen, two lights. One of these lights shall be red and the other shall be white. The red light shall be above the white light, and shall be at a vertical distance from it of not less than six feet and not more than twelve feet; and the horizontal distance between them, if any, shall not be more than ten feet. These two lights shall be of such a character and contained in lanterns of such construction as to be visible all round the horizon, the white light a distance of not less than three miles and the red light of not less than two miles.

(d) Rafts, or other water craft not herein provided for, navigating by hand power, horse power, or by the current of the river, shall carry one or more good white lights, which shall be placed in such manner as shall be prescribed by the Board of Supervising Inspectors of Steam Vessels.—(30 Stat., 98, chap. 4.)

ART. 10. A vessel which is being overtaken by another, except a steam-vessel with an after range-light showing all around the horizon, shall show from her stern to such last-mentioned vessel a white light or a flare-up light.—(30 Stat., 98, chap. 4.)

ART. 11. A vessel under one hundred and fifty feet in length when at anchor shall carry forward, where it can best be seen, but at a height not exceeding twenty feet above the hull, a white light, in a lantern so constructed as to show a clear, uniform, and unbroken light visible all around the horizon at a distance of at least one mile.

A vessel of one hundred and fifty feet or upwards in length when at anchor shall carry in the forward part of the vessel, at a height of not less than twenty and not exceeding forty feet above the hull, one such light, and at or near the stern of the vessel, and at such a height that it shall be not less than fifteen feet lower than the forward light, another such light.

The length of a vessel shall be deemed to be the length appearing in her certificate of registry.—(30 Stat., 98–99, chap. 4.)

ART. 12. Every vessel may, if necessary, in order to attract attention, in addition to the lights which she is by these rules required to carry, show a flare-up light or use any detonating signal that can not be mistaken for a distress signal.—(30 Stat., 99, chap. 4.)

ART. 13. Nothing in these rules shall interfere with the operation of any special rules made by the Government of any nation with respect to additional station and signal lights for two or more ships of war or for vessels sailing under convoy, or with the exhibition of recognition signals adopted by shipowners, which have been authorized by their respective Governments, and duly registered and published.—(30 Stat., 99, chap. 4.)

ART. 14. A steam-vessel proceeding under sail only, but having her funnel up, may carry in daytime, forward, where it can best be seen, one black ball or shape two feet in diameter.—(30 Stat., 99, chap. 4.)

SOUND SIGNALS FOR FOG, AND SO FORTH.

ART. 15. All signals prescribed by this article for vessels under way shall be given:

1. By “steam-vessels” on the whistle or siren.
2. By “sailing-vessels” and “vessels towed” on the fog horn.

The words "prolonged blast" used in this article shall mean a blast of from four to six seconds duration.

A steam-vessel shall be provided with an efficient whistle or siren, sounded by steam or by some substitute for steam, so placed that the sound may not be intercepted by any obstruction, and with an efficient fog horn; also with an efficient bell. A sailing-vessel of twenty tons gross tonnage or upward shall be provided with a similar fog horn and bell.

In fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rainstorms, whether by day or night, the signals described in this article shall be used as follows, namely:

(a) A steam-vessel under way shall sound, at intervals of not more than one minute, a prolonged blast.

(c) A sailing-vessel under way shall sound, at intervals of not more than one minute, when on the starboard tack, one blast; when on the port tack, two blasts in succession, and when with the wind abaft the beam, three blasts in succession.

(d) A vessel when at anchor shall, at intervals, of not more than one minute, ring the bell rapidly for about five seconds.

(e) A steam-vessel when towing, shall, instead of the signals prescribed in subdivision (a) of this article, at intervals of not more than one minute, sound three blasts in succession, namely, one prolonged blast followed by two short blasts. A vessel towed may give this signal and she shall not give any other.

(f) All rafts or other water craft, not herein provided for, navigating by hand power, horse power, or by the current of the river, shall sound a blast of the fog-horn, or equivalent signal, at intervals of not more than one minute.—(30 Stat., 99, chap. 4.)

SPEED OF SHIPS TO BE MODERATE IN FOG, AND SO FORTH.

ART. 16. Every vessel shall, in a fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rainstorms, go at a moderate speed, having careful regard to the existing circumstances and conditions.

A steam-vessel hearing, apparently forward of her beam, the fog-signal of a vessel the position of which is not ascertained shall, so far as the circumstances of the case admit, stop her engines, and then navigate with caution until danger of collision is over.—(30 Stat., 99, chap. 4.)

STEERING AND SAILING RULES.

PRELIMINARY—RISK OF COLLISION.

Risk of collision can, when circumstances permit, be ascertained by carefully watching the compass bearing of an approaching vessel. If the bearing does not appreciably change, such risk should be deemed to exist.

ART. 17. When two sailing-vessels are approaching one another, so as to involve risk of collision, one of them shall keep out of the way of the other as follows, namely:

(a) A vessel which is running free shall keep out of the way of a vessel which is close-hauled.

(b) A vessel which is closed-hauled on the port tack shall keep out of the way of a vessel which is closed-hauled on the starboard tack.

(c) When both are running free, with the wind on different sides, the vessel which has the wind on the port side shall keep out of the way of the other.

(d) When both are running free, with the wind on the same side, the vessel which is to the windward shall keep out of the way of the vessel which is to the leeward.

(e) A vessel which has the wind aft shall keep out of the way of the other vessel.—(30 Stat., 100, chap. 4.)

ART. 18. RULE I. When steam-vessels are approaching each other head and head, that is, end on, or nearly so, it shall be the duty of each to pass on the port side of the other; and either vessel shall give, as a signal of her intention, one short and distinct blast of her whistle, which the other vessel shall answer promptly by a similar blast of her whistle, and thereupon such vessels shall pass on the port side of each other. But if the courses of such vessels are so far on the starboard of each other as not to be considered as meeting head and head, either vessel shall immediately give two short and distinct blasts of her whistle, which the other vessel shall answer promptly by two similar blasts of her whistle, and they shall pass on the starboard side of each other.

The foregoing only applies to cases where vessels are meeting end on or nearly end on, in such a manner as to involve risk of collision; in other words, to cases in which, by day, each vessel sees the masts of the other in a line, or nearly in a line, with her own, and by night to cases in which each vessel is in such a position as to see both the sidelights of the other.

It does not apply by day to cases in which a vessel sees another ahead crossing her own course, or by night to cases where the red light of one vessel is opposed to the red light of the other, or where the green light of one vessel is opposed to the green light of the other, or where a red light without a green light or a green light without a red light, is seen ahead, or where both green and red lights are seen anywhere but ahead.—(30 Stat., 100, chap. 4.)

This article did not contain any Rule II, IV, VI, or VII.

RULE III. If, when steam-vessels are approaching each other, either vessel fails to understand the course or intention of the other, from any cause, the vessel so in doubt shall immediately signify the same by giving several short and rapid blasts, not less than four, of the steam-whistle.—(30 Stat., 100, chap. 4.)

RULE V. Whenever a steam-vessel is nearing a short bend or curve in the channel, where, from the height of the banks or other cause, a steam-vessel approaching from the opposite direction can not be seen for a distance of half a mile, such steam-vessel, when she shall have arrived within half a mile of such curve or bend, shall give a signal by one long blast of the steam whistle, which signal shall be answered by a similar blast, given by any approaching steam-vessel that may be within hearing. Should such signal be so answered by a steam-vessel upon the farther side of such bend, then the usual signals for meeting and passing shall immediately be given and answered; but, if the first alarm signal of such vessel be not answered, she is to consider the channel clear and govern herself accordingly.

When steam-vessels are moved from their docks or berths, and other boats are liable to pass from any direction toward them, they shall give the same signal as in the case of vessels meeting at a bend, but immediately after clearing the berths so as to be fully in sight they shall be governed by the steering and sailing rules.—(30 Stat., 100–101, chap. 4.)

RULE VIII. When steam-vessels are running in the same direction, and the vessel which is astern shall desire to pass on the right or starboard hand of the vessel ahead, she shall give one short blast of the steam-whistle, as a signal of such desire, and if the vessel ahead answers with one blast, she shall put her helm to port; or if she shall desire to pass on the left or port side of the vessel ahead, she shall give two short blasts of the steam-whistle as a signal of such desire, and if the vessel ahead answers with two blasts, shall put her helm to starboard; or if the vessel ahead does not think it safe for the vessel astern to attempt to pass at that point, she shall immediately signify the same by giving several short and rapid blasts of the steam-whistle, not less than four, and under no circumstances shall the vessel astern attempt to pass the vessel ahead until such time as they have reached a point where it can be safely done, when said vessel ahead shall signify her willingness by blowing the proper signals. The vessel ahead shall in no case attempt to cross the bow or crowd upon the course of the passing vessel.—(30 Stat., 101, chap. 4.)

RULE IX. The whistle signals provided in the rules under this article, for steam-vessels meeting, passing, or overtaking, are never to be used except when steamers are in sight of each other, and the course and position of each can be determined in the daytime by a sight of the vessel itself, or by night by seeing its signal lights. In fog, mist, falling snow or heavy rainstorms, when vessels can not so see each other, fog-signals only must be given.—(30 Stat., 101, chap. 4.)

ART. 19. When two steam-vessels are crossing, so as to involve risk of collision, the vessel which has the other on her own starboard side shall keep out of the way of the other.—(30 Stat., 101, chap. 4.)

ART. 20. When a steam-vessel and a sailing-vessel are proceeding in such directions as to involve risk of collision, the steam-vessel shall keep out of the way of the sailing-vessel.—(30 Stat., 101, chap. 4.)

ART. 21. Where, by any of these rules, one of the two vessels is to keep out of the way, the other shall keep her course and speed.—(30 Stat., 101, chap. 4.)

ART. 22. Every vessel which is directed by these rules to keep out of the way of another vessel shall, if the circumstances of the case admit, avoid crossing ahead of the other.—(30 Stat., 101, chap. 4.)

ART. 23. Every steam-vessel which is directed by these rules to keep out of the way of another vessel shall, on approaching her, if necessary, slacken her speed or stop or reverse.—(30 Stat., 101, chap. 4.)

ART. 24. Notwithstanding anything contained in these rules every vessel, overtaking any other, shall keep out of the way of the overtaken vessel.

Every vessel coming up with another vessel from any direction more than two points abaft her beam, that is, in such a position, with reference to the vessel which she is overtaking that at night she would be unable to see either of that vessel's side-lights, shall be deemed to be an overtaking vessel; and no subsequent alteration of the bearing between the two vessels shall make the overtaking vessel a crossing vessel within the meaning of these rules, or relieve her of the duty of keeping clear of the overtaken vessel until she is finally past and clear.

As by day the overtaking vessel can not always know with certainty whether she is forward of or abaft this direction from the other vessel she should, if in doubt, assume that she is an overtaking vessel and keep out of the way.—(30 Stat., 101, chap. 4.)

ART. 25. In narrow channels every steam-vessel shall, when it is safe and practicable, keep to that side of the fair-way or mid-channel which lies on the starboard side of such vessel.—(30 Stat., 101, chap. 4.)

ART. 26.—Sailing-vessels under way shall keep out of the way of sailing-vessels or boats fishing with nets, or lines, or trawls, This rule shall not give to any vessel or boat engaged in fishing the right of obstructing a fair-way used by vessels other than fishing-vessels or boats.—(30 Stat., 102, chap. 4.)

ART. 27. In obeying and construing these rules due regard shall be had to all dangers of navigation and collision, and to any special circumstances which may render a departure from the above rules necessary in order to avoid immediate danger.—(30 Stat., 102, chap. 4.)

SOUND SIGNALS FOR VESSELS IN SIGHT OF ONE ANOTHER.

ART. 28. When vessels are in sight of one another a steam-vessel under way whose engines are going at full speed astern shall indicate that fact by three short blasts on the whistle.—(30 Stat., 102, chap. 4.)

NO VESSEL UNDER ANY CIRCUMSTANCES TO NEGLECT PROPER PRECAUTIONS.

ART. 29. Nothing in these rules shall exonerate any vessel, or the owner or master or crew thereof, from the consequences of any neglect to carry lights or signals, or of any neglect to keep a proper lookout, or of the neglect of any precaution which may be required by the ordinary practice of seamen, or by the special circumstances of the case.—(30 Stat., 102, chap. 4.)

ART. 30. The exhibition of any light on board of a vessel of war of the United States or a revenue cutter may be suspended whenever, in the opinion of the Secretary of the Navy, the commander in chief of a squadron, or the commander of a vessel acting singly, the special character of the service may require it.—(30 Stat., 102, chap. 4.)

DISTRESS SIGNALS.

ART. 31. When a vessel is in distress and requires assistance from other vessels or from the shore the following shall be the signals to be used or displayed by her, either together or separately, namely:

IN THE DAYTIME.

A continuous sounding with any fog-signal apparatus, or firing a gun.

AT NIGHT.

First. Flames on the vessel as from a burning tar barrel, oil barrel, and so forth.

Second. A continuous sounding with any fog-signal apparatus, or firing a gun.—(30 Stat., 102, chap. 4.)

[1897, June 7, sec. 2. Rules to be established as to steam vessels passing each other, lights and day signals, etc.] That the supervising inspectors of steam vessels and the Supervising Inspector General shall establish such rules to be observed by steam vessels in passing each other and as to the lights to be carried by ferryboats and by barges and canal boats when in tow of steam vessels, and as to the lights and day signals to be carried by vessels, dredges of all types, and vessels working on wrecks by other obstruction to navigation or moored for submarine operations, or made fast to a sunken object which may drift with the tide or be towed, not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act, as they from time to time may deem necessary for safety, which rules when approved by the Secretary of Commerce are hereby declared special rules duly made by local authority, as provided for in article thirty of chapter eight hundred and two of the laws of eighteen hundred and ninety. Two printed copies of such rules shall be furnished to such ferryboats, barges, dredges, canal boats, vessels working on wrecks and steam vessels, which rules shall be kept posted up in conspicuous places in such vessels, barges, dredges, and boats.—(30 Stat., 102, chap. 4; 38 Stat., 381, chap. 98.)

This section was expressly amended and reenacted to read as above, by act of May 25, 1914 (38 Stat., 381).

See note above, under section 1 of this act (30 Stat., 96).

[1897, June 7, sec. 3. Penalty for pilots, etc.] That every pilot, engineer, mate, or master of any steam-vessel, and every master or mate of any barge or canal-boat, who neglects or refuses to observe the provisions of this Act, or the regulations established in pursuance of the preceding section, shall be liable to a penalty of fifty dollars, and for all damages sustained by any passenger in his person or baggage by such neglect or refusal: Provided, That nothing herein shall relieve any vessel, owner or corporation from any liability incurred by reason of such neglect or refusal.—(30 Stat., 102-103, chap. 4.)

[1897, June 7, sec. 4. Penalty for vessels.] That every vessel that shall be navigated without complying with the provisions of this Act shall be liable to a penalty of two hundred dollars, one-half to go to the informer, for which sum the vessel so navigated shall be liable and may be seized and proceeded against by action in any district court of the United States having jurisdiction of the offense.—(30 Stat., 103, chap. 4.)

[1897, June 7, sec. 5. Repeal of prior laws and regulations; exceptions.] That sections forty-two hundred and thirty-three and forty-four hundred and twelve (with the regulations made in pursuance thereof, except the rules and regulations for the government of pilots of steamers navigating the Red River of the North and rivers emptying into the Gulf of Mexico and their tributaries, and except the rules for the Great Lakes and their connecting and tributary waters as far east as Montreal), and forty-four hundred and thirteen of the Revised Statutes of the United States, and chapter two hundred and two of the laws of eighteen hundred and ninety-three, and sections one and three of chapter one hundred and two of the laws of eighteen hundred and ninety-five, and sections five, twelve, and thirteen of the Act approved March third, eighteen hundred and ninety-seven, entitled "An Act to amend the laws relating to navigation," and all amendments thereto, are hereby repealed so far as the harbors, rivers, and inland waters aforesaid (except the Great Lakes and their connecting and tributary waters as far east as Montreal and the Red River of the North and rivers emptying into the Gulf of Mexico, and their tributaries) are concerned.—(30 Stat., 103, chap. 4.)

[1898, Mar. 15, sec. 3. Law books, etc., purchase from contingent funds.] That hereafter law books, books of reference, and periodicals for use of any Executive Department, or other Government establishment not under an Executive Department, at the seat of Government, shall not be purchased or paid for from any appropriation made for contingent expenses or for any specific or general purpose unless such purchase is authorized and payment therefor specifically provided in the law granting the appropriation.—(30 Stat., 316, chap. 68.)

See section 193, Revised Statutes, and notes thereto, as to use of contingent funds.

[1898, May 4. Assistant to chief, Bureau of Ordnance.] That a line officer of the Navy may be detailed temporarily as assistant to the Chief of the Bureau of Ordnance in the Navy Department, and that such officer during such detail shall receive the highest pay of his grade, and in the case of the death, resignation, absence, or sickness of the chief of the bureau shall, unless otherwise directed by the President, as provided by sections one and seventy-nine of the Revised Statutes, perform the duties of such chief until his successor is appointed or such absence or sickness shall cease, provided that, in case of the death, sickness, or absence on duty of the chief of the bureau and the assistant thereto, the chief clerk shall act as chief of the bureau.—(30 Stat., 373, chap. 234.)

See sections 177–182, and 421, Revised Statutes, and notes thereto.

[1898, May 4. Pensions of inmates, Naval Home and naval hospitals.] Whenever any officer, seaman, or marine entitled to a pension is admitted to the Naval Home at Philadelphia, or to a naval hospital, his pension, while he remains there, shall be deducted from his accounts and paid to the Secretary of the Navy for the benefit of the fund from which such home or hospital, respectively, is maintained; and section forty-eight hundred and thirteen of the Revised Statutes of the United States is hereby amended accordingly.—(30 Stat., 377, chap. 234.)

No. 30.)

The act of December 21, 1861, section 7 (12 Stat., 330), referred to in this resolution, was temporary legislation; the act of July 16, 1862 (12 Stat., 584), also referred to herein, was superseded by an identical provision contained in the act of May 17, 1864, section 3 (13 Stat., 79–80), which latter enactment was embodied in section 1407, Revised Statutes, see that section and note thereto; see also act of February 4, 1919 (40 Stat., 1056–1057), for later provisions on the subject.

[1898, June 17. Hospital Corps established; organization of.] That a hospital corps of the United States Navy is hereby established, and shall consist of pharmacists hospital stewards, hospital apprentices (first class), and hospital apprentices; and for this purpose the Secretary of the Navy is empowered to appoint twenty-five pharmacists with the rank, pay, and privileges of warrant officers, removable in the discretion of the Secretary, and to enlist, or cause to be enlisted, as many hospital stewards, hospital apprentices (first class), and hospital apprentices as in his judgment may be necessary, and to limit or fix the number, and to make such regulations as may be required for their enlistment and government. Enlisted men in the Navy or the Marine Corps shall be eligible for transfer to the hospital corps, and vacancies occurring in the grade of pharmacist shall be filled by the Secretary of the Navy by selection from those holding the rate of hospital steward.—(30 Stat., 474–475, chap. 463.)

SEC. 2. Section 3 of this act was expressly repealed by act of August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 573), which contained other provisions on the subject of pay of enlisted men of the Hospital Corps. (See note to section 1569, Revised Statutes, as to pay of enlisted men.)

The authorized strength of the Hospital Corps was fixed by act of August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 572), and its duties were prescribed by the same act (39 Stat., 573), superseding the provisions of sections 1 and 2 of this act on the same subject.

The pay of pharmacists was also prescribed by act of August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 573), which further provided for the promotion of pharmacists to chief pharmacists, thereby superseding a provision in the act of August 22, 1912 (37 Stat., 345), which had previously authorized such promotion.

See note to section 1405, Revised Statutes.

[1898, July 7. Leaves of absence, Executive Departments.] Nothing contained in section seven of the Act making appropriations for legislative, executive, and judicial expenses of the Government for the fiscal year eighteen hundred and ninety-nine, approved March fifteenth, eighteen hundred and ninety-eight, shall be construed to prevent the head of any Executive Department from granting thirty days' annual leave with pay in any one year to a clerk or employee, notwithstanding such clerk or employee may have had during such year not exceeding thirty days' leave with pay on account of sickness as provided in said section seven.—(30 Stat., 653, chap. 571.)

By act of June 4, 1920, section 5 (41 Stat., 836), it was provided that, until June 30, 1923, promotions to lieutenant (junior grade) may be made without regard to length of service.

[1899, Mar. 3, sec. 7. Chiefs of bureaus, rank and pay.]

See sections 421, 1471, 1472, and 1565, Revised Statutes, and notes thereto, for laws and decisions relating to chiefs of bureaus.

By act of May 13, 1908 (35 Stat., 128), it was provided that the pay and allowances of chiefs of bureaus "shall be the highest pay of the grade to which they belong, and not below that of rear admiral of the lower nine"; by act of June 24, 1910 (36 Stat., 607), it was provided that their pay and allowances shall be the

See sections 1471–1480, Revised Statutes, for provisions relating to relative rank of staff officers and chiefs of bureaus.

See section 1488, Revised Statutes, as to military command.

See section 1413, Revised Statutes, and note thereto, for later laws relating to civil engineers.

[1899, Mar. 3, sec. 8. Voluntary retirements, to create vacancies.]

That officers of the line in the grades of captain, commander, and lieutenant-commander may, by official application to the Secretary of the Navy, have their names placed on a list which shall be known as the list of "Applicants for voluntary retirement," and when at the end of any fiscal year the average vacancies for the fiscal years subsequent to the passage of this Act above the grade of commander have been less than thirteen, above the grade of lieutenant-commander less than twenty, above the grade of lieutenant less than twenty-nine, and above the grade of lieutenant (junior grade) less than forty, the President may, in the order of the rank of the applicants, place a sufficient number on the retired list with the rank and three-fourths the sea pay of the next higher grade, as now existing, including the grade of commodore, to cause the aforesaid vacancies for the fiscal year then being considered.—(30 Stat., 1006, chap. 413.)

By act of August 22, 1912 (37 Stat. 328), it was provided that officers thereafter retired under this section shall be retired with the rank and three-fourths of the sea pay of the grade from which retired.

See sections 1457 and 1588, Revised Statutes, and notes thereto, on general subject of rank and pay on retirement; see also next section of this act, set forth below, and note thereto.

[1899, Mar. 3, sec. 9. Compulsory retirements, to create vacancies.]

This section read as follows:

"That should it be found at the end of any fiscal year that the retirements pursuant to the provisions of law now in force, the voluntary retirements provided for in this Act, and casualties are not sufficient to cause the average vacancies enumerated in section eight of this Act, the Secretary of the Navy shall, on or about the first day of June, convene a board of five rear-admirals, and shall place at its disposal the service and medical records on file in the Navy Department of all the officers in the grades of captain, commander, lieutenant-commander, and lieutenant. The board shall then select, as soon as practicable after the first day of July, a sufficient number of officers from the before-mentioned grades, as constituted on the thirtieth day of June of that year, to cause the average vacancies enumerated in section eight of this Act. Each member of said board shall swear, or affirm, that he will, without prejudice or partiality, and having in view solely the special fitness of officers and the efficiency of the naval service, perform the duties imposed upon him by this Act. Its finding, which shall be in writing, signed by all the members, not less than four governing, shall be transmitted to the President, who shall thereupon, by order, make the transfers of such officers to the retired list as are selected by the board: Provided, That not more than five captains, four commanders, four lieutenant-commanders, and two lieutenants are so retired in any one year. The promotions to fill the vacancies thus created shall date from the thirtieth day of June of the current year: And provided further, That any officer retired under the provisions of this section shall be retired with the rank and three-fourths the sea pay of the next higher grade, including the grade of commodore, which is retained on the retired list for this purpose."—(30 Stat. 1006, chap. 413.)

It was amended by act of August 22, 1912 (37 Stat. 328), which provided that officers thereafter retired under this section were to be retired with the rank and three-fourths of the sea pay of the grade from which retired.

It was repealed by act of March 3, 1915. (38 Stat. 938.) The same act (38 Stat. 939), authorized the President, with the advice and consent of the Senate, within two years from the date of said act, to restore to the active list any officer of the Navy retired under this section. No restorations were made under said enactment. By act of August 29, 1916 (39 Stat. 602-603), the President was authorized to restore to the active list certain officers named therein who had been retired under the provisions of this and the preceding section.

See note to Constitution, Article I, section 7, clause 2, under "Veto of bill to restore to active list officer voluntarily retired," and "Veto of bill to restore to active list officer compulsorily retired."

Assistant naval constructors shall be promoted to the grade of naval constructor after not less than eight or more than fourteen years' service as assistant naval constructor: Provided, That the whole number of naval constructors and assistant naval constructors on the active list shall not exceed forty in all.—(30 Stat., 1006-1007, chap. 413.)

See sections 1402-1404, and 1477, Revised Statutes, and notes thereto, for later laws relating to the number and rank of construction officers.

Assistant naval constructors are appointed with the rank of lieutenant (junior grade), in accordance with this section; they are advanced in rank up to and including the rank of lieutenant commander with their "running mates" in the line, in accordance with act of August 29, 1916 (39 Stat. 576). They are promoted to naval constructor after length of service, in accordance with this section; naval constructors are advanced to ranks above lieutenant commander by selection, in accordance with act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat. 718).

Promotion of boatswains, gunners, carpenters, and sailmakers, to commissioned warrant officers, after six years from date of warrant, was authorized by act of April 27, 1904

By the Army appropriation act of May 11, 1908 (35 Stat., 108), it was provided that this section "shall not be construed as changing the pay of any naval officer by reason of the provisions of this Act."

So much of this provision as relates to pay has been superseded by later laws, except in so far as such later enactments have contained saving clauses protecting officers against any reduction in pay by reason thereof. (See note to sec. 1556, R. S., under "1. General rule; amendatory statutes.")

So much of this provision as relates to allowances is still in force, and has been extended to include all commissioned officers of the Navy. (See acts of May 13, 1908, 35 Stat., 128, and Aug. 29, 1916, 39 Stat., 581; see also 24 Comp. Dec. 610, noted under sec. 1487, R. S.; and see, as to allowances in general, notes to secs. 1487 and 1558, R. S.)

Prize and bounty, laws repealed.] And all provisions of law authorizing the distribution among captors of the whole or any portion of the proceeds of vessels, or any property hereafter captured, condemned as prize, or providing for the payment of bounty for the sinking or destruction of vessels of the enemy hereafter occurring in time of war, are hereby repealed.—(30 Stat., 1007, chap. 413.)

received by any commissioned officer at the time of its passage or thereafter."

The said examination shall be open, first, to all machinists by trade, of good record in the naval service, and if a sufficient number of machinists from the Navy are not found duly qualified, then any machinist of good character, not above thirty years of age, in civil life shall be eligible for such examination and appointment to fill the remaining vacancies. All subsequent vacancies in the list of warrant machinists shall be filled by competitive examination before a board ordered by the Secretary of the Navy, and open to all machinists by trade who are in the Navy, and machinists of good character, not above thirty years of age, in civil life authorized by the Secretary of the Navy to appear before said board, and, where candidates from civil life and from the naval service possess equal qualifications,

Additional numbers, promotion of.—The practice of making officers additional numbers in their grade is followed by Congress only where for good and sufficient reasons it is desired that such officers shall not delay the promotion of others who are their juniors. In other words, the provision that an officer shall be an additional number in his grade is not intended for his benefit, but is intended to facilitate the promotion of others below him on the list; and unless Congress uses language clearly indicating its intention that the officer so made an additional number is to be promoted at an earlier date than he would otherwise have been entitled to promotion; that is to say, on the same date as the officer next above him on the list, he should be promoted only from the date on which his position would have entitled him to promotion had he not been made an additional number. In such cases the additional number officer is not promoted either with the officer next below him or with the officer next above him, but is promoted precisely as he would be if he were not an additional number, only his promotion does not operate to delay the promotion of junior officers. It can make no difference to the additional number officer how many junior officers may be promoted at the same time; his promotion is in no way delayed thereby. (C. M. O. 6, 1915, p. 10, citing file 11130-26, Jan. 8, 1915.)

[1901, Mar. 3. Members of this board shall serve without compensation, but the Secretary of the Navy shall pay the actual expenses necessarily incurred by members of the board in the discharge of such duties as are assigned to them by the Secretary of the Navy or are otherwise imposed upon them. The board of visitors shall make an annual visitation to the Observatory at a date to be determined by the Secretary of the Navy, and may make such other visitations not exceeding two in number annually by the full board or by a duly appointed committee as may be deemed needful or expedient by a majority of the board. The board of visitors shall report to the Secretary of the Navy at least once in each year the result of its examinations of the Naval Observatory as respects the condition of buildings, instruments, and apparatus, and the efficiency with which its scientific work is prosecuted, and shall also report as respects the expenditures in the administration of the Observatory. The board of visitors shall prepare and submit to the Secretary of the Navy regulations prescribing the scope of the astronomical and other researches of the Observatory and the duties of its staff with reference thereto. When an appointment or detail is to be made to the office of astronomical director, director of the Nautical Almanac, astronomer, or assistant astronomer, the board of visitors may recommend to the Secretary of the Navy a suitable person to fill such office, but such recommendation shall be determined only by the majority vote of the members present at a regularly called meeting of the board held in the city of Washington.—(31 Stat., 1122, chap. 852.)

This act was expressly amended and reenacted to read as above by act of June 29, 1906 (34 Stat., 620). The opening clause of the latter act was as follows: "That chapter eight hundred and sixty-three, volume thirty-one, of the Statutes at Large, approved March third, nineteen hundred and one, to authorize the Secretary of the Navy to loan naval equipment to certain military schools, and now the law in force, be, and the same is hereby, amended to read as follows."

Status of Samoa and naval governor.—

In this statute Congress recognizes and adopts the action of the President, taken pursuant to an opinion of the Attorney General, in commissioning a naval officer as governor of American Samoa. (File 3931-1429:36, Dec. 23, 1921, citing 25 Op. Att'y. Gen., 592.)

American Samoa is not conquered territory; nor was it acquired by the United States by treaty with any foreign country having power to dispose of it in that manner, although the Senate on February 13, 1900, ratified a convention between Great Britain, Germany, and the United States, under which Great Britain and Germany renounced to the United States all claim to the islands constituting what is now known as American Samoa. (File 3931-1429:36, Dec. 23, 1921.)

The sovereignty of the United States is based upon a formal cession of the island of Tutuila to the United States on April 17, 1900, by the chiefs of that island, and the subsequent recognition of the authority of the United States over Manua by the chiefs of said island on July 15, 1905. These cessions were accepted by the President of the United States, and full information with respect thereto was communicated to Congress, and the action of the President was adopted and approved in a number of separate statutory enactments. (File 3931-1429:36, Dec. 23, 1921.)

By act of August 5, 1909, section 1 (36 Stat., 11), a certain rate of duty was prescribed "upon all articles imported from any foreign country into the United States or into any of its possessions (except the Philippine Islands and the islands of Guam and Tutuila)," thereby recognizing and describing Tutuila, one of the principal islands of American Samoa, as a "possession" of the United States. (File 3931-1429:36, Dec. 23, 1921, citing 30 Op. Att'y. Gen., 231.)

Prior legislation had also recognized the islands of Tutuila and Samoa as "possessions of the United States." (File 3931-1429:36, Dec. 23, 1921, citing 25 Op. Att'y. Gen., 128, 130, 131.)

By act of August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 607), Congress made appropriation for a radio station in "American Samoa," thereby recognizing said islands as American territory. (File 3931-1429:36, Dec. 23, 1921.)

By act of March 3, 1919 (40 Stat., 1292), Congress provided for a census of American Samoa to be taken by the governor of said islands in accordance with plans approved by the United States Director of the Census, thereby recognizing the jurisdiction of the United States over American Samoa, and also that the chief executive charged with administration thereof is "governor" of said islands. (File 3931-1429:36, Dec. 23, 1921.)

The government established by the President in American Samoa having been recognized and acquiesced in by Congress, said government must be recognized by all individuals who have occasion to deal therewith as the lawfully established government for American Samoa, and that said government continues as such until Congress sees fit to provide otherwise. (File 3931-1429:36, Dec. 23, 1921.)

Under the system of government which has been established in American Samoa, the individual commissioned by the President as governor thereof possesses supreme legislative, executive, and judicial powers of government in relation thereto, except in so far as restricted by the President or by the enactments of Congress. (File 3931-1429:36, Dec. 23, 1921.)

For other cases, see generally notes to Constitution, Article I, section 8, clause 11, Article II, section 3 ("Duty to commission officers"), and Article IV, section 3, clause 2.

[1906, June 29. Refund of enlistment bounty.] That the Secretary of the Navy may, in his discretion, require the whole or a part of the bounty allowed upon enlistment to be refunded in cases where men are discharged during the first year of enlistment, by request, for inaptitude, as undesirable, or for disability not incurred in line of duty.—(34 Stat., 553, chap. 3590.)

This provision is repeated in act of March 2, 1907 (34 Stat., 1176).

Refund in cases of minors discharged on request of parents or guardians, is provided for in act of March 3, 1915 (38 Stat., 931).

Refund in cases of men discharged within six months of enlistment is authorized by a subsequent provision of this act set forth below (34 Stat., 556).

See act of March 1, 1889 (25 Stat., 781), as to furnishing of bounty upon enlistment.

See notes to sections 1418, 1569, and 3689, Revised Statutes; and see note to section 1556, Revised Statutes, as to uniform gratuity in the Naval Reserve Force. See also act of March 3, 1915 (38 Stat., 932).

Purchase of discharge was authorized by act of Mar. 3, 1893 (27 Stat., 717); and furlough without pay in lieu of discharge by purchase, and, under the same conditions, was authorized by act of August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 580).

Refund not authorized in absence of statute.—Prior to this enactment, it was held by the Attorney General that regulations issued by the Secretary of the Navy, requiring a refund of enlistment bounty in cases of apprentices discharged within a year after enlistment, for disability not incurred in line of duty, were inconsistent with law, and void. (25 Op. Att'y. Gen., 270. See note to act of Mar. 1, 1889, 25 Stat., 781.)

[1906, June 29. Retirement of Navy officers for Civil War service.] That any officer of the Navy not above the grade of captain who served with credit as an officer or as an enlisted man in the regular or volunteer forces during the civil war prior to April ninth, eighteen hundred and sixty-five, otherwise than as a cadet, and whose name is borne on the official register of the Navy, and who has heretofore been, or may hereafter be, retired on account of wounds or disability incident to the service or on account of age or after forty years' service, may, in the discretion of the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, be placed on the retired list of the Navy with the rank and retired pay of one grade above that actually held by him at the time of retirement: Provided, That this act shall not apply to any officer who received an advance of grade at or since the date of his retirement or who has been restored to the Navy and placed on the retired list by virtue of the provisions of a special act of Congress.—(34 Stat., 554, chap. 3590.)

See act of March 3, 1899, section 11 (30 Stat., 1007), and act March 3, 1909 (35 Stat., 753); and see note to section 1457, Revised Statutes; see also sections 1443-1465, Revised Statutes, relating to retired officers of the Navy.

See section 1588, Revised Statutes, as to pay of retired officers.

United States* (38 Ct. Cls., 202, 40 Ct. Cls., 76); Moser v. United States (42 Ct. Cls., 86); Jasper v. United States (43 Ct. Cls., 368); United States ex rel. Moser v. Meyer (38 App. D. [1906, June 29. This provision was repeated in the annual naval appropriation acts, providing for the maintenance of the Naval Home, to and including the act of August 22, 1912 (39 Stat., 334-335), since which time the annual appropriation acts for the naval service, in providing for the maintenance of the Naval Home, have contained the following clause: “* * * employment of such beneficiaries in and about the Naval Home as may be authorized by the Secretary of the Navy, on the recommendation of the governor.” (E. g., act June 4, 1920, 41 Stat., 818.)

See notes to sections 416 and 1545, Revised Statutes; see also acts of August 5, 1882, section 4 (22 Stat., 255-256), and March 3, 1909 (35 Stat., 754-755).

The amount to be expended from lump appropriations for personal services at navy yards and stations is limited by provisions in the annual naval appropriation acts under appropriations for the various bureaus of the Navy Department. (See act of June 4, 1920, 41 Stat., 816-820, 823, 826, 827.) Authority for employment of personal services in various bureaus of the Navy Department from lump appropriations for the naval service is contained in the annual legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation acts. (See act Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat., 1285, 1286, 1287.)

[1909, Feb. 16. Deck courts, jurisdiction, by whom ordered.] That courts for the trial of enlisted men in the Navy and Marine Corps for minor offenses now triable by summary court-martial may be ordered by the commanding officer of a naval vessel, by the commandant of a navy-yard or station, by a commanding officer of marines, or by higher naval authority.—(35 Stat., 621, chap. 131.)

As to designation of the courts herein provided for, as "deck courts," see section 2 of this act, set forth below.

Amendment to this section was made by act of August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 586), which provided that "hereafter all officers of the Navy and Marine Corps who are authorized to order either general or summary courts-martial may order deck courts upon enlisted men under their command," and that, when empowered by the Secretary of the Navy to order summary courts-martial, "the commanding officer of a naval hospital or hospital ship shall be empowered to order such courts and deck courts * * * upon all enlisted men of the naval service attached thereto, whether for duty or as patients." (As to officers authorized to order general and summary courts-martial, see sec. 1624, R. S., arts.

26 and 38, and notes thereto. As to jurisdiction of summary courts-martial, see sec. 1624, R. S., art. 26.)

See section 7 of this act, set forth below, as to objection by accused to trial by deck court. The act of August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 586), further provided that "when a force of marines is embarked on a naval vessel, or vessels, as a separate organization, not a part of the authorized complement thereof, the authority and powers of the officers of such separate organization of marines shall be the same as though such organization were serving at a navy yard on shore, but nothing herein shall be construed as impairing the paramount authority of the commanding officer of any naval vessel over the vessel under his command and all persons embarked thereon."

[1909, Feb. 16, sec. 2. Constitution of deck courts; oaths; punishments.]

That such courts shall be known as "deck courts," and shall consist of one commissioned officer only, who, while serving in such capacity shall have power to administer oaths, to hear and determine cases, and to impose, in whole or in part, the punishments prescribed by article thirty of the Articles for the Government of the Navy: Provided, That in no case shall such courts adjudge discharge from the service or adjudge confinement or forfeiture of pay for a longer period than twenty days.—(35 Stat., 621, chap. 131.)

For "article thirty of the Articles for the Government of the Navy," see section 1624, Revised Statutes, article 30; and see note thereto for amendatory statutes.

By act of October 6, 1917 (40 Stat., 393-394), commissioned officers of certain auxiliary naval forces were authorized to serve on naval courts-martial and deck courts in time of war or emergency. (See that act and amendments noted thereunder.)

See section 183, Revised Statutes, and note thereto, as to authority of naval officers to administer oaths.

[1909, Feb. 16, sec. 3. Recorder of deck court.] That any person in the Navy under command of the officer by whose order a deck court is convened may be detailed to act as recorder thereof.—(35 Stat., 621, chap. 131.)

[1909, Feb. 16, sec. 4. Deck courts, reviewing authority, mitigation of sentence.] That the officer within whose command a deck court is sitting shall have full power as reviewing authority to remit or mitigate, but not to commute, any sentence imposed by such court; but no sentence of a deck court shall be carried into effect until it shall have been so approved or mitigated, and such officer shall have power to pardon any punishment such court may adjudge.—(35 Stat., 621, chap. 131.)

See notes to section 1624, Revised Statutes, under articles 32-33, and 53-54; see also note to Constitution, Article II, section 2, clause 1, under "III. Power to pardon offenses against United States;" and see sections 6, 9, and 17 of this act, set forth below.

[1909, Feb. 16, sec. 5. Deck courts, regulations of the President.] That the courts hereby authorized shall be governed in all details of their constitution, powers, and procedure, except as herein provided, by such rules and regulations as the President may prescribe.—(35 Stat., 621, chap. 131.)

See sections 161 and 1547, Revised Statutes, and notes thereto, on general subject of regulations.

See section 1624, Revised Statutes, articles 34 and 42-45, as to the proceedings of summary and general courts-martial.

[1909, Feb. 16, sec. 6. Records of deck courts; review by Judge Advocate General; action of Secretary.] That the records of the proceedings of the courts hereby authorized shall contain such matters only as are necessary to enable the reviewing authorities to act intelligently thereon, except that if the party accused demands it within thirty days after the decision of the deck court shall become known to him, the entire record or so much as he desires shall be sent to the reviewing authority. Such records, after action thereon by the convening authority, shall be forwarded directly to, and shall be filed in, the Office of the Judge-Advocate-General of the Navy, where they shall be reviewed, and, when necessary, submitted to the Secretary of the Navy for his action.—(35 Stat., 621, chap. 131.)

See section 1624, Revised Statutes, articles 34 and 52, as to records of courts-martial; and see laws noted below, under section 14 of this act, as to the disposal of useless papers.

Punishments by summary courts-martial, etc.; use of irons.] That the courts authorized to impose the punishments prescribed by article thirty of the Articles for the Government of the Navy may adjudge either a part or the whole, as may be appropriate, of any one of the punishments therein enumerated: Provided, That the use of irons, single or double, is hereby abolished, except for the purpose of safe custody or when part of a sentence imposed by a general court-martial.—(35 Stat., 621, chap. 131.)

Article thirty of the Articles for the Government of the Navy, which is modified by this section, is article 30 of section 1624, Revised Statutes, prescribing punishments which may be imposed by summary courts-martial. By article 35 of section 1624, Revised Statutes, general courts-martial were empowered to adjudge any punishment which a summary court-martial is authorized to inflict; by section 2 of this act, set forth above, deck courts were also authorized to impose such punishments, with certain limitations.

The use of irons in the Navy had previously been restricted by a clause in the act of May 13, 1908 (35 Stat., 132), superseded by this section.

[1909, Feb. 16, sec. 9. [1909, Feb. 16, sec. 11. Witnesses, naval courts-martial and courts of inquiry; compulsory process.] That a naval court-martial or court of inquiry shall have power to issue like process to compel witnesses to appear and testify which United States courts of criminal jurisdiction within the State, Territory, or District where such naval court shall be ordered to sit may lawfully issue.—(35 Stat., 621-622, chap. 131.)

See act of March 3, 1909 (35 Stat., 756), providing for clothing and transportation to be furnished discharged naval prisoners.

Prior to this enactment it was held by the Comptroller of the Treasury that naval prisoners under sentence of court-martial were entitled, prior to expiration of enlistment, to credit for pay coming due and not forfeited by the sentence of the court; but that after expiration of enlistment, although not then discharged, no pay could accrue or be credited to such prisoners. (See 9 Comp. Dec., 257, noted under sec. 1422, R. S., "Detention of enlisted men under court-martial sentence.")

[1909, Feb. 16, sec. 14. Summary court-martial proceedings and record.] That section sixteen hundred and twenty-four, article thirty-four, Revised Statutes of the United States, is hereby amended as follows: "The proceedings of summary courts-martial shall be conducted with as much conciseness and precision as may be consistent with the ends of justice, and under such forms and rules as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy, with the approval of the President, and all such proceedings shall be transmitted in the usual mode to the Navy Department, where they shall be kept on file for a period of two years from date of trial, after which time they may be destroyed in the discretion of the Secretary of the Navy."—(35 Stat., 622, chap. 131.)

Depositions of witnesses, naval courts.] That the depositions of witnesses may be taken on reasonable notice to the opposite party, and when duly authenticated, may be put in evidence before naval courts, except in capital cases and cases where the punishment may be imprisonment or confinement for more than one year as follows: First, depositions of civilian witnesses residing outside the State, Territory, or District in which a naval court is ordered to sit; second, depositions of persons in the naval or military service stationed or residing outside the State, Territory, or District in which a naval court is ordered to sit, or who are under orders to go outside of such State, Territory, or District; third, where such naval court is convened on board a vessel of the United States, or at a naval station not within any State, Territory, or District of the United States, the depositions of witnesses may be taken and used as herein provided whenever such witnesses reside or are stationed at such a distance from the place where said naval court is ordered to sit,

[1909, Mar. 3. Army ordnance property, sales to naval officers.] Articles of ordnance property may be sold by the Chief of Ordnance to officers of the Navy and Marine Corps, for their use in the public service, in the same manner as these articles are now sold to officers of the army.—(35 Stat., 751, chap. 252.)

See act of August 24, 1912 (37 Stat., 589), and laws noted thereunder.

1909, Mar. 3. Retirement for Civil-War service.] The provisions of the act approved June twenty-ninth, nineteen hundred and six, entitled “An act making appropriations for the naval service for the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and seven, and for other purposes,” providing for the retirement in the next higher grade of officers of the navy who served during the civil war, shall not operate to deprive any officer of the navy who has been, or may be, retired, since the passage of that act, of the right to increased rank and pay to which, but for the passage of said act, he would have been entitled.—(35 Stat., 753, chap. 255.)

See act of June 29, 1906 (34 Stat., 554), and act of March 3, 1899, section 11 (30 Stat., 1007).

[1909, Mar. 3. Estimates for “Pay of the Navy.”] The estimates for the support of the Navy shall hereafter show, under the head of Pay of the Navy, the sums allowed for pay of officers belonging to the line, to the several departments of the staff, and to the retired list; the estimates to show under each head the amount allowed for pay proper, for increases due to longevity and foreign service, and for pay at sea rates to officers employed on shore; together with the total number of warrant and petty officers and seamen of the several grades and designations, including as to each class the amount allowed for pay proper and for longevity or service increases. The estimates shall include a list giving the rates of pay for all petty officers and other enlisted men of the Navy.—(35 Stat., 754, chap. 255.)

An identical provision was contained in the act of May 13, 1908 (35 Stat., 129).

[1909, Mar. 3. Pay and number of employees at navy yards and stations; annual report to Congress, etc.] That hereafter the rates of pay of the clerical, drafting, inspection, and messenger force at navy-yards and naval stations and other stations and offices under the Navy Department shall be paid from lump appropriations and shall be fixed by the Secretary of the Navy on a per annum or per diem basis as he may elect; that the number may be increased or decreased at his option and shall be distributed at the various navy-yards and naval stations by the Secretary of the Navy to meet the needs of the naval service

* * *; that the total amount expended annually for pay for such clerical, drafting, inspection, and messenger force shall not exceed the amounts specifically allowed by Congress under the several lump appropriations, and that the Secretary of the Navy shall each year, in the annual estimates, report to Congress the number of persons so employed, their duties, and the amount paid to each.—(35 Stat., 754–755, chap. 255.)

The omitted portion of this enactment relates to leaves of absence allowed such employees; for text thereof, and later laws relating to such leaves of absence, see note to section 1545, Revised Statutes.

The above provision was followed by a proviso in the following language: "That it shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Navy to submit to Congress at its next session, and for its consideration, a schedule of rates of compensation, annual or per diem, that should, in his judgment, be permanently fixed by law for clerical, inspection, and messenger service in navy-yards, naval stations, and purchasing pay offices, superintending construction offices, and inspection of engineering material; and in fixing such rates of compensation he shall have due regard for the rates usually paid for like services in the respective localities by employers other than the United States, and he shall not recommend any rate exceeding that being paid by the United States at any such yards, stations, or offices prior to January first, nineteen hundred and nine."

See act of July 16, 1862 (12 Stat., 587), providing that the rates of wages of employees in navy-yards shall conform, as nearly as is consistent with the public interest, with those of private establishments in the immediate vicinity.

and notes thereto; see also acts of February | 96); and August 19, 1890 (26 Stat., 320).

[1910, June 17, sec. 4.—Supplies for executive departments, etc.] That hereafter all supplies of fuel, ice, stationery, and other miscellaneous supplies for the executive departments and other government establishments in Washington, when the public exigencies do not require the immediate delivery of the article, shall be advertised and contracted for by the Secretary of the Treasury, instead of by the several departments and establishments, upon such days as he may designate. There shall be a general supply committee in lieu of the board provided for in section thirty-seven hundred and nine of the Revised Statutes as amended, composed of officers, one from each such department, designated by the head thereof, the duties of which committee shall be to make, under the direction of the said Secretary, an annual schedule of required miscellaneous supplies, to standardize such supplies, eliminating all unnecessary grades and varieties, and to aid said Secretary in soliciting bids based upon formulas and specifications drawn up by such experts in the service of the Government as the committee may see fit to call upon, who shall render whatever assistance they may require. The committee shall aid said Secretary in securing the proper fulfillment of the contracts for such supplies, for which purpose the said Secretary shall prescribe, and all departments comply with, rules providing for such examination and tests of the articles received as may be necessary for such purpose; in making additions to the said schedule; in opening and considering the bids, and shall perform such other similar duties as he may assign to them: Provided, That the articles intended to be purchased in this manner are those in common use by or suitable to the ordinary needs of two or more such departments or establishments; but the said Secretary shall have discretion to amend the annual common supply schedule from time to time as to any articles that, in his judgment, can as well be thus purchased. In all cases only one bond for the proper performance of each contract shall be required, notwithstanding that supplies for more than one department or government establishment are included in such contract. Every purchase or drawing of such supplies from the contractor shall be immediately reported to said committee. No disbursing officer shall be a member of such committee. No department or establishment shall purchase or draw supplies from the common schedule through more than one office or bureau, except in case of detached bureaus or offices having field or outlying service, which may purchase directly from the contractor with the permission of the head of their department: And provided further, That telephone service, electric light, and power service purchased or contracted for from companies or individuals shall be so obtained by him.—(36 Stat., 531, chap. 297.)

See section 3709, Revised Statutes, and act of March 2, 1907 (34 Stat., 1193).

[1910, June 24. Collision claims, adjustment of; report to Congress.] The Secretary of the Navy is hereby authorized to consider, ascertain, adjust and determine the amounts due on all claims for damages, where the amount of the claim does not exceed the sum of five hundred dollars, hereafter occasioned by collision, for which collisions vessels of the navy shall be found to be responsible, and report the amounts so ascertained and determined to be due the claimants to Congress at each session thereof through the Treasury Department for payment as legal claims out of appropriations that may be made by Congress therefor.—(36 Stat., 607, chap. 378.)

See act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 705), authorizing Secretary of the Navy to adjust and pay any claim not exceeding $1,000, for damages to inhabitants to certain European countries; see also act of April 18, 1918 (40 Stat., 532).

See act of July 11, 1909 (41 Stat., 132), authorizing the Secretary of the Navy to adjust and pay claims for damages other than those occasioned by vessels of the Navy, where amount does not exceed $500.

See act of June 4, 1920 (41 Stat., 814), authorizing Secretary of the Navy to adjust and pay claims not exceeding $500 for damages caused by operations of naval aircraft. (A similar provision was contained in act of July 11, 1919, 41 Stat., 133).

Claims for damages.—It is not within the official duties of the head of any department to make estimates for appropriations to pay claims which the Government is not in law bound to pay, however much they may be urged to do so by claimants who feel aggrieved by the tortious conduct of public officers. An executive department is not the place to apply for redress of grievances not founded on legal rights. (Pitman v. U. S., 20 Ct. Cls., 256.)

The head of an executive department is not authorized to pay the actual expenses of repairing a vessel injured in a collision with a Government vessel, the claim arising from the collision being one for unliquidated damages caused by the tort of the Government's officers. (1 Comp. Dec., 261.)

It seems to be the approved practice to commit such claimants to the tender mercies of Congress for settlement. (1 Comp. Dec., 285.)

See note to section 236, Revised Statutes.

[1910, June 24. Loan of equipment to military schools.] That the act entitled "An act to authorize the Secretary of the Navy to loan naval equipment to certain military schools," approved March third, nineteen hundred and one, be amended by striking out the words "one hundred and forty cadets" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "seventy-five cadets over fifteen years of age."—(36 Stat., 613, chap. 378.)

See act of March 3, 1901 (31 Stat., 1440), as amended by act of June 29, 1906 (34 Stat., 620).

[1910, June 24. Detail of line under staff officers.] That line officers may be detailed for duty under staff officers in the manufacturing and repair departments of the navy-yards and naval stations, and all laws or parts of laws in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.—(36 Stat., 614, chap. 378.)

See notes to sections 1404 and 1488, Revised Statutes.

[1910, June 24. Profit on sales from ships' stores.] That hereafter a profit not to exceed fifteen per centum may be charged on sales from ships' stores, such profit to be expended in the discretion of the Secretary of the Navy, under such regulations as he may prescribe, for the amusement, comfort, and contentment of the enlisted force, and to be accounted for to the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, Navy Department.—(36 Stat., 619, chap. 378.)

See act of March 3, 1909, (35 Stat., 768), and section 3689, Revised Statutes.

Jurisdiction of accounting officers.—In view of the wording of this enactment, providing for an accounting to the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, the Comptroller of the Treasury is without jurisdiction to render a decision as to the legality of proposed expenditures from the fund created by ships' stores profits. (Comp. Dec., Apr. 28, 1915, file 26254-1759:2; see note to sec. 236, R. S.)

[1910, June 25. Detail of employees from Government Printing Office.] Hereafter no employee of the Government Printing Office shall be detailed to duties not pertaining to the work of public printing and binding in any executive department or other government establishment unless expressly authorized by law.—(36 Stat., 770, chap. 384.)

See act of January 12, 1895, section 18 (28 Stat., 603).

[1910, June 25, sec. 6. Annual report, sales of old material, etc.] Hereafter the statement of the proceeds of all sales of old material, condemned stores, supplies, or other public property of any kind shall be submitted to Congress at the beginning of each regular session thereof as a separate communication and shall not hereafter be included in the annual Book of Estimates.—(36 Stat., 773, chap. 384.)

See sections 429, 430, 1541, and 3672, Revised Statutes, and notes thereto.

[1910, June 25. Patents, protection of owners; suit in Court of Claims.] That whenever an invention described in and covered by a patent of the United States shall hereafter be used or manufactured by or for the United States without license of the owner thereof or lawful right to use or manufacture the same, such owner's remedy shall be by suit against the United States in the Court of Claims for the recovery of his reasonable and entire compensation for such use and manufacture: Provided, however, That said Court of Claims shall not entertain a suit or award compensation under the provisions of this Act where the claim for compensation is based on the use or manufacture by or for the United States of any article heretofore owned, leased, used by, or in the possession of the United States: Provided further, That in any such suit the United States may avail itself of any and all defenses, general or special, that might be pleaded by a defendant in an action for infringement, as set forth in Title Sixty of the Revised Statutes, or otherwise: And provided further, That the benefits of this Act shall not inure to any patentee who, when he makes such claim, is in the employment or service of the Government of the United States, or the assignee of any such patentee; nor shall this act apply to any device discovered or invented by such employee during the time of his employment or service.—(36 Stat., 851–852, chap. 423; 40 Stat., 705, chap. 114.)

This act was expressly amended and reenacted to read as above by act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 705).

utes; see also act of October 6, 1917, section 10 (i) (40 Stat., 422).

As to jurisdiction of Court of Claims, see act of March 3, 1911, sections 145–150 (36 Stat., 1136–1138).

[1911, Mar. 3. Judicial Code.] That the laws relating to the judiciary be, and they hereby are, codified, revised, and amended, with title, chapters, head-notes, and sections, entitled, numbered, and to read as follows:—(36 Stat., 1087, chap. 231.)

SEC. 24. [DISTRICT COURTS; CLAIMS AGAINST UNITED STATES.] The district courts shall have original jurisdiction as follows: * * *.—(36 Stat., 1091; secs. 563, 629, R. S.)

Twentieth. Concurrent with the Court of Claims, of all claims not exceeding ten thousand dollars founded upon the Constitution of the United States or any law of Congress, or upon any regulation of an executive department, or upon any contract, express or implied, with the Government of the United States, or for damages, liquidated or unliquidated, in cases not sounding in tort, in respect to which claims the party would be entitled to redress against the United States, either in a court of law, equity, or admiralty, if the United States were suable, and of all set-offs, counterclaims, claims for damages, whether liquidated or unliquidated, or other demands whatsoever on the part of the Government of the United States against any claimant against the Government in said court: Provided, however, That nothing in this paragraph shall be construed as giving to either the district courts or the Court of Claims jurisdiction to hear and determine claims growing out of the late Civil War, and commonly known as "war claims," or to hear and determine other claims which had been rejected or reported on adversely prior to the third day of March, eighteen hundred and eighty-seven, by any court, department, or commission authorized to hear and determine the same, or to hear and determine claims for pensions; or as giving to the district courts jurisdiction of cases brought to recover fees, salary, or compensation for official services of officers of the United States or brought for such purpose by persons claiming as such officers or as assignees or legal representatives thereof; but no suit pending on the twenty-seventh day of June, eighteen hundred and ninety-eight, shall abate or be affected by this provision: And provided further, That no suit against the Government of the United States shall be allowed under this paragraph unless the same shall have been brought within six years after the right accrued for which the claim is made: Provided, That the claims of married women, first accrued during marriage, of persons under the age of twenty-one years, first accrued during minority, and of idiots, lunatics, insane persons, and persons beyond the seas at the time the claim accrued, entitled to the claim, shall not be barred if the suit be brought within three years after the disability has ceased; but no other disability than those enumerated shall prevent any claim from being barred, nor shall any of the said disabilities operate cumulatively. All suits brought and tried under the provisions of this paragraph shall be tried by the court without a jury.—(36 Stat., 1093; 24 Stat., 505; 30 Stat., 495; 31 Stat., 33.)

SEC. 145. [COURT OF CLAIMS; JURISDICTION; RELIEF OF DISBURSING OFFICERS, ETC.] The Court of Claims shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine the following matters:

First. All claims (except for pensions) founded upon the Constitution of the United States or any law of Congress, upon any regulation of an Executive Department, upon any contract, express or implied, with the Government of the United States, or for damages, liquidated or unliquidated, in cases not sounding in tort, in respect of which claims the party would be entitled to redress against the United States either in a court of law, equity, or admiralty if the United States were suable: Provided, however, That nothing in this section shall be construed as giving to the said court jurisdiction to hear and determine claims growing out of the late civil war, and commonly known as "war claims," or to hear and determine other claims which, prior to March third, eighteen hundred and eighty-seven, had been rejected or reported on adversely by any court, department, or commission authorized to hear and determine the same.

Second. All set-offs, counterclaims, claims for damages, whether liquidated or unliquidated, or other demands whatsoever on the part of the Government of the United States against any claimant against the Government in said court: Provided, That no suit against the Government of the United States, brought by any officer of the United States to recover fees for services alleged to have been performed for the United States, shall be allowed under this chapter until an account for said fees shall have been rendered and finally acted upon as required by law, unless the proper accounting officer of the Treasury fails to act finally thereon within six months after the account is received in said office.

Third. The claim of any paymaster, quartermaster, commissary of subsistence, or other disbursing officer of the United States, or of his administrators or executors, for relief from responsibility on account of loss by capture or otherwise, while in the line of his duty, of Government funds, vouchers, records, or papers in his charge, and for which such officer was and is held responsible.—(36 Stat., 1136–1137; 24 Stat., 505.)

See note to section 236, Revised Statutes, as to jurisdiction of Court of Claims and the accounting officers of the Treasury.

See act of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat., 851–852); as amended and reenacted by act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 705), as to jurisdiction in patent cases.

See act of July 11, 1919 (41 Stat., 132), as to disbursing officers being relieved of responsibility, without proceedings in the Court of Claims, where loss occurred in line of duty, etc.

See section 147, below.

Jurisdiction limited to money demands.—Where it was provided by law that retired officers who had served during the Civil War should be entitled to the rank and retired pay of the next higher grade, and the Navy Department decided that a particular officer was not entitled to the benefits of the act, a decision of the Court of Claims (Moser v. U. S., 42 Ct. Cls., 86), allowing the officer the retired pay of the next higher grade, and purporting to decide that he was also entitled to the rank of such higher grade, did not estop the Secretary of the Navy from contesting the officer's claim to the rank of such higher grade. The judgment of the court was one for money only. (Moser v. Meyer, 38 App. D. C., 13; see also 28 Op. Atty. Gen., 352.)

Same act, 41 Stat., 153, was limited to losses incurred during the "present emergency." See also section 285, Revised Statutes, and notes to sections 176 and 236, Revised Statutes.

SEC. 146. [DETERMINATION OF COUNTER-CLAIMS, ETC.] Upon the trial of any cause in which any set-off, counter-claim, claim for damages, or other demand is set up on the part of the Government against any person making claim against the Government in said court, the court shall hear and determine such claim or demand both for and against the Government and claimant; and if upon the whole case it finds that the claimant is indebted to the Government it shall render judgment to that effect, and such judgment shall be final, with the right of appeal, as in other cases provided for by law. Any transcript of such judgment, filed in the clerk's office of any district court, shall be entered upon the records thereof, and shall thereby become and be a judgment of such court and be enforced as other judgments in such court are enforced.—(36 Stat., 1137; Sec. 1061, R. S.)

See note to section 236, Revised Statutes, under "VI. Set-off;"

SEC. 147. [DECREE ON ACCOUNTS OF DISBURSING OFFICERS.] Whenever the Court of Claims ascertains the facts of any loss by any paymaster, quartermaster, commissary of subsistence, or other disbursing officer, in the cases hereinbefore provided, to have been without fault or negligence on the part of such officer, it shall make a decree setting forth the amount thereof, and upon such decree the proper accounting officers of the Treasury shall allow to such officer the amount so decreed as a credit in the settlement of his accounts.—(36 Stat., 1137; Sec. 1062, R. S.)

See section 145, above.

SEC. 148. [CLAIMS REFERRED BY DEPARTMENTS.] When any claim or matter is pending in any of the executive departments which involves controverted questions of fact or law, the head of such department may transmit the same, with the vouchers, papers, documents, and proofs pertaining thereto, to the Court of Claims, and the same shall be there proceeded in under such rules as the court may adopt. When the facts and conclusions of law shall have been found, the court shall report its findings to the department by which it was transmitted for its guidance and action: Provided, however, That if it shall have been transmitted with the consent of the claimant, or if it shall appear to the satisfaction of the court upon the facts established, that under existing laws or the provisions of this chapter it has jurisdiction to render judgment or decree thereon, it shall proceed to do so, in the latter case giving to either party such further opportunity for hearing as in its judgment justice shall require, and shall report its findings therein to the department by which the same was referred to said court. The Secretary of the Treasury may, upon the certificate of any auditor, or of the Comptroller of the Treasury, direct any claim or matter, of which, by reason of the subject matter or character, the said court might under existing laws, take jurisdiction on the voluntary action of the claimant, to be transmitted, with all the vouchers, papers, documents and proofs pertaining thereto, to the said court for trial and adjudication.—(36 Stat., 1137–1138; Sec. 1063, R. S.; 22 Stat., 485; 24 Stat., 507.)

"Claim or matter" construed.—The language of sections 148 and 149 of the Judicial Code contemplates the reference by a head of a department of a matter in which there is a claimant, to which the United States are defendants, and in which there is a money demand. (Proposed reference by Secretary of Navy, 53 Ct. Cls., 370.)

which is required to be pending in the department or in anywise extend the power of the court, because in any event the claim or matter must be one of which the court would have jurisdiction upon the voluntary action of the claimant seeking a judgment for money, except as the bar of the statute of limitations may be affected. (Proposed reference by Secretary of Navy, 53 Ct. Cls., 370.)

A claim or matter pending in a department which involves any controverted questions of fact or law, in order to be transmitted to the court under the provisions of section 148, must be one for the "guidance and action" of said department, and not one that is to be merely advisory. (Proposed reference by Secretary of Navy, 53 Ct. Cls., 370.)

Under section 148, the Court of Claims has not jurisdiction, upon reference of the Secretary of the Navy, to report its conclusions of law upon the questions, First, "Was the Appointment of Albert A. Hooper as a chief machinist in the Navy on April 30, 1917, a valid and lawful appointment, and is his status under such appointment that of a chief machinist in the Navy?" and, second, "From what date is Albert A. Hooper entitled to take rank as chief machinist in the Navy under his appointment of April 30, 1917, or if said appointment is held contrary to law and ineffectual to confer upon the aforesaid Hooper the office of chief machinist in the Navy, upon what date is he entitled to take rank upon the issuance of a valid and effectual appointment?" (Proposed reference by Secretary of Navy, 53 Ct. Cls., 370. See also note to sec. 1562, R. S.)

The opinions and decisions of the court must be left to speak for themselves; if the construction of a statute is different in the executive and judicial branches, the fact but accentuates the necessity for each of them observing the limitations of its powers. Accordingly, held, that where a claim has been finally disposed of by the Court of Claims upon suit by the claimant, the same can not be reopened upon application of the claimant, nor indirectly presented again for consideration upon the application of the head of a department under section 148, Judicial Code. It would be alike unbecoming the court and the head of the department for the one to accept or the other to extend an invitation for a debate relative to such decisions. (Proposed reference by Secretary of Navy, 53 Ct. Cls., 370; see also Hooper v. U. S., 53 Ct. Cls., 90; and file 26280-95:2, Mar. 22, 1918.)

SEC. 149. [PROCEDURE IN CASES REFERRED BY DEPARTMENTS.] All cases transmitted by the head of any department, or upon the certificate of any auditor, or of the Comptroller of the Treasury, according to the provisions of the preceding section, shall be proceeded in as other cases pending in the Court of Claims, and shall, in all respects, be subject to the same rules and regulations.—(36 Stat., 1138; sec. 1064, R. S.)

See note to preceding section.

SEC. 150. [PAYMENT OF JUDGMENTS, CASES REFERRED BY DEPARTMENTS.] The amount of any final judgment or decree rendered in favor of the claimant, in any case transmitted to the Court of Claims under the two preceding sections, shall be paid out of any specific appropriation applicable to the case, if any such there be; and where no such appropriation exists, the judgment or decree shall be paid in the same manner as other judgments of the said court.—(36 Stat., 1138; sec. 1065, R. S.)

SEC. 163. [COMMISSIONERS TO TAKE TESTIMONY.] The Court of Claims shall have power to appoint commissioners to take testimony to be used in the investigation of claims which come before it, to prescribe the fees which they shall receive for their services, and to issue commissions for the taking of such testimony, whether taken at the instance of the claimant or of the United States.—(36 Stat., 1140; sec. 1075, R. S.)

See sections 188 and 868 et seq., Revised Statutes, and notes thereto.

SEC. 164. [CALLS ON DEPARTMENTS FOR INFORMATION AND RECORDS.] The said court shall have power to call upon any of the departments for any information or papers it may deem necessary, and shall have the use of all recorded and printed reports made by the committees of each House of Congress, when deemed necessary in the prosecution of its business. But the head of any department may refuse and omit to comply with any call for information or papers when, in his opinion, such compliance would be injurious to the public interest.—(36 Stat., 1140; sec. 1076, R. S.)

See sections 188 and 882, Revised Statutes; and see note to section 418, Revised Statutes, under "Records of department."

SEC. 175. [NEW TRIAL ON MOTION OF UNITED STATES.] The Court of Claims, at any time while any claim is pending before it, or on appeal from it, or within two years next after the final disposition of such claim, may, on motion, on behalf of the United States, grant a new trial and stay the payment of any judgment therein, upon such evidence, cumulative or otherwise, as shall satisfy the court that any fraud, wrong, or injustice in the premises has been done to the United States; but until an order is made staying the payment of a judgment, the same shall be payable and paid as now provided by law.—(36 Stat., 1141; sec. 1088, R. S.)

See sections 242-243, below, as to appeals.

SEC. 227. [SUPREME COURT REPORTS AND DIGESTS; DISTRIBUTION OF.] The Attorney General shall distribute copies of the Supreme Court reports as follows: To * * * the Secretary of the Navy, * * * each Assistant Secretary of each Executive Department, * * * the Judge Advocate General, Navy Department, * * * the Naval Academy at Annapolis, * * * and the heads of such other executive offices as may be provided by law, of equal grade with any of said offices, each one copy; * * *. He shall also distribute one complete set of said reports, and one set of the digests thereof, to such executive officers as are entitled to receive said reports under this section and have not already received them, * * *. Such reports and digests shall remain the property of the United States, and shall be preserved by the officers above named and by them turned over to their successors in office.—(36 Stat., 1154-1155; sec. 683, R. S.; 32 Stat., 630.)

See act of January 12, 1895, section 74 (28 Stat., 620).

SEC. 242. [APPEALS FROM COURT OF CLAIMS.] An appeal to the Supreme Court shall be allowed on behalf of the United States, from all judgments of the Court of Claims adverse to the United States, and on behalf of the plaintiff in any case where the amount in controversy exceeds three thousand dollars, or where his claim is forfeited to the United States by the judgment of said court as provided in section one hundred and seventy-two.—(36 Stat., 1157; sec. 707, R. S.)

Section 172 relates to claims forfeited for fraud.

See section 175, above, as to new trials in Court of Claims.

SEC. 243. [TIME OF APPEALS.] All appeals from the Court of Claims shall be taken within ninety days after the judgment is rendered, and shall be allowed under such regulations as the Supreme Court may direct.—(36 Stat., 1157; sec. 708, R. S.)

[1911, Mar. 4. Direct and indirect charges included in cost of work; annual report to Congress.] That hereafter, in fixing the cost of work under the various naval appropriations, the direct and indirect charges incident thereto shall be included in such cost: And provided further, That the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts shall keep the money accounts of the Naval Establishment in such manner as to show such charges and shall report the same annually for the information of Congress.—(36 Stat., 1267, chap. 239.)

A slightly different provision was contained in the act of June 24, 1910 (36 Stat., 607).
See act of June 30, 1914 (38 Stat., 413-414), as to distribution of overhead charges.

See section 429, Revised Statutes, and note thereto, as to reports required to be made to Congress; and see note to section 419, Revised Statutes, as to duties of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts (formerly the Bureau of Provisions and Clothing).

[1911, Mar. 4. Former engineer officers made additional numbers.] That officers on the active list of the line of the United States Navy who, under authority of law, now perform engineering duty on shore only are hereby made additional to the numbers in the grades in which they are now serving, and shall be carried as additional to the numbers of each grade to which they may hereafter be promoted: Provided, That said officers shall be entitled to all the benefits of retirement under existing or future laws equally with other officers of like rank and service.—(36 Stat., 1267, chap. 239.)

See notes to sections 1363, and 1390-1394, Revised Statutes.
Former officers of the Engineer Corps who were restricted by act of March 3, 1899 (30 Stat., 1004), to engineering duty on shore only, are now made available by law for any shore duty compatible with their rank and grade. (See acts of June 30, 1914, 38 Stat., 394, and Mar. 3, 1915, 38 Stat., 930, noted under sections 1390 and 1404, R. S.)

[1911, Mar. 4. Officers failing physically for promotion, retired in higher rank.] Hereafter, if any officer of the United States Navy shall fail in his physical examination for promotion and be found incapacitated for service by reason of physical disability contracted in the line of duty, he shall be retired with the rank to which his seniority entitled him to be promoted.—(36 Stat., 1267, chap. 239.)

This provision is now inapplicable to officers of the rank of lieutenant commander and above. (See act of Aug. 29, 1916, 39 Stat., 579, as amended by act of July 1, 1918, 40 Stat., 718.)

See note to section 1457, Revised Statutes, under "Rank on retirement of officer failing to qualify for promotion;" and see sections 1588-1595, Revised Statutes, as to pay of retired officers.

See section 1622, Revised Statutes, as to retired officers of the Marine Corps.

[1911, Mar. 4. Y. M. C. A. buildings in Navy yards.] That the Secretary of the Navy is authorized, in his discretion, to furnish hereafter, without charge, heat and light for the Young Men's Christian Association buildings in navy yards and stations.—(36 Stat., 1274, chap. 239.)

[1911, Mar. 4. Naval supply account.] Hereafter the Naval Supply Account for the Naval Establishment, as created by the act of June twenty-fifth, nineteen hundred and ten, under the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, shall govern the charging, crediting, receipt, purchase, transfer, manufacture, repair, issue, and consumption of all stores for the Naval Establishment, excepting the materials named in that act and such other materials as the Secretary of the Navy may designate: Provided, That the amount expended under General Account of Advances for the purchase and manufacture of stores and materials for the Naval Establishment shall not exceed the amount available for such purposes.—(36 Stat., 1279, chap. 239.)

The act of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat., 792), referred to in the provision, and which, as originally enacted, was temporary legislation, read as follows:

"Naval supply account for the Naval Establishment: All stores on hand July first, nineteen hundred and ten, shall be charged to a naval supply account on the records of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, and all purchases of stock or expenditures for manufactured or repaired articles for stock at navy-yards or stations, during the fiscal years nineteen hundred and eleven and nineteen hundred and twelve shall be charged to this account and be paid for from 'General account of advances.'

"The amount so advanced during the fiscal years nineteen hundred and eleven and nineteen hundred and twelve shall be charged to the proper appropriations as these stores are consumed from stock, and when disbursements made for all other purposes are accomplished, the amount so charged shall be returned to 'General account of advances' by pay or counter warrants: Provided, however, That such material as provisions, clothing and small stores, medical stores, and such other materials as the Secretary of the Navy may designate, may be purchased by specific appropriations or transferred to specific appropriations before such materials are issued for use or consumption. The said charge, however, to any particular appropriations shall be limited to the amount appropriated therefor.

"Credit shall be made to appropriations during said fiscal years nineteen hundred and eleven and nineteen hundred and twelve for the value of surveyed material taken from repairs made to ships or plant at navy-yards and stations, or for stores turned in from ships, and this credit shall not be used by the bureaus to increase the amount of that appropriation, but shall be a deduction from the operating expenses of the annual appropriation concerned, subject to the same provision as stated in above paragraph."

For later legislation relating to the naval supply account and the naval supply account fund, see acts of June 30, 1914 (38 Stat., 405), and March 1, 1921 (41 Stat., 1169, 1170). See also acts of March 2, 1891 (26 Stat., 807), and March 2, 1889 (25 Stat., 818); and see sections 418, 3676, 3689, and 3718, Revised Statutes, and notes thereto.

The above-quoted provision in the act of March 4, 1911, relating to the naval supply account was immediately preceded by the following clause abolishing the Naval Supply Fund:

"The permanent Naval Supply Fund created by the act of March third, eighteen hundred and ninety-three, as modified by the acts of June tenth, eighteen hundred and ninety-six, and March third, eighteen hundred and ninety-seven, and further increased by the acts of January fifth, eighteen hundred and ninety-nine, and February fourteenth, nineteen hundred and two, is hereby abolished, and of the sum remaining on the books of the Treasury to the credit of the said fund after the adjustment of all liabilities, the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized and directed to cause the sum of one million five hundred thousand dollars transferred to the credit of said fund from the General Account of Advances to be returned to General Account of Advances, and the remainder to be covered into the Treasury.

The Naval Supply Fund was created by act of March 3, 1893 (27 Stat., 723), and increased by acts of June 10, 1896 (29 Stat., 370), March 3, 1897 (29 Stat., 658), January 5, 1899 (30 Stat., 781), and February 14, 1902 (32 Stat., 17). (See 28 Op. Atty. Gen., 634, and 29 Op. Atty. Gen., 344.)

[1911, Mar. 4. Marine Schools; loan of vessels, etc., to.] That the Secretary of the Navy, to promote nautical education, is hereby authorized and empowered to furnish, upon the application in writing of the governor of a State, a suitable vessel of the navy, with all her apparel, charts, books, and instruments of navigation, provided the same can be spared without detriment to the naval service, to be used for the benefit of any nautical school, or school or college having a nautical branch, established at each of the following ports of the United States: Boston, Philadelphia, New York, Seattle, San Francisco, Baltimore, Detroit, Saginaw, Michigan, Norfolk, and Corpus Christi, upon the condition that there shall be maintained at such port a school or branch of a school for the instruction of youths in navigation, steamship-marine engineering, and all matters pertaining to the proper construction, equipment, and sailing of vessels or any particular branch thereof.—(36 Stat., 1353, chap. 265.)

SEC. 2. That a sum not exceeding the amount annually appropriated by any State or municipality for the purpose of maintaining such a marine school or schools or the nautical branch thereof is hereby authorized to be appropriated for the purpose of aiding in the maintenance and support of such school or schools: Provided, however, That appropriations shall be made for one school in any port heretofore named in section one and that the appropriation for any one year shall not exceed twenty-five thousand dollars for any one school.—(36 Stat., 1353, chap. 265.)

SEC. 3. That the President of the United States is hereby authorized, when in his opinion the same can be done without detriment to the public service, to detail proper officers of the navy as superintendents of or instructors in such schools: Provided, That if any such school shall be discontinued, or the good of the naval service shall require, such vessel shall be immediately restored to the Secretary of the Navy and the officers so detailed recalled: And provided further, That no person shall be sentenced to or received at such schools as a punishment or commutation of punishment for crime.—(36 Stat., 1353–1354, chap. 265.)

SEC. 4. That all laws and parts of laws in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.—(36 Stat., 1354, chap. 265.)

Similar provisions were previously embodied in act of June 20, 1874 (18 Stat., 121), as amended by act of March 3, 1881 (21 Stat., 505).

See act of March 3, 1901 (31 Stat., 1440), and amendments noted thereunder with reference to military and nautical schools.

[1911, Mar. 4. Retired officers, commissions.] That commissioned officers, of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps on the retired list whose rank has been or shall hereafter be advanced by operation of or in accordance with law shall be entitled to and shall receive commissions in accordance with such advanced rank.—(36 Stat., 1354, chap. 266.)

the Secretary of Commerce * * * upon application therefor; but nothing in this Act shall be construed to apply to the transmission and exchange of radiograms or signals between points situated in the same State: Provided, That the effect thereof shall not extend beyond the jurisdiction of the said State or interfere with the reception of radiograms or signals from beyond said jurisdiction; and a license shall not be required for the transmission or exchange of radiograms or signals by or on behalf of the Government of the United States, but every Government station on land or sea shall have special call letters designated and published in the list of radio stations of the United States by the Department of Commerce * * *. Any person, company, or corporation that shall use or operate any apparatus for radio communication in violation of this section, or knowingly aid or abet another person, company, or corporation in so doing, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, and the apparatus or device so unlawfully used and operated may be adjudged forfeited to the United States.—(37 Stat., 302–303, chap. 287.)

Every such license shall be subject to the regulations contained herein, and such regulations as may be established from time to time by authority of this Act or subsequent Acts and treaties of the United States. Every such license shall provide that the President of the United States in time of war or public peril or disaster may cause the closing of any station for radio communication and the removal therefrom of all radio apparatus, or may authorize the use or control of any such station or apparatus by any department of the Government, upon just compensation to the owners.—(37 Stat., 303, chap. 287.)

Every person so licensed who in the operation of any radio apparatus shall fail to observe and obey regulations contained in or made pursuant to this Act or subsequent Acts or treaties of the United States, or any one of them, or who shall fail to enforce obedience thereto by an unlicensed person while serving under his supervision, in addition to the punishments and penalties herein prescribed, may suffer the suspension of the said license for a period to be fixed by the Secretary of Commerce * * * not exceeding one year. It shall be unlawful to employ any unlicensed person or for any unlicensed person to serve in charge or in supervision of the use and operation of such apparatus, and any person violating this provision shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars or imprisonment for not more than two months, or both, in the discretion of the court, for each and every such offense: Provided, That in case of emergency the Secretary of Commerce * * * may authorize a collector of customs to issue a temporary permit, in lieu of a license, to the operator on a vessel subject to the radio ship Act of June twenty-fourth, nineteen hundred and ten.—(37 Stat., 303, chap. 287.)

SEC. 4. That for the purpose of preventing or minimizing interference with communication between stations in which such apparatus is operated, to facilitate radio communication, and to further the prompt receipt of distress signals, said private and commercial stations shall be subject to the regulations of this section. These regulations shall be enforced by the Secretary of Commerce * * * through the collectors of customs and other officers of the Government as other regulations herein provided for.

The Secretary of Commerce * * * may, in his discretion, waive the provisions of any or all of these regulations when no interference of the character above mentioned can ensue.

The Secretary of Commerce * * * may grant special temporary licenses to stations actually engaged in conducting experiments for the development of the science of radio communication, or the apparatus pertaining thereto, to carry on special tests, using any amount of power or any wave lengths, at such hours and under such conditions as will insure the least interference with the sending or receipt of commercial or Government radiograms, of distress signals and radiograms, or with the work of other stations.

In these regulations the naval and military stations shall be understood to be stations on land.

REGULATIONS.

NORMAL WAVE LENGTH.

First. Every station shall be required to designate a certain definite wave length as the normal sending and receiving wave length of the station. This wave length shall not exceed six hundred meters or it shall exceed one thousand six hundred meters. Every coastal station open to general public service shall at all times be ready to receive messages of such wave lengths as are required by the Berlin convention. Every ship station, except as hereinafter provided, and every coast station open to general public service shall be prepared to use two sending wave lengths, one of three hundred meters and one of six hundred meters, as required by the international convention in force: Provided, That the Secretary of Commerce * * * may, in his discretion, change the limit of wave length reservation made by regulations first and second to accord with any international agreement to which the United States is a party.

OTHER WAVE LENGTHS.

Second. In addition to the normal sending wave length all stations, except as provided hereinafter in these regulations, may use other sending wave lengths: Provided, That they do not exceed six hundred meters or that they do exceed one thousand six hundred meters: Provided further, That the character of the waves emitted conforms to the requirements of regulations third and fourth following.

USE OF A "PURE WAVE."

Third. At all stations if the sending apparatus, to be referred to hereinafter as the "transmitter," is of such a character that the energy is radiated in two or more wave lengths, more or less sharply defined, as indicated by a sensitive wave meter, the energy in no one of the lesser waves shall exceed ten per centum of that in the greatest.—(37 Stat., 304, chap. 287.)

USE OF A "SHARP WAVE."

Fourth. At all stations the logarithmic decrement per complete oscillation in the wave trains emitted by the transmitter shall not exceed two-tenths, except when sending distress signals or signals and messages relating thereto.

USE OF "STANDARD DISTRESS WAVE."

Fifth. Every station on shipboard shall be prepared to send distress calls on the normal wave length designated by the international convention in force, except on vessels of small tonnage unable to have plants insuring that wave length.

SIGNAL OF DISTRESS.

Sixth. The distress call used shall be the international signal of distress

USE OF "BROAD INTERFERING WAVE" FOR DISTRESS SIGNALS.

Seventh. When sending distress signals, the transmitter of a station on shipboard may be tuned in such a manner as to create a maximum of interference with a maximum of radiation.

DISTANCE REQUIREMENT FOR DISTRESS SIGNALS.

Eighth. Every station on shipboard, wherever practicable, shall be prepared to send distress signals of the character specified in regulations fifth and sixth with sufficient power to enable them to be received by day over sea a distance of one hundred nautical miles by a shipboard station equipped with apparatus for both sending and receiving equal in all essential particulars to that of the station first mentioned.

"RIGHT OF WAY" FOR DISTRESS SIGNALS.

Ninth. All stations are required to give absolute priority to signals and radiograms relating to ships in distress; to cease all sending on hearing a distress signal; and, except when engaged in answering or aiding the ship in distress, to refrain from sending until all signals and radiograms relating thereto are completed.

REDUCED POWER FOR SHIPS NEAR A GOVERNMENT STATION.

Tenth. No station on shipboard, when within fifteen nautical miles of a naval or military station, shall use a transformer input exceeding one kilowatt, nor, when within five nautical miles of such a station, a transformer input exceeding one-half kilowatt, except for sending signals of distress, or signals or radiograms relating thereto.—(37 Stat., 305, chap. 287.)

INTERCOMMUNICATION.

Eleventh. Each shore station open to general public service between the coast and vessels at sea shall be bound to exchange radiograms with any similar shore station and with any ship station without distinction of the radio systems adopted by such stations, respectively, and each station on shipboard shall be bound to exchange radiograms with any other station on shipboard without distinction of the radio systems adopted by each station, respectively.

It shall be the duty of each such shore station, during the hours it is in operation, to listen in at intervals of not less than fifteen minutes and for a period not less than two minutes, with the receiver tuned to receive messages of three hundred meter wave lengths.—(37 Stat., 305-306, chap. 287.)

DIVISION OF TIME.

Twelfth. At important seaports and at all other places where naval or military and private or commercial shore stations operate in such close proximity that interference with the work of naval and military stations can not be avoided by the enforcement of the regulations contained in the foregoing regulations concerning wave lengths and character of signals emitted, such private or commercial shore stations as do interfere with the reception of signals by the naval and military stations concerned shall not use their transmitters during the first fifteen minutes of each hour, local standard time. The Secretary of Commerce * * * may, on the recommendation of the department concerned, designate the station or stations which may be required to observe this division of time.

GOVERNMENT STATIONS TO OBSERVE DIVISION OF TIME.

Thirteenth. The naval or military stations for which the above-mentioned division of time may be established shall transmit signals or radiograms only during the first fifteen minutes of each hour, local standard time, except in case of signals or radiograms relating to vessels in distress, as hereinbefore provided.

USE OF UNNECESSARY POWER.

Fourteenth. In all circumstances, except in case of signals or radiograms relating to vessels in distress, all stations shall use the minimum amount of energy necessary to carry out any communication desired.

GENERAL RESTRICTIONS ON PRIVATE STATIONS.

Fifteenth. No private or commercial station not engaged in the transaction of bona fide commercial business by radio communication or in experimentation in connection with the development and manufacture of radio apparatus for commercial purposes shall use a transmitting wave length exceeding two hundred meters, or a transformer input exceeding one kilowatt, except by special authority of the Secretary of Commerce * * * contained in the license of the station: Provided, That the owner or operator of a station of the character mentioned in this regulation shall not be liable for a violation of the requirements of the third or fourth regulations to the penalties of one hundred dollars or twenty-five dollars, respectively, provided in this section unless the person maintaining or operating such station shall have been notified in writing that the said transmitter has been found, upon tests conducted by the Government, to be so adjusted as to violate the said third and fourth regulations, and opportunity has been given to said owner or operator to adjust said transmitter in conformity with said regulations.

SPECIAL RESTRICTIONS IN THE VICINITIES OF GOVERNMENT STATIONS.

Sixteenth. No station of the character mentioned in regulation fifteenth situated within five nautical miles of a naval or military station shall use a transmitting wave length exceeding two hundred meters or a transformer input exceeding one-half kilowatt.—(37 Stat., 306, chap. 287.)

SHIP STATIONS TO COMMUNICATE WITH NEAREST SHORE STATIONS.

Seventeenth. In general, the shipboard stations shall transmit their radiograms to the nearest shore station. A sender on board a vessel shall, however, have the right to designate the shore station through which he desires to have his radiograms transmitted. If this can not be done, the wishes of the sender are to be complied with only if the transmission can be effected without interfering with the service of other stations.

LIMITATIONS FOR FUTURE INSTALLATIONS IN VICINITIES OF GOVERNMENT STATIONS.

Eighteenth. No station on shore not in actual operation at the date of the passage of this Act shall be licensed for the transaction of commercial business by radio communication within fifteen nautical miles of the following naval or military stations, to wit: Arlington, Virginia; Key West, Florida; San Juan, Porto Rico; North Head and Tatoosh Island, Washington; San Diego, California; and those established or which may be established in Alaska and in the Canal Zone; and the head of the department having control of such Government stations shall, so far as is consistent with the transaction of governmental business, arrange for the transmission and receipt of commercial radiograms under the provisions of the Berlin convention of nineteen hundred and six and future international conventions or treaties to which the United States may be a party, at each of the stations above referred to, and shall fix the rates therefor, subject to control of such rates by Congress. At such stations and wherever and whenever shore stations open for general public business between the coast and vessels at sea under the provisions of the Berlin convention of nineteen hundred and six and future international conventions and treaties to which the United States may be a party shall not be so established as to insure a constant service day and night without interruption, and in all localities wherever or whenever such service shall not be maintained by a commercial shore station within one hundred nautical miles of a naval radio station, the Secretary of the Navy shall, so far as is consistent with the transactions of governmental business, open naval radio stations to the general public business described above, and shall fix rates for such service, subject to control of such rates by Congress. The receipts from such radiograms shall be covered into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts.

SECRECY OF MESSAGES.

Nineteenth. No person or persons engaged in or having knowledge of the operation of any station or stations, shall divulge or publish the contents of any messages transmitted or received by such station, except to the person or persons to whom the same may be directed, or their authorized agent, or to another station employed to forward such message to its destination, unless legally required so to do by the court of competent jurisdiction or other competent authority. Any person guilty of divulging or publishing any message, except as herein provided, shall, on conviction thereof, be punishable by a fine of not more than two hundred and fifty dollars or imprisonment for a period of not exceeding three months, or both fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.—(37 Stat., 307, chap. 287.)

PENALTIES.

For violation of any of these regulations, subject to which a license under sections one and two of this Act may be issued, the owner of the apparatus shall be liable to a penalty of one hundred dollars, which may be reduced or remitted by the Secretary of Commerce * * * and for repeated violations of any of such regulations, the license may be revoked.

For violation of any of these regulations, except as provided in regulation nineteenth, subject to which a license under section three of this Act may be issued, the operator shall be subject to a penalty of twenty-five dollars, which may be reduced or remitted by the Secretary of Commerce * * * and for repeated violations of any such regulations, the license shall be suspended or revoked.—(37 Stat., 308, chap. 287.)

SEC. 5. That every license granted under the provisions of this Act for the operation or use of apparatus for radio communication shall prescribe that the operator thereof shall not willfully or maliciously interfere with any other radio communication. Such interference shall be deemed a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof the owner or operator, or both, shall be punishable by a fine of not to exceed five hundred dollars or imprisonment for not to exceed one year, or both.—(37 Stat., 308, chap. 287.)

SEC. 6. That the expression "radio communication" as used in this Act means any system of electrical communication by telegraphy or telephony without the aid of any wire connecting the points from and at which the radiograms, signals, or other communications are sent or received.—(37 Stat., 308, chap. 287.)

SEC. 7. That a person, company, or corporation within the jurisdiction of the United States shall not knowingly utter or transmit, or cause to be uttered or transmitted, any false or fraudulent distress signal or call or false or fraudulent signal, call, or other radiogram of any kind. The penalty for so uttering or transmitting a false or fraudulent distress signal or call shall be a fine of not more than two thousand five hundred dollars or imprisonment for not more than five years, or both, in the discretion of the court, for each and every such offense, and the penalty for so uttering or transmitting, or causing to be uttered or transmitted, any other false or fraudulent signal, call, or other radiogram shall be a fine of not more than one thousand dollars or imprisonment for not more than two years, or both, in the discretion of the court, for each and every such offense.—(37 Stat., 308, chap. 287.)

SEC. 8. That a person, company, or corporation shall not use or operate any apparatus for radio communication on a foreign ship in territorial waters of the United States otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of sections four and seven of this Act and so much of section five as imposes a penalty for interference. Save as aforesaid, nothing in this Act shall apply to apparatus for radio communication on any foreign ship.—(37 Stat., 308, chap. 287.)

SEC. 9. That the trial of any offense under this Act shall be in the district in which it is committed, or if the offense is committed upon the high seas or out of the jurisdiction of any particular State or district the trial shall be in the district where the offender may be found or into which he shall be first brought.—(37 Stat., 308, chap. 287.)

SEC. 10. That this Act shall not apply to the Philippine Islands.—(37 Stat., 308, chap. 287.)

By Executive Order No. 2585, April 6, 1917, the President directed, by authority of this act, "that such radio stations within the jurisdiction of the United States as are required for naval communications shall be taken over by the Government of the United States and used and controlled by it, to the exclusion of any other control or use; and, furthermore, that all radio stations not necessary to the Government of the United States may be closed for radio communication;" and that "the enforcement of this order is hereby delegated to the Secretary of the Navy, who is authorized and directed to take such action in the premises as to him may appear necessary." (See sec. 2 of this act, above set forth.)

By Joint Resolution of June 5, 1920 (41 Stat., 1061), provision was made for operation of Government radio stations for the use of the general public until two years from the date thereof; and further that all Government stations shall otherwise be used and operated in accordance with the above act of August 13, 1912.

[1912, Aug. 22. Certificates of discharge, etc., in true names.] That the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy be, and they are hereby, authorized and required to issue certificates of discharge or orders of acceptance of resignation, upon application and proof of identity, in the true name of such persons as enlisted or served under assumed names, while minors or otherwise, in the Army or Navy during any war between the United States and any other nation or people and were honorably discharged therefrom. Applications for said certificates of discharge or amended orders of resignation may be made by or on behalf of persons entitled to them, but no such certificate or order shall

Midshipman service, not credited as naval service.] Hereafter the service of a midshipman at the United States Naval Academy, or that of a cadet at the United States Military Academy, who may hereafter be appointed to the United States Naval Academy, or to the United States Military Academy, shall not be counted in computing for any purpose the length of service of any officer in the Navy or in the Marine Corps.—(37 Stat., 891, chap. 148.)

See note to next paragraph and see act of August 24, 1912 (37 Stat., 594).

[1913, Mar. 4. Longevity pay, constructive service, precedence.] That so much of an act entitled "An act to reorganize and increase the efficiency of the personnel of the Navy and Marine Corps," approved March third, eighteen hundred and ninety-nine, which reads as follows: "and that all officers, including warrant officers, who have been or may be appointed to the Navy from civil life shall, on the date of appointment, be credited for computing their pay, with five years' service," shall not apply to any person entering the Navy from and after the passage of this act: Provided, That section fourteen hundred and eighty-six of the Revised Statutes shall not apply in the case of officers who enter the Navy after the passage of this act and all such officers shall take precedence when of the same grade according to their respective dates of commission in that grade.—(37 Stat., 891-892, chap. 148.)

See preceding paragraph as to midshipman service.

The provision of law quoted in this paragraph is contained in section 13 of the Navy personnel act approved March 3, 1899 (30 Stat., 1007).

[1913, Mar. 4. Pay on promotion from date stated in commission.] That all officers of the Navy who, since the third day of March, eighteen hundred and ninety-nine, have been advanced or may hereafter be advanced in grade or rank pursuant to law shall be allowed the pay and allowances of the higher grade or rank from the dates stated in their commissions.—(37 Stat., 892, chap. 148.)

See act of June 22, 1874 (18 Stat., 191); and see notes to sections 1561 and 1562, Revised Statutes.

[1913, Mar. 4. Leave of absence, civil employees, additional pay not allowed.] That employees while taking their leaves of absence shall not receive compensation for services rendered during the period of such leave of absence in addition to leave pay.—(37 Stat., 893, chap. 148.)

This was a proviso following a clause relating to pay during the ensuing fiscal year for "clerical, inspection, and messenger service in navy yards, naval stations, and purchasing pay offices."

See note to section 1545, Revised Statutes, as to leaves of absence, employees at navy yards and stations.

[1913, Mar. 4. Contracts to be awarded by items.] That from and after the passage of this act all awards of contracts for provisions for the Navy shall be made by individual items; the contract for each item being awarded to the lowest responsible bidder.—(37 Stat., 904, chap. 148.)

See sections 3718 and 3724, Revised Statutes, and notes thereto.

[1913, Mar. 4. Servants in commissary department, Naval Academy.] That hereafter such additional payments from the midshipmen's commissary fund as the superintendent of the Naval Academy may deem necessary may be made to the servants authorized in the commissary department.—(37 Stat., 907, chap. 148.)

A slightly different provision was contained in the act of August 22, 1912 (37 Stat., 349). | See section 1527, Revised Statutes, and note thereto.

[1913, Mar. 4. Sale of Marine Corps stores to naval and civilian personnel.] PROVISIONS, MARINE CORPS: * * * Provided, That hereafter so much of this appropriation as may be necessary may be applied for the purchase, for sale to officers, enlisted men, and civilian employees, of such articles of subsistence stores as may from time to time be designated and under such regulations as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy.—(37 Stat., 909, chap. 148.)

This clause was repeated in acts of June 30, 1914 (38 Stat., 411), March 3, 1915 (38 Stat., 949), and August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 613), after which it was omitted.

See act of March 3, 1909 (35 Stat., 768), as to sale of stores to naval and civilian personnel.

See act of August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 630), authorizing sales of Army subsistence supplies to officers and enlisted men of the Navy and Marine Corps, and sales of Navy and Marine Corps subsistence supplies to officers and enlisted men of the Army.

See act of March 6, 1920 (41 Stat., 506, 507), authorizing sale of Navy and Marine Corps quartermaster supplies to officers and enlisted men of the Coast Guard, and to officers of the Public Health Service.

See act of June 5, 1920 (41 Stat., 976), authorizing sale of Navy and Marine Corps subsistence stores and other supplies to honorably discharged officers and enlisted men of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps, while receiving treatment from the Public Health Service.

Above clause held to be permanent legislation.—When the question of repeating the above-quoted provision in the naval appropriation act for the fiscal year 1918 was presented to the House Committee on Naval Affairs, it was decided not to do so, for the reason that the committee concurred with the view taken by the Marine Headquarters that the clause above quoted from the act of August 29, 1916, was permanent legislation. This will be seen by reference to the hearings before the Committee on Naval Affairs of the House of Representatives (64th Cong., 2d sess., p. 365). That this interpretation is correct there can be little doubt, in view of the word "hereafter" contained in the clause, it being well understood that the said word makes permanent provisions contained in appropriation acts. The words "this appropriation" should be construed as meaning, "the appropriation, 'Provisions, Marine Corps.'" (File 26255-614, Feb. 4, 1921.)

[1913, May 1, sec. 3. Rented buildings, District of Columbia.] Hereafter the statement of buildings rented within the District of Columbia for use of the Government, required by the Act of July sixteenth, eighteen hundred and ninety-two (Statutes at Large, volume twenty-seven, page one hundred and ninety-nine), shall indicate as to each building rented the area thereof in square feet of available floor space for Government uses, the rate paid per square foot for such floor space, the assessed valuation of each building, and what proportion, if any, of the rental paid includes heat, light, elevator, or other service.—(38 Stat., 3, chap. 1.)

See act of July 16, 1892 (27 Stat., 199), and laws noted thereunder; and see act of May 29, 1920, section 7 (41 Stat., 691).

[1913, June 23, sec. 3. Estimates, official designated for preparation of.] That hereafter the head of each executive department and other Government establishment shall, on or before July first in every fiscal year, designate from among the officials employed therein one person whose duty it shall be to supervise the classification and compilation of all estimates of appropriations, including supplemental and deficiency estimates to be submitted by such department or establishment. In the performance of their duties persons so designated shall have due regard for the requirements of all laws respecting the preparation of estimates, including the manner and time of their submission through the Treasury Department to Congress; they shall also, as early as may be practicable, eliminate from all such estimates unnecessary words and make uniform the language commonly used in expressing purposes or conditions of appropriations.—(38 Stat., 75, chap. 3.)

[1913, July 9. Midshipmen.] Midshipmen on graduation shall be commissioned ensigns in the Navy, or may be assigned by the Secretary of the Navy to fill vacancies in the lowest commissioned grades of the Marine Corps or Staff Corps of the Navy.—(38 Stat., 103.)

[1913, Dec. 19. Major general commandant, Marine Corps; tenure of office, etc.] That hereafter when a vacancy shall exist in the position of commandant of the Marine Corps the President may appoint to such position, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, an officer of the Marine Corps on the active list not below the grade of field officer, who shall hold office as such commandant for a term of four years, unless sooner relieved, and who, while so serving, shall have the rank, pay, and allowances of a major general in the Army; and any officer appointed under the provisions of this Act who shall be retired from the position of commandant of the Marine Corps, in accordance with the provisions of sections twelve hundred and fifty-one, sixteen hundred and twenty-two, and sixteen hundred and twenty-three, Revised Statutes of the United States, or by reason of age or length of service, shall have the rank and retired pay of a major general; if retired for any other reason, he shall be placed on the retired list of officers of the grade to which he belonged at the time of his retirement: Provided, That an officer serving as commandant shall be carried as an additional number in his grade while so serving, and after his return to duty in his grade until said grade is reduced to the number authorized by law: Provided further, That nothing herein contained shall operate to increase or reduce the total number of officers in the Marine Corps now provided by law.—(38 Stat., 241, chap. 3.)

See notes to sections 1601 and 1622, Revised Statutes, and act of August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 609).

[1914, Feb. 16, sec. 21. Civilians commissioned in Regular Navy in time of war; reappointment of former officers; etc.] That, for the purpose of securing a list of persons especially qualified to hold commissions in the Navy or in any reserve or volunteer naval force which may hereafter be called for and organized under the authority of Congress, other than a force composed of Organized Naval Militia, the Secretary of the Navy is authorized from time to time to convene examining boards at suitable and convenient places in different parts of the United States, who shall examine as to their qualifications for naval duties all applicants who shall have served in the Regular Navy of the United States or in the Organized Naval Militia of any State or Territory or the District of Columbia. Such examination shall be under rules and regulations prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy. The record of previous service of the applicant shall be considered as part of the examination. Those applicants who pass such examinations shall be certified as to their fitness for naval duties and rank, and shall, subject to a physical examination at any time, constitute an eligible class for commissions, pursuant to such certification, in any volunteer naval force hereafter called for and organized under the authority of Congress other than a force composed of Organized Naval Militia; and the President is hereby further authorized, upon the outbreak of war, or when, in his opinion, war is imminent, to commission in the Regular Navy for the exigency of such war such of the persons whose names have been certified as above provided as he may select: Provided, That no one shall be commissioned to a higher rank than the rank for which he may have been recommended by said examining board: And provided further, That the President may also commission or warrant as of the highest rank formerly held by him, or the present equivalent of such former rank in case the nomenclature or some of the specific duties of the same may have been changed, any person who having been formerly a commissioned or warrant officer of the United States Navy shall have been honorably discharged from the service: And provided further, That persons may be commissioned in the Navy for engineer duties only, and for all line duties other than engineer duties, and when so commissioned shall have the full rank, pay, precedence, and so forth, of the line grade for which they are commissioned.—(38 Stat., 289–290, chap. 21.)

The remaining sections of this act related to the Naval Militia, and were repealed by act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 708), and later revived, in part, until June 30, 1922, by act of June 4, 1920 (41 Stat., 817).

See act of August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 587), creating a Naval Reserve Force, and amendments noted thereunder; see also note to section 1363, Revised Statutes.

Former officer dismissed from the Navy; effect of pardon.—The act of February 16, 1914, section 21 (38 Stat., 290), by its terms applies only to officers who have been “honorably discharged from the service.” Under that act, an officer of the Navy who has been dismissed by sentence of court-martial, and subsequently pardoned for the offense, is ineligible for reappointment to the Navy. (31 Op. Atty. Gen., 225; see also sec. 1441, Revised Statutes, and act of Aug. 29, 1916, 39 Stat., 587–588; and see note to Constitution, Art. II, sec. 2, clause 1, as to effect of pardon.)

During the temporary absence of the Secretary and the Assistant Secretary of the Navy, the Chief of Naval Operations shall be next in succession to act as Secretary of the Navy.—(38 Stat., 929, chap. 83.)

A similar provision, without the word "hereafter," was contained in act of June 30, 1914 (38 Stat., 394).

See notes to sections 1390 and 1404, Revised Statutes; see also section 1488, Revised Statutes, and note thereto; and see sections 1-6, Navy personnel act, March 3, 1899 (30 Stat., 1004-1005).

The appointment and assignment of line officers for engineering duty only were authorized by acts of February 16, 1914, section 21 (38 Stat., 283), and August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 580).

[1915, Mar. 3. Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.] An Advisory Committee for Aeronautics is hereby established, and the President is authorized to appoint not to exceed twelve members, to consist of two members from the War Department, from the office in charge of military aeronautics; two members from the Navy Department, from the office in charge of naval aeronautics; a representative each of the Smithsonian Institution, of the United States Weather Bureau, and of the United States Bureau of Standards; together with not more than five additional persons who shall be acquainted with the needs of aeronautical science, either civil or military, or skilled in aeronautical engineering or its allied sciences: Provided, That the members of the Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, as such, shall serve without compensation: Provided further, That it shall be the duty of the Advisory Committee for Aeronautics to supervise and direct the scientific study of the problems of flight, with a view to their practical solution, and to determine the problems which should be experimentally attacked, and to discuss their solution and their application to practical questions. In the act of March 4, 1917 (39 Stat., 1170), appropriations for this committee were made under the name of the "National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics," and the said act consolidated the appropriations previously made for the "Advisory Committee for Aeronautics." Appropriations have continued to be made under the new designation in subsequent acts, to and including the act of March 4, 1921 (41 Stat., 1381).

[1915, Mar. 3. Medals of honor.] The President of the United States is hereby empowered to prepare a suitable medal of honor to be awarded to any officer of the Navy, Marine Corps, or Coast Guard who shall have distinguished himself in battle or displayed extraordinary heroism in the line of his profession.—(38 Stat., 931, chap. 83.)

See act of February 4, 1919 (40 Stat., 1056); and see section 1407, Revised Statutes, and note thereto.

[1915, Mar. 3. Enlistment of minors; discharge upon request of parents.] That hereafter no part of any appropriation for the naval service shall be expended in recruiting seamen, ordinary seamen, or apprentice seamen unless, in case of minors, a certificate of birth or a verified written statement by the parents, or either of them, or in case of their death a verified written statement by the legal guardian, be first furnished to the recruiting officer, showing applicant to be of age required by naval regulations, which shall be presented with the application for enlistment; except in cases where such certificate is unobtainable, enlistment may be made when the recruiting officer is convinced that oath of applicant as to age is credible; but when it is afterwards found, upon evidence satisfactory to the Navy Department, that recruit has sworn falsely as to age, and is under eighteen years of age at the time of enlistment, he shall, upon request of either parent, or, in case of their death, by the legal guardian, be released from service in the Navy, upon payment of full cost of first outfit, unless, in any given case, the Secretary, in his discretion, shall relieve said recruit of such payment.—(38 Stat., 931, chap. 83.)

See sections 1418, 1419, and 1624, article 22, Revised Statutes, and notes thereto.

See acts of June 29, 1906 (34 Stat., 553), and March 3, 1915 (38 Stat., 932), as to clothing outfits.

[1915, Mar. 3. Clothing outfits, reissued on second enlistment.] That hereafter the Secretary of the Navy is authorized to issue a clothing outfit to all enlisted men serving in their second enlistment who failed to receive an outfit of the value authorized by law on their first enlistment, or who, having received such outfit, were required to refund its value on account of discharge prior to expiration of enlistment: Provided further, That the net cost to the Government of clothing outfits furnished any one enlisted man shall not exceed $60.—(38 Stat., 932, chap. 83.)

A similar provision, without the word "hereafter," was contained in act of June 30, 1914 (38 Stat., 396).

A clothing outfit on first enlistment, not to exceed in value $45, was authorized by act of March 1, 1889 (25 Stat., 781). See that act and note thereto.

The value of clothing outfits on first enlistment has been increased from time to time by annual appropriation acts. The amount fixed by the act of June 4, 1920 (41 Stat., 815), was "not to exceed $100 each," during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1921. The latter act further provided that during the said fiscal year the value of such outfits should be charged to the "clothing and small stores fund." See also note to section 1569, Revised Statutes.

As to refund of outfits on discharge, see acts of June 29, 1906 (34 Stat., 553 and 556), and March 2, 1907 (34 Stat., 1176).

As to uniform gratuity in the Naval Reserve Force, see note to section 1556, Revised Statutes.

[1915, Mar. 3. Involuntary retirement, to create vacancies, repealed.] Section nine of the naval personnel act of March third, eighteen hundred and ninety-nine, entitled, "An act to reorganize and increase the efficiency of the personnel of the Navy and Marine Corps of the United States," be, and the same is hereby, repealed.—(38 Stat., 938, chap. 83.)

See act of March 3, 1899, section 9 (30 Stat., 1006); see also act of August 22, 1912 (37 Stat., 328).

[1915, Mar. 3. Aviators, pay of.] Hereafter officers of the Navy and Marine Corps appointed student naval aviators, while lawfully detailed for duty involving actual flying in air craft, including balloons, dirigibles, and aeroplanes, shall receive the pay and allowances of their rank and service plus thirty-five per centum increase thereof; and those officers who have heretofore qualified, or may hereafter qualify, as naval aviators, under such rules and regulations as have been or may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy, shall, while lawfully detailed for duty involving actual flying in air craft, receive the pay and allowances of their rank and service plus fifty per centum increase thereof. Hereafter enlisted men of the Navy or Marine Corps, while detailed for duty involving actual flying in air craft, shall receive the pay, and the permanent additions thereto, including allowances, of their rating and service, or rank and service, as the case may be, plus fifty per centum increase thereof: Provided, That not more than a yearly average of forty-eight officers and ninety-six enlisted men of the Navy, and twelve officers and twenty-four enlisted men of the Marine Corps, detailed for duty involving actual flying in air craft, shall receive any increase in pay while on duty involving actual flying in air craft, nor shall any officer in the Navy senior in rank to commander, nor any officer in the Marine Corps senior in rank to major, receive any increase in pay or allowances by reason of such detail or duty.—(38 Stat., 939, chap. 83.)

By act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 718), increased allowances for aviation duty were prohibited.

This provision was modified by act of August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 582-586). See note to section 1556, Revised Statutes. It was followed by a paragraph authorizing payment of one year's pay and double pension to the beneficiaries of deceased personnel of the Navy or Marine Corps whose death resulted from wounds or disease resulting from an aviation accident; which benefits were repealed by the War Risk insurance amendment of October 6, 1917, section 312 (40 Stat., 408).

A prior provision relating to pay of aviators, contained in act of March 4, 1913 (37 Stat., 892), was superseded by the above.

[1915, Mar. 3. Prior acts repealed.] All Acts or parts of Acts in so far as they are inconsistent with the provisions of this Act are hereby repealed.—(38 Stat., 940, chap. 83.)

[1915, Mar. 3. Naval reserve established.]

This provision read as follows:

"There is hereby established a United States naval reserve, which shall consist of citizens of the United States who have been or may be entitled to be honorably discharged from the Navy after not less than one four-year term of enlistment or after a term of enlistment during minority. The naval reserve shall be organized under the Bureau of Navigation and shall be governed by the Articles for the Government of the Navy and by the Naval Regulations and Instructions. Whenever actively employed with the Navy, or whenever employed in authorized travel to and from prescribed active duty with the Navy, its members shall be employed as members of the naval reserve and shall while so employed be held and considered to be in all respects in the same status as enlisted men of the Navy on active duty, except that they shall not be advanced in rating in time of peace. When not actively employed with the Navy, members of the naval reserve shall not be entitled to any pay, bounty, gratuity, or pension except the pay expressly provided for members of the naval reserve by the provisions of this Act, nor shall they be entitled to retirement by reason of such service in the naval reserve.

"Enlistments in the naval reserve shall be made in the rating in which last honorably discharged from the Navy for a period of four years unless sooner discharged by competent authority. No man shall be first enlisted in the naval reserve after eight years from the date of his last discharge from the Navy nor unless he be found to be physically fit to perform the duties of the rating in which last discharged, nor shall any man whose last service in the Navy was terminated by any means other than by an honorable discharge be eligible for enlistment in the naval reserve. Reenlistments in the naval reserve shall be made under such regulations as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy.

"Enlistments in the naval reserve shall be made in two classes. Class one shall consist of those men who enlist in the naval reserve within four months from the date of their last honorable discharge from the Navy. Class two shall consist of those men who enlist in the naval reserve after four months and within eight years from the date of their last honorable discharge from the Navy.

"In addition to the enlistments in the naval reserve above provided, the Secretary of the Navy is authorized to transfer to the naval reserve at the expiration of an enlistment any enlisted man of the Navy who may, after two years from the date of approval of this Act, complete service in the Navy of sixteen, or twenty or more years and be entitled at the expiration of his enlistment to an honorable discharge. Such transfers shall only be made upon voluntary application and in the rating in which then serving, and the men so transferred shall be continued in the naval reserve until discharged by competent authority.

"Members of the naval reserve of class one and men transferred to the naval reserve shall be required to keep on hand such part of the uniform clothing outfit as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy, and all members of the naval reserve shall be issued a distinctive badge or button which may be worn with civilian dress.

"Members of class one who have served less than eight years in the Navy shall be paid at the rate of $30 per annum, and those who have served eight or more years and less than twelve years in the Navy shall be paid at the rate of $60 per annum and those who have served twelve or more years in the Navy, $100 per annum. All members of the naval reserve of class two shall be paid at the rate of $12 per annum, and when first called into active service on board a vessel of the Navy shall receive an allowance for an outfit of clothing not exceeding $30 in value, to be expended under regulations prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy.

"Members of the naval reserve who have, when transferred to the naval reserve, completed service in the Navy of sixteen, or twenty or more years shall be paid at the rate of one-third and one-half, respectively, of the base pay, plus permanent additions thereto, which they were receiving at the close of their last service in the Navy.

"Members of the naval reserve may, in time of peace, be required to perform not less than one month's active service on board a vessel of the Navy, during each year of service in the naval reserve, and such active service shall not exceed two months in any one year: Provided, That the aforesaid active service with the Navy may be required at any time after entrance in the naval reserve. In time of war they may be required to perform active service with the Navy throughout the war, not to exceed the term of enlistment in the case of those enlisted in the naval reserve. Any pay which may be due any member of the naval reserve shall be forfeited when so ordered by the Secretary of the Navy upon the failure, under such conditions as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy, of such man to report for muster and inspection.

"Those members of the naval reserve of class one, and those members who have been transferred to the naval reserve, who reenlist in the Navy within four months from the date of their discharge from the naval reserve, shall not be entitled to a gratuity of four months' pay, but their reenlistment in the Navy shall be held and considered to have been made within four months from the date of discharge from the Navy for the purpose of continuous-service pay. The period of time during which members of the naval reserve were actively employed with the Navy while enlisted in the naval reserve shall, for the purposes of retirement, be counted as active service in the Navy in the case of those who reenlist in the Navy after service in the naval reserve." (38 Stat., 940-941, chap. 83.)

This provision was held to be superseded by the act of August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 587-593), establishing the Naval Reserve Force and Marine Corps Reserve (23 Comp. Dec., 190, affirmed, 26 Comp. Dec., 556).

In the comptroller's decision first above cited, it was held that "the former Naval Reserve having been superseded on August 29, 1916, by the Naval Reserve Force," the right to pay of members of the Naval Reserve "terminated August 28, 1916."

In the second decision cited, the comptroller held that "upon the passage of the act of August 29, 1916, 39 Stat., 587, the United States Naval Reserve ceased to exist and a new branch, the Naval Reserve Force, was created in place thereof."

The act of August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 593), provided that "All Acts or parts of Acts relating to the Naval Reserve which are inconsistent with the provisions of this Act relating to the Naval Reserve Force are hereby repealed."

After the comptroller's decision first above cited, Congress, by act of March 4, 1917 (39 Stat., 1174), enacted the following provision:

"Any former member of class one of the United States Naval Reserve, established by the Act of March third, nineteen hundred and fifteen, 'An Act making appropriations for the naval service for the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and sixteen, and for other purposes,' who shall have reenlisted in the Navy prior to May first, nineteen hundred and seventeen, shall be held and considered to have reenlisted within four months from the date of discharge from the Navy for the purpose of continuous-service pay. And any such member of the said Naval Reserve who was serving therein on August twenty-ninth, nineteen hundred and sixteen, shall upon his application therefor, any time prior to July first, nineteen hundred and seventeen, be enrolled in the Naval Reserve Force, and any such person so enrolled shall, for all purposes, be considered as having served continuously in such Naval Reserve Force since August twenty-ninth, nineteen hundred and sixteen, with due credit for previous and continuous service in the Naval Reserve in the same manner and to the same effect as for equal length of service in the Naval Reserve Force: Provided, That no such enrolled person shall receive any back pay or allowances for any period during which he shall have received pay or allowances, or either, for service in any other branch of the naval service, regular or reserve."

See note to section 1573, Revised Statutes, as to continuous-service pay in the Navy; see note to section 1556, Revised Statutes, as to pay and allowances of the Naval Reserve Force; and see, generally, note to section 1569, Revised Statutes, as to pay of enlisted men of the Navy, and note to section 1612, Revised Statutes, as to pay of enlisted men of the Marine Corps.

See act of August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 587-593), and amendments noted thereunder, as to the Naval Reserve Force and Marine Corps Reserve.

[1915, Mar. 3. Retired enlisted men, active duty.] The Secretary of the Navy is authorized in time of war, or when, in the opinion of the President, war is threatened, to call any enlisted man on the retired list into active service for such duty as he may be able to perform. While so employed such enlisted men shall receive the same pay and allowances they were receiving when placed on the retired list: Provided, That enlisted men on the retired list shall not be eligible for enlistment in or transfer to the naval reserve.—(38 Stat., 941, chap. 83.)

A later provision for the employment of retired enlisted men on active duty, which apparently supersedes this enactment, is contained in the act of August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 591).

Authority for the advancement of retired enlisted men employed on active duty is contained in the act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 719).

As to status of retired enlisted men, and whether subject to trial by court-martial, see note to section 1624, Revised Statutes.

See notes above, as to the naval reserve; and see act of March 3, 1899, section 17 (30 Stat., 1008), and laws noted thereunder, as to retirement of enlisted men.

See note to section 1569, Revised Statutes, under "17. Retired enlisted men;" and see note to section 1622, Revised Statutes, as to retired enlisted men of the Marine Corps.

[1915, Mar. 3. Grades of acting pay clerk, pay clerk, and chief pay clerk, established.] The title of paymaster's clerk in the United States Navy is hereby changed to pay clerk, and hereafter all pay clerks shall be warranted from acting pay clerks, who shall be appointed from enlisted men in the Navy holding acting or permanent appointments as chief petty officers who have served at least three years as enlisted men, at least two years of which service must have been on board a cruising vessel of the Navy. All appointments as acting pay clerks shall be made by the Secretary of the Navy, and all such appointees, in addition to the qualifications above set forth, must be citizens of the United States. All acting appointments herein provided for shall be made permanent under regulations established by the Secretary of the Navy: Provided, That paymasters' clerks now in the Navy whose total service as such is less than one year and who are citizens of the United States may, upon the passage of this act, be given appointments as acting pay clerks without previous service as enlisted men: Provided further, That paymasters' clerks now in the service and former paymasters' clerks whose appointments have been revoked within six months next preceding the passage of this act, who have had not less than one year's actual service as such, and who are citizens of the United States, may, upon the passage of this act, be warranted as pay clerks without previous service as enlisted men or as acting pay clerks: And provided further, That pay clerks and acting pay clerks shall have the same pay, allowances, and other benefits as are now or may hereafter be allowed other warrant officers and acting warrant officers, respectively.

That all pay clerks shall, after six years' service as such, be commissioned chief pay clerks and shall on promotion have the rank, pay, and allowances of chief boatswain: Provided, That in computing the six years' service herein provided for credit shall be given for all service in the Navy as pay clerk, acting pay clerk, and paymasters' clerk: Provided further, That paymasters' clerks now in the Navy and former paymasters' clerks whose appointments have been revoked within six months next preceding the passage of this act, who have had not less than six years' actual service as such, and who are citizens of the United States, may, upon the passage of this act, be commissioned as chief pay clerks without previous service as enlisted men, acting pay clerks, or pay clerks.

That the total number of chief pay clerks, pay clerks, and acting pay clerks allowed by this act shall not exceed one for each two hundred and fifty enlisted men in the United States Navy now or hereafter allowed by law, and such chief pay clerks, pay clerks, and acting pay clerks shall be assigned to duty with pay officers under such rules as the Secretary of the Navy may prescribe: Provided, That no person shall be appointed a chief pay clerk, pay clerk, or acting pay clerk under any provisions contained in this act until his physical, mental, moral, and professional qualifications have been satisfactorily established by examination before a board of examining officers appointed by the Secretary of the Navy, from officers of the pay corps when practicable and according to such regulations as he may prescribe: Provided further, That no person shall be appointed a chief pay clerk, pay clerk, or acting pay clerk unless his accumulated previous service in the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps, together with his possible future service prior to attaining the age of sixty-two years, will amount to at least thirty years, except that this proviso shall not apply to such persons as were serving in the Navy as paymasters' clerks during the period from September first, nineteen hundred and thirteen, to October thirty-first, nineteen hundred and thirteen.—(38 Stat., 942-943, chap. 83.)

As to pay of warrant officers and commissioned warrant officers, see note to section 1556, Revised Statutes; as to allowances of officers, see note to section 1558, Revised Statutes. See, generally, sections 1386-1388, and 1405, Revised Statutes, and notes thereto.

[1915, Mar. 3. Assistant paymasters, appointment from chief pay clerks and pay clerks.] That the limitation as to age contained in section thirteen hundred and seventy-nine of the Revised Statutes of the United States, relating to appointment of assistant paymasters in the United States Navy, shall not apply to chief pay clerks and pay clerks appointed under the provisions of this Act, who must be between the ages of twenty-one and thirty-five years at the time of appointment as assistant paymasters in the United States Navy: Provided, That this shall not be construed as giving any preference in said appointment of assistant paymasters to said chief pay clerks and pay clerks except as to the limitation of age.—(38 Stat., 943, chap. 83.)

See section 1379, Revised Statutes, and note thereto.

[1915, Mar. 3. Paymasters' clerks; laws repealed.] That sections thirteen hundred and eighty-six, thirteen hundred and eighty-seven, and thirteen hundred and eighty-eight of the Revised Statutes, and all Acts and parts of Acts, so far as they are in conflict with the provisions of this Act, be, and the same are hereby, repealed.—(38 Stat., 943, chap. 83.)

[1915, Mar. 3. Transportation of fuel; charges excessive.] That hereafter, when the lowest obtainable cost of transportation of fuel between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts of the United States by merchant carriers is considered excessive, the appropriation "Fuel and transportation" may be charged with the expense of pay, transportation, shipping, and subsistence of civilian officers and crews, and such other incidental expenses as can not be paid from other appropriations, of naval auxiliaries engaged in the transportation of fuel: Provided, That the appropriation "Maintenance of naval auxiliaries" is insufficient therefor.—(38 Stat., 944, chap. 83.)

See sections 3718 and 3728, Revised Statutes, and notes thereto.

Transportation in foreign vessels.—Coal for the use of the Navy may, under existing law, be transported by sea from ports on the Atlantic to ports on the Pacific coast of the United States in vessels of foreign registry where sufficient American vessels for that purpose can not be had, or where the charges made by such vessels are excessive and unreasonable. (26 Op. Att'y. Gen., 415, Oct. 3, 1917.)

The act of April 28, 1904 (33 Stat., 518), relating to transportation of coal and other supplies for the Navy, contemplates the possibility that it may be impossible to comply with its terms without exposing the Government to exorbitant and unreasonable expense; in such case the act does not require that transportation be in American vessels. (26 Op. Att'y. Gen., 415.)

Section 4347, Revised Statutes, and the act of February 17, 1898 (30 Stat., 248), which prohibit the transportation of merchandise from one port to another in vessels owned by foreigners, do not apply to property owned by the Government. (26 Op. Att'y. Gen., 415.)

Tonnage tax.—A British steamship which transported coal belonging to the Navy, from Newport News to San Francisco, and had no other cargo, was not a vessel having on board goods, wares, and merchandise within the meaning of section 4219, Revised Statutes, and amendments thereto, imposing a tonnage tax upon foreign vessels. (26 Op. Att'y. Gen., 426.)

Coal imported for the Navy; duties.—Coal imported for the use of the Navy is subject to the duties prescribed by paragraph 415 of the act of July 24, 1897 (30 Stat., 190), notwithstanding the coal is imported by the Navy Department and the duties will have to be paid from the appropriations of that Department. (26 Op. Att'y. Gen., 466.)

[1915, Mar. 3. Assistant naval constructors, appointment from line officers.] Officers of the line of the Navy who have had not less than three years' service in the grade of ensign and have taken or are taking satisfactorily a post-graduate course in naval architecture under orders from the Secretary of the Navy shall be eligible for transfer to the grade of assistant naval constructor: Provided, That there shall not be more than five such transfers in any one calendar year and that the total increase in the number of naval constructors and assistant naval constructors by reason of such transfers shall not exceed twenty-four.—(38 Stat., 945, chap. 83.)

See section 1403, Revised Statutes, and note thereto, as to appointment of assistant naval constructors.

[1915, Mar. 3. Pay, Marine Corps, sea duty.] That the increased compensation as now fixed by law for the Marine Corps for foreign shore service shall hereafter be paid to the officers and enlisted men of that corps while on sea duty, in the same manner and under the same conditions as is provided by the act approved May thirteenth, nineteen hundred and eight, for officers of the Navy.—(38 Stat., 948, chap. 83.)

See act of May 13, 1908 (35 Stat., 128), and see notes to sections 1556, 1571, and 1612, Revised Statutes.

establishments to be required for official use, may be paid in advance from appropriations available therefor.—(38 Stat., 1049, chap. 141.)

See act of March 3, 1915 (38 Stat., 929); see also section 192, Revised Statutes, and note thereto.

[1915, Mar. 4, sec. 6. Civil employees, etc., number of.] The officers and employees of the United States whose salaries are herein appropriated for are established and shall continue from year to year to the extent they shall be appropriated for by Congress.—(38 Stat., 1049, chap. 141.)

See note to section 416, Revised Statutes.

This section was part of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1916.

Transfer of appropriations between bureaus and departments; supplies and services.] That hereafter when one bureau of the War or Navy Departments procures by purchase or manufacture stores or material of any kind or performs any service for another bureau of such departments the funds of the bureau or department for which the stores or material are to be procured or the service performed may be placed subject to the requisition of the bureau or department making the procurement or performing the service for direct expenditure by it: Provided, That when the stores being procured are for current issue during the year stores of equal value may be issued from stock on hand in place of any of those aforesaid.—(38 Stat., 1084, chap. 143.)

See act of May 21, 1920, section 7 (41 Stat., 613), which contains provisions similar to the foregoing, applicable to all departments and bureaus of the Government: see also acts of August 24, 1912 (37 Stat., 589), and July 11, 1919 (41 Stat., 132); and see sections 418, 419, 1135, 1437, and 3676, Revised Statutes, and notes thereto.

[1915, Mar. 4. National forests; use of earth, stone, and timber by Navy.] That hereafter the Secretary of Agriculture, under regulations to be prescribed by him, is hereby authorized to permit the Navy Department to take from the national forests such earth, stone, and timber for the use of the Navy as may be compatible with the administration of the national forests for the purposes for which they are established, and also in the same manner to permit the taking of earth, stone, and timber from the national forests for the construction of Government railways and other Government works in Alaska: Provided, That the Secretary of Agriculture shall submit with his annual estimates a report of the quantity and market value of earth, stone, and timber furnished as herein provided.—(38 Stat., 1100-1101, chap. 144.)

[1915, Mar. 4, sec. 4. Appropriations, unexpended balances; reappropriation.] That the reappropriation and diversion of the unexpended balance of any appropriation to a purpose other than that for which it was originally made shall be construed and accounted hereafter as a new appropriation and the unexpended balance shall be reduced by the sum proposed to be so diverted.—(38 Stat., 1161, chap. 147.)

See section 3690, Revised Statutes.

There shall be submitted to Congress, on the first day of the session following the close of each fiscal year, a report showing, as to each exchange hereunder, the make of the article, the period of its use, the allowance therefor, and the article, make thereof, and price, including exchange value, paid or to be paid for each article procured through such exchange.—(38 Stat., 1161, chap. 147.)

Otherwise all official correspondence, orders, reports, recommendations, requests, and other evidence now on file in any public office or department shall be considered. Interior, out of any moneys in the Treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated, a special pension of $10 per month for life, payable quarter yearly. The Commissioner of Pensions shall make all necessary rules and regulations for making payment of such special pensions to the beneficiaries thereof.

Such special pension shall begin on the day that such person shall file his application for enrollment on said roll in the office of the Secretary of War or of the Secretary of the Navy after the passage and approval of this Act, and shall continue during the life of the beneficiary.

Such special pension shall not deprive any such special pensioner of any other pension or of any benefit, right, or privilege to which he is or may hereafter be entitled under any existing or subsequent law, but shall be in addition thereto.

Double salaries restricted.] That unless otherwise specially authorized by law, no money appropriated by this or any other Act shall be available for payment to any person receiving more than one salary when the combined amount of said salaries exceeds the sum of $2,000 per annum, but this shall not apply to retired officers or enlisted men of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, or Coast Guard, or to officers and enlisted men of the Organized Militia and Naval Militia in the several States, Territories, and the District of Columbia: Provided, That no such retired officer, officer, or enlisted man shall be denied or deprived of any of his pay, salary, or compensation as such, or of any other salary or compensation for services heretofore rendered, by reason of any decision or construction of said section six.—(39 Stat., 120, chap. 117; 39 Stat., 582, chap. 417.)

[1916, June 3, sec. 120. Procurement of supplies in time of war, etc.] The President, in time of war or when war is imminent, is empowered, through the head of any department of the Government, in addition to the present authorized methods of purchase or procurement, to place an order with any individual, firm, association, company, corporation, or organized manufacturing industry for such product or material as may be required and which is of the nature and kind usually produced or capable of being produced by such individual, firm, company, association, corporation, or organized manufacturing industry.

Compliance with all such orders for products or material shall be obligatory on any individual, firm, association, company, corporation, or organized manufacturing industry or the responsible head or heads thereof and shall take precedence over all other orders and contracts theretofore placed with such individual, firm, company, association, corporation, or organized manufacturing industry, * * * and any individual, firm, company, association, or corporation, or organized manufacturing industry, or the responsible head or heads thereof, failing to comply with the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a felony, and upon conviction shall be punished by imprisonment for not more than three years and by a fine not exceeding $50,000.

Provided, That the words ‘or the Secretary of the Navy’ shall be inserted immediately after the words ‘the Secretary of War’ wherever those words appear in section 125 of the Act approved June 3, 1916, hereinbefore referred to.” (The reference in this amendment to the act approved February 28, “1918,” was evidently intended to mean the act of February 28, “1919,” above cited.)

See section 32, Criminal Code, act of March 4, 1909 (35 Stat., 1095), as to impersonating officers of the United States, etc.; act of March 1, 1911 (36 Stat., 963), as to discrimination against the uniform of the United States by places of amusement, etc.; act of July 8, 1918 (40 Stat., 821), as to unauthorized wearing of uniforms of friendly nations; act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 712) as to members of Naval Reserve Force authorized to wear their uniforms when not in active service; and act of August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 588), as to unauthorized wearing of the distinctive insignia of the Naval Reserve Force.

ber of commissioned line officers on the active list, as distinguished from the authorized number. They do not include anyone who is not actually a commissioned officer at the time under consideration. Thus, one commissioned after July 1 in any year could not be counted as one of the commissioned officers on the active list July 1 of that year, notwithstanding that his commission when subsequently issued might bear date as of July 1 or prior thereto. (File 28687-4, Sept. 16, 1916. Compare act of July 1, 1918, 40 Stat., 716, providing that midshipmen may be commissioned "effective" from date of graduation.)

[1916, Aug. 29. Promotions to lieutenant; length of service.] That lieutenants (junior grade) shall have had not less than three years' service in that grade before being eligible for promotion to the grade of lieutenant.—(39 Stat., 576, chap. 417.)

See act of June 4, 1920, section 5 (41 Stat., 836), which suspended the operation of this provision until June 30, 1923.

See act of March 3, 1899, section 7 (30 Stat., 1005), as to promotion of ensigns to lieutenants (junior grade), after three years, service.

See notes to section 1561-1562, Revised Statutes, as to commencement of pay on promotion.

[1916, Aug. 29. Number of commissioned officers, staff corps.] The total authorized number of commissioned officers of the active list of the following staff corps, exclusive of commissioned warrant officers, shall be based on percentages of the total number of commissioned officers of the active list of the line of the Navy as follows:

Pay Corps, twelve per centum; Construction Corps, five per centum; Corps of Civil Engineers, two per centum; and that the total authorized number of commissioned officers of the Medical Corps shall be sixty-five one hundredths of one per centum of the total authorized number of the officers and enlisted men of the Navy and Marine Corps, including midshipmen, Hospital Corps, prisoners undergoing sentence of discharge, enlisted men detailed for duty with the Naval Militia, and the Flying Corps.—(39 Stat., 576, chap. 417.)

The designation of the "Pay Corps" was changed to "Supply Corps" by act of July 11, 1919 (41 Stat., 417).

By act of June 4, 1920, section 2 (41 Stat., 834), it was provided that "the number of commissioned officers of the line, permanent, temporary, and reserve on active duty shall not exceed 4 per centum of the total authorized enlisted strength of the Regular Navy, and the number of staff officers on active duty of whatever kind shall be in the same proportions as authorized by existing law; * * * that nothing herein shall be construed as reducing the permanent commissioned or enlisted strength of the Regular Navy as authorized by existing law."

to section 1513, Revised Statutes; as to authorized commissioned and enlisted strength of the Marine Corps, see note to section 1596, Revised Statutes.

Professors of Mathematics: See note to section 1399, Revised Statutes.

"Total authorized number of commissioned officers of the active list of the * * * staff corps."—These words refer to the total authorized number of commissioned officers of the active list of the staff corps concerned, as distinguished from the actual number of such officers in the Navy at any one time.

[1916, Aug. 29. Advancement of staff officers below lieutenant commander; rank of assistant surgeons.] Officers of the lower grades of the Medical Corps, Pay Corps, Construction Corps, and Corps of Civil Engineers shall be advanced in rank up to and including the rank of lieutenant commander with the officers of the line with whom or next after whom they take precedence under existing law: Provided, That all assistant surgeons shall from date of their original appointment take rank and precedence with lieutenants (junior grade).—(39 Stat., 576-577, chap. 417.)

By act of May 22, 1917, section 17 (40 Stat., 89), it was provided that nothing contained in this act "shall operate to disturb the relative position of officers in the Medical Corps with reference to precedence or promotion, but all such officers otherwise qualified shall be advanced in rank with or ahead of officers in said corps who were their juniors on the date of said act."

A provision with reference to assistant civil engineers, similar to the above proviso relating to assistant surgeons, was embodied in act of March 4, 1917 (39 Stat., 1184).

As to advancement of staff officers to the ranks of commander, captain, and rear admirals, see act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 718).

As to change in designation of "Pay Corps" to "Supply Corps," see act of July 11, 1919 (41 Stat., 147).

As to precedence of line and staff officers, see sections 1485-1486, Revised Statutes, and notes thereto.

Examinations required for advancement in rank of staff officers: See sections 1493 and 1496, Revised Statutes, and act of May 22, 1917, section 20 (40 Stat., 89).

Rank and promotion in Medical Corps: see sections 1371, 1474, and 1480, Revised Statutes; Supply Corps: see sections 1380, 1475, and 1480, Revised Statutes; Construction Corps: see sections 1402-1403, 1477, and 1480, Revised Statutes; Civil Engineer Corps: see sections 1413, 1478, and 1480, Revised Statutes; Chaplain Corps: see act of June 30, 1914 (38 Stat., 403), and notes to sections 1479-1480, Revised Statutes; professors of mathematics: see note to section 1480, Revised Statutes; Dental Corps: see act of August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 573-574).

To ascertain the "authorized" number of commissioned staff officers in the various corps concerned, exclusive of commissioned warrant officers, the total authorized number of commissioned line officers of the active list is taken as a basis, and not the actual number of commissioned line officers. (File 28687-4, Sept. 16, 1916.)

To ascertain the total authorized number of commissioned officers of the Medical Corps, the "total authorized number of the officers and enlisted men of the Navy and Marine Corps" is taken as the basis; these words are used in the law in the broad sense, which includes every person authorized for the active list of the regular naval service. Where the total "authorized" number is not fixed by law, as in the cases of some warrant and commissioned warrant officers, the computation may be based upon the actual number of such officers; but in other cases, the computation should be based upon the "total authorized number" and not the actual number. (File 28687-4, Sept. 16, 1916.)

struction Corps: see sections 1402-1403, 1477, and 1480, Revised Statutes; Civil Engineer Corps: see sections 1413, 1478, and 1480, Revised Statutes; Chaplain Corps: see act of June 30, 1914 (38 Stat., 403), and notes to sections 1479-1480, Revised Statutes; professors of mathematics: see note to section 1480, Revised Statutes; Dental Corps: see act of August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 573-574).

This provision as to advancement of staff officers to higher ranks was suspended in certain cases until June 30, 1923: see act of June 4, 1920 (41 Stat., 836).

Advancement in rank with line officers.—This enactment is substantially identical with the long established prior practice of advancing staff officers to higher ranks with their "running mates," which found expression in the Navy Regulations (e. g., art. 1005 (i), Navy Regs. 1913). The previous practice was not changed by this enactment, and as that practice was to advance staff officers in rank on the date their running mates in this line became due for promotion, regardless of whether or not the latter qualified for promotion as of that date, and not necessarily contemporaneously with their line running mates, the same rule should be applied under this enactment. (File 28687-4:1, Sept. 16, 1916.)

Rank of assistant surgeons.—The proviso in the act of August 29, 1916, as to the rank of assistant surgeons is explicit; in order to give effect thereto, certain officers in the grade of assistant surgeon on the date of that act must be given precedence with the line officers who were lieutenants (junior grade) when such assistant surgeons were originally appointed, and "with whom or next after whom" the assistant surgeons in question took precedence on date of appointment; the assistant surgeons in question will thus in some cases be given precedence ahead of certain passed assistant surgeons, but this is a matter which can be remedied only by Congress. (File 11130-37, Jan. 19, 1917. See act of May 22, 1917, sec. 17, above quoted, which was enacted to remedy this situation.)

[1916, Aug. 29. Computations; authorized number in each rank, line and staff.] That to determine the authorized number of officers in the various grades and ranks of the line and of the staff corps as herein provided, computations shall be made by the Secretary of the Navy semiannually, as of July first and January first of each year, and the resulting numbers in the various grades and ranks, as so computed, shall be held and considered for all purposes as the authorized number of officers in such various grades and ranks and shall not be varied between such dates.—(39 Stat., 577, chap. 417.)

This provision was amended by act of July 11, 1919 (41 Stat., 139), which provided that "the provision of existing law which requires the Secretary of the Navy to make computations semiannually as of July 1 and January 1 of each year * * * is hereby amended so that said computations shall be made * * * at least once each year and at such times as the Secretary of the Navy may direct * * *."

See provisions of this act (39 Stat., 577), set forth below, as to distribution of officers between upper and lower halves in the rank of rear admiral; disposition of fractional numbers in computation of officers; and exclusion of additional number officers from computations.

The words, "such dates," as used in the act of August 29, 1916, referred specifically to the dates of July 1 and January 1 of each year; accordingly, the provision against varying the number of officers between those dates resulted in preventing additional appointments of commissioned officers except on the dates mentioned and not between those dates. By act of May 22, 1917, section 6 (40 Stat., 86), the Secretary of the Navy was authorized, during the existing war, to make computations on July 1 and January 1 of each year, "and at such other times as he may deem necessary." This enactment suspended temporarily the restriction contained in the act of August 29, 1916, upon varying the number of officers between specified dates, and permitted of daily computations if the Secretary considered such action advisable. The result was that additional appointments of commissioned officers in the lowest grades, line and staff, could be made under said provision of May 22, 1917, at any time that eligibles became available. (File 28687-22, June 14, 1917.)

[1916, Aug. 29. Staff officers, distribution in grades; appointments in Medical and Construction Corps; qualifications.] The total number of commissioned officers of the active list of the following mentioned staff corps at any one time, exclusive of commissioned warrant officers, shall be distributed in the various grades of the respective corps as follows:

MEDICAL CORPS: One-half medical directors with the rank of rear admiral to four medical directors with the rank of captain, to eight medical inspectors with rank of commander, to eighty-seven and one-half in the grades below medical inspector: Provided, That hereafter appointees to the grade of assistant surgeon shall be between the ages of twenty-one and thirty-two at the time of appointment.

PAY CORPS: One-half pay directors with the rank of rear admiral to four pay directors with the rank of captain, to eight pay inspectors with the rank of commander, to eighty-seven and one-half in the grades below pay inspector.

CONSTRUCTION CORPS: One-half naval constructors with the rank of rear admiral to eight and one-half naval constructors with the rank of captain, to fourteen naval constructors with the rank of commander, to seventy-seven naval constructors and assistant naval constructors with rank below commander: Provided, That vacancies in the Construction Corps shall be filled in the manner now prescribed by law, at such annual rate as the Secretary of the Navy may prescribe: Provided further, That hereafter ensigns of not less than one year's service as such shall be eligible for transfer to the Construction Corps.

CORPS OF CIVIL ENGINEERS: One-half civil engineers with the rank of rear admiral to five and one-half civil engineers with the rank of captain, to fourteen civil engineers with the rank of commander, to eighty civil engineers and assistant civil engineers with the rank below commander.—(39 Stat., 577, chap. 417.)

The designation of the "Pay Corps" was changed to "Supply Corps" by act of July 11, 1919 (41 Stat., 147).

As to number and rank of officers in the staff corps, see the following citations: Medical Corps: sections 1368 and 1474, Revised Statutes; Supply Corps: sections 1376 and 1475, Revised Statutes; Construction Corps: sections 1402, 1403, and 1477, Revised Statutes; Civil Engineer Corps: sections 1413 and 1478, Revised Statutes; Chaplain Corps: sections 1395 and 1479, Revised Statutes, and act of June 30, 1914 (38 Stat., 403); Professors of mathematics: sections 1399 and 1480, Revised Statutes; Dental Corps: act of August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 573-574).

See note to section 1480, Revised Statutes, as to filling of vacancies in the rank of rear-admiral under this provision; and see act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 718), as to advancement by selection to the ranks of commander, captain, and rear admiral in the staff corps of the Navy.

Qualifications for appointment as assistant surgeon: See section 1370, Revised Statutes, and note thereto.

Vacancies in the Construction Corps, how filled: See sections 1402-1403, Revised Statutes, and notes thereto.

Computations to determine number of officers in each grade and rank in certain staff corps: See provision of this act (39 Stat., 577), set forth above.

See below (39 Stat., 577), as to distribution of officers between upper and lower halves of rear admiral, disposition of fractional numbers resulting from computations, and exclusion of additional-number officers in making computations.

See above as to distribution in grades of line officers.

[1916, Aug. 29. Professors of mathematics, no further appointments.] Hereafter no further appointments shall be made to the Corps of Professors of Mathematics, and that corps shall cease to exist upon the death, resignation, or dismissal of the officers now carried in that corps on the active and retired lists of the Navy.—(39 Stat., 577, chap. 417.)

See sections 1399-1401, and 1480, Revised Statutes, and notes thereto.

[1916, Aug. 29. Rear admirals, distribution between upper and lower halves.] When there is an odd number of officers in the grade or rank of rear admiral in the line or in each corps, the lower division thereof shall include the excess in number, except where there is but one.—(39 Stat., 577, chap. 417.)

See note to section 1362, Revised Statutes, as to division of rear admirals into two grades for pay purposes; and see provision of this act (39 Stat., 577-578), set forth below, as to pay of rear admirals.

[1916, Aug. 29. Computations, disposition of fractional numbers.] Whenever a final fraction occurs in computing the authorized number of any corps, grade or rank in the naval service, the nearest whole number shall be regarded as the authorized number: Provided, That at least one officer shall be allowed in each grade or rank.—(39 Stat., 577, chap. 417.)

Total number of officers not to be exceeded.—In computing the authorized number of officers in the various grades and ranks in the manner prescribed, by taking the nearest whole number whenever a final fraction occurs, the result may be in some cases an excess of one officer in the total number of the line or in a staff corps authorized for the period following the computations, while in other cases, the result may be a shortage of one in such total authorized number. The provisions of the law in this respect are conflicting, and under such circumstances the total number authorized for the line or the particular corps concerned should control; this may be done by adding one officer to the authorized number in the lowest grade or rank, or subtracting one therefrom, as the case may be, in order to make the total number conform to the total number authorized for the period involved. (File 28687-4, Sept. 16, 1916.)

[1916, Aug. 29. Computations; additional number officers excluded; no reduction in any staff grade.] For the purpose of determining the authorized number of officers in any grade or rank of the line or of the staff corps, there shall be excluded from consideration those officers carried by law as additional numbers, including staff officers heretofore permanently commissioned with the rank of rear admiral, and nothing contained herein shall be held to reduce below that heretofore authorized by law the number of officers in any grade or rank in the staff corps.—(39 Stat., 577, chap. 417.)

See note to section 1363, Revised Statutes, as to additional number officers; see note to section 421, Revised Statutes, under "Rank of chiefs of bureaus," with reference to the act of June 24, 1910 (36 Stat., 607, repealed by act of August 22, 1912, 37 Stat., 328), under which certain staff officers were commissioned with the permanent rank of rear admiral on the active list prior to the act of August 29, 1916; and see act of March 4, 1915 (cited in note to sec. 1478, R. S.), under which an officer in the Civil Engineer Corps was commissioned with the permanent rank of rear admiral on the active list.

See notes to sections 1368, 1376, 1395, 1399, 1402, 1403, and 1413, Revised Statutes, as Computations in Marine Corps.—The words "naval service" as used in this provision with reference to final fractions in computing the number of officers, etc., include the Marine Corps. (File 28687-5, Aug. 29, 1916; see note to sec. 1596, R. S., "Computing number of officers.") to numbers of officers authorized in the various staff corps.

Additional number officers.—While there are many references in the act of August 29, 1916, to additional number officers, which show that Congress was familiar with the legislation on that subject, there is nothing in said act which expressly indicates that Congress intended to repeal prior laws relating thereto and to provide that additional number officers should become regular numbers on promotion; instead, the act indicates the contrary; accordingly, held, that officers who are additional numbers in grade continue to be additional numbers after promotion by selection. (File 28687-11, Jan. 2, 1917.)

[1916, Aug. 29. Rear admirals, pay and allowances.] Hereafter pay and allowances of officers in the upper half of the grade or rank of rear admiral, including the staff corps and including staff officers heretofore permanently commissioned with the rank of rear admiral, shall be that now allowed by law for the first nine rear admirals, and the pay and allowances of officers in the lower half of the grade or rank of rear admiral, including the staff corps, shall be that now allowed by law for the second nine rear admirals.—(39 Stat., 577-578, chap. 417.)

See note to section 1362, Revised Statutes, as to division of rear admirals into two grades for pay purposes; see note to section 1556, Revised Statutes, as to pay of rear admirals; see notes to sections 1487 and 1558, Revised Statutes, as to allowances; and see note to section 421, Revised Statutes, under "Rank of chiefs of bureaus," and note to section 1478, Revised Statutes, as to staff officers permanently commissioned with the rank of rear admiral on the active list prior to the act of August 29, 1916.

[1916, Aug. 29. Rank by date of commission, staff corps; exceptions.] That officers shall take rank in each staff corps according to the dates of commission in the several grades, excepting in cases where they have gained or lost numbers.—(39 Stat., 578, chap. 417.)

See notes to sections 1485-1486, Revised Statutes.

[1916, Aug. 29. Commissioned warrant officers, pay and allowances.] Hereafter chief boatswains, chief gunners, chief machinists, chief carpenters, chief sail makers, chief pharmacists, and chief pay clerks, on the active list with creditable records, shall, after six years from date of commission, receive the pay and allowances that are now or may hereafter be allowed a lieutenant (junior grade), United States Navy: Provided, That chief boatswains, chief gunners, chief machinists, chief carpenters, chief sail makers, chief pharmacists, and chief pay clerks, on the active list with creditable records, shall, after twelve years from date of commission, receive the pay and allowances that are now or may hereafter be allowed a lieutenant, United States Navy.—(39 Stat., 578, chap. 417.)

See note to section 1556, Revised Statutes, under "25. Warrant officers, acting warrant officers, and commissioned warrant officers."

[1916, Aug. 29. Warrant officers, heat and light; leave of absence.] Warrant officers shall receive the same allowances of heat and light as are now or may hereafter be allowed an ensign, United States Navy.

Warrant officers shall be allowed such leave of absence, with full pay, as is now or may hereafter be allowed other officers of the United States Navy.—(39 Stat., 578, chap. 417.)

See note to section 1487, Revised Statutes, as to allowance of quarters and heat and light therefor.

See note to section 1556, Revised Statutes, under "40. Absence from duty."

[1916, Aug. 29. Promotion by selection, line officers.] Hereafter all promotions to the grades of commander, captain, and rear admiral of the line of the Navy, including the promotion of those captains, commanders, and lieutenant commanders who are, or may be, carried on the Navy list as additional to the numbers of such grades, shall be by selection only from the next lower respective grade upon the recommendation of a board of naval officers as herein provided.—(39 Stat., 578, chap. 417.)

The provisions of this act relating to promotion by selection were extended, with certain modifications, to the staff corps by act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 718).

By act of July 11, 1919 (41 Stat., 147), it was provided: "That the provisions of the Act of August 29, 1916, regarding the promotion of captains in the line of the permanent Navy shall not restrict the promotion of such captains as may have been wounded in line of duty and who are now on the active list, and such captains shall be entitled to the benefits of the provisions of section 1494, Revised Statutes of the United States, and also to the benefits of the Act of March 4, 1911."

The requirement of this provision, that promotions be made "from the next lower respective grade," was suspended in certain cases until June 30, 1923, by act of June 4, 1920, section 5 (41 Stat., 836), having previously been suspended in the same class of cases by act of July 11, 1919 (41 Stat., 140).

See note to section 1453, Revised Statutes, on general subject of promotion.

Selection law not applicable to temporary promotions.—This act clearly relates to promotions in the permanent Navy. The act of May 22, 1917 (40 Stat., 85), authorized temporary promotions to all grades, without making any express provision as to the manner in which such promotions were to be made: Held, that such temporary promotions above the grade of lieutenant commander may be made without compliance with the selection law of August 29, 1916; but that the provisions of said law may be extended by regulations to such temporary promotions if deemed advisable. (File 28687-22, June 14, 1917.)

The Secretary of the Navy established a procedure with reference to the selection of officers for temporary promotion somewhat similar to that required by the act of August 29, 1916, with reference to permanent promotions: Held, that this did not have the effect of making any provision of said act of August 29, 1916, applicable to such temporary promotions, but was merely a procedure administratively adopted which was not binding upon the Secretary, who could modify same if he deemed it advisable to do so. (File 26521-230:5, Feb. 1, 1918.)

[1916, Aug. 29. Selection board; proceedings.] The board shall consist of nine rear admirals on the active list of the line of the Navy not restricted by law to the performance of shore duty only, and shall be appointed by the Secretary of the Navy and convened during the month of December of each year and as soon after the first day of the month as practicable.

Each member of said board shall swear, or affirm, that he will, without prejudice or partiality, and having in view solely the special fitness of officers and the efficiency of the naval service, perform the duties imposed upon him as herein provided.

The board shall be furnished by the Secretary of the Navy with the number of vacancies in the grades of rear admiral, captain, and commander to be filled during the following calendar year, including the vacancies existing at the time of the convening of the board and those that will occur by operation of law from the date of convening until the end of the next calendar year, and with the names of all officers who are eligible for consideration for selection as herein authorized, together with the record of each officer: Provided, That any officer eligible for consideration for selection shall have the right to forward through official channels at any time not later than ten days after the convening of said board a written communication inviting attention to any matter of record in the Navy Department concerning himself which he deems important in the consideration of his case: Provided, That such communication shall not contain any reflection upon the character, conduct, or motives of or criticism of any officer.—(39 Stat., 578, chap. 417.)

Amendment to this provision was made by act of July 11, 1919 (41 Stat., 139), as follows: "The provision of existing law which requires the Secretary of the Navy * * * to convene the boards to select officers of the line and of the staff corps for promotion is hereby amended so that * * * said boards shall be convened at least once each year and at such times as the Secretary of the Navy may direct, and the boards shall recommend for promotion such number of officers as may be necessary to fill vacancies then existing and which may occur during the next period of time."

The provisions of this act as to promotion by selection were extended, with certain modifications, to the staff corps by act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 718).

See note to section 1499, Revised Statutes, under "Records submitted to Board on Selection for promotion."

Date of vacancy on retirement.—The retirement of an officer on his own application, pursuant to section 1443, Revised Statutes, takes effect, so as to create a vacancy which may be filled by the appointing power, on the date when his application for retirement is approved by the President, and is not deferred until the date he receives notice of the President's action. (32 Op. Atty. Gen., 176. See also notes to secs. 1444 and 1458, R. S.)

Membership of selection board.—Officers of the line of the Navy who have qualified for the permanent rank of rear admiral, and who have been commissioned as such by the President during a recess of the Senate, are qualified for service as members of the selection board provided by the act of August 29, 1916. (File 28687-31, Oct. 11, 1920.)

Additional number officers, if recommended for promotion, will not become regular numbers if promoted, and are therefore in addition to the number of vacancies as furnished the selection board. (File 28687-11, Jan. 2, 1917.)

Names of officers previously selected but not promoted must be submitted to the next selection board, if otherwise eligible for consideration. Under the act of August 29, 1916, the officer's eligibility for promotion after favorable recommendation by a selection board continued until the end of the following calendar year; if no vacancy occurred in the next higher grade to which he could be promoted during that calendar year, he became ineligible for promotion unless again recommended by a selection board. By act of May 22, 1917, section 6 (40 Stat. 86), the Secretary of the Navy was authorized, during the existing war, to convene selection boards "at such times as the exigencies of the service may require." Under this amendment, an officer recommended by a special board so convened continued eligible for promotion only during such indefinite period as might intervene between the date that his eligibility attached and the convening of the next following board for selection; and if no vacancy occurred for him in the meantime, his name was required to be furnished to the new board, if still eligible for consideration. (File 28687-22, June 20, 1917; 28687-22:1, Dec. 27, 1918.)

[1916, Aug. 29. Service in grade necessary before selection.] That no captains, commanders, or lieutenant commanders who shall have had less than four years' service in the grade in which he is serving on November the thirtieth of the year of the convening of the board shall be eligible for consideration by the board.—(39 Stat., 578, chap. 417.)

This requirement as to length of service in grade not applicable to the selection of staff officers under the act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 718).

This requirement as to length of service in grade was suspended in certain cases until June 30, 1923, by act of June 4, 1920, section 5 (41 Stat., 836), having previously been suspended until July 1, 1920, in the same class of cases, by act of July 11, 1919 (41 Stat., 140).

Temporary promotions.—The requirement as to four years' service in grade before becoming eligible for consideration by the selection board does not apply with respect to temporary promotions under the act of May 22, 1917 (40 Stat., 85); but the President may prescribe a similar requirement for temporary promotion if he deems such action advisable. (File 28687-22, June 14, 1917.)

[1916, Aug. 29. Engineer officers, eligibility for selection; additional numbers.] That the recommendation of the board in the case of officers of the former Engineer Corps who are restricted by law to the performance of shore duty only and in that of officers who may hereafter be assigned to engineering duty only shall be based upon their comparative fitness for the duties prescribed for them by law. Upon promotion they shall be carried as additional numbers in grade.—(39 Stat., 578-579, chap. 417.)

See note to section 1390, Revised Statutes, for laws relating to officers for engineering duty only; and see note to section 1363, Revised Statutes, for laws relating to additional officers.

See provisions of this act (39 Stat., 579); set forth below, as to recommendation of selection board and exemption from sea service in the cases of engineer officers; and see below (39 Stat., 584), as to promotion of officers commissioned for aeronautic duty only.

Additional number officers continue to be additional numbers after promotion by selection. This provision with reference to engineer officers indicates that it was not the purpose of Congress to abolish additional number officers with reference to higher grades in the line filled by selection. Prior laws relating to additional number officers are not repealed by the act of August 29, 1916, nor do such officers become regular numbers on promotion. (File 28687-11, Jan. 2, 1917.)

[1916, Aug. 29. Number of officers recommended for promotion; six members of board must concur.] The board shall recommend for promotion a number of officers in each grade equal to the number of vacancies to be filled in the next higher grade during the following calendar year: Provided, That no officer shall be recommended for promotion unless he shall have received the recommendation of not less than six members of said board.—(39 Stat., 579, chap. 417.)

Amendment to this provision was made by act of July 11, 1919 (41 Stat., 139), which provided for selection boards being convened "at such times as the Secretary of the Navy may direct," and further provided that "the boards shall recommend for promotion such number of officers as may be necessary to fill vacancies then existing and which may occur during the next period of time."

As to selection of staff officers, see act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 718).

As to form of board's recommendation, see below (39 Stat., 579).

Additional number officers, if recommended for promotion, will not become regular numbers when promoted, but will continue to be additional numbers in their grade; they are therefore in addition to the number of vacancies as furnished the selection board. (File 28687-11, Jan. 2, 1917.)

[1916, Aug. 29. Annual appointment of captains limited. Repealed.]

This provision read as follows:

"That the increase in the number of captains herein authorized shall be made at the rate of not more than ten captains in any one year."

(39 Stat., 579, chap. 417.)

It was expressly repealed by act of May 22, 1917, section 14 (40 Stat., 87).

[1916, Aug. 29. Recommendation of selection board to be in writing, etc.; report as to engineer officers.] The report of the board shall be in writing signed by all of the members and shall certify that the board has carefully considered the case of every officer eligible for consideration under the provisions of this law, and that in the opinion of at least six of the members, the officers therein recommended are the best fitted of all those under consideration to assume the duties of the next higher grade, except that the recommendation of the board in the case of officers of the former Engineer Corps who are restricted by law to the performance of shore duty only, and in that of officers who may hereafter be assigned to engineering duty only, shall be based upon their comparative fitness for the duties prescribed for them by law.—(39 Stat., 579, chap. 417.)

See above (39 Stat., 578-579), as to engineer officers; and see below (39 Stat., 584), as to promotion of officers commissioned for aeronautic duty only.

See act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 718), as to selection of staff officers.

[1916, Aug. 29. President's action; reconvening of selection board.] The report of the board shall be submitted to the President for approval or disapproval. In case any officer or officers recommended by the board are not acceptable to the President, the board shall be informed of the name of such officer or officers, and shall recommend a number of officers equal to the number of those found not acceptable to the President and if necessary shall be reconvened for this purpose.—(39 Stat., 579, chap. 417.)

See note to Constitution, Article II, section 2, clause 2, as to President's power with respect to appointment and promotion of officers; see also notes to sections 1458 and 1480, Revised Statutes, on the same subject.

As to action by the President in the cases of retiring and promotion boards, see notes to sections 1452 and 1502, Revised Statutes.

[1916, Aug. 29. President's approval of selection board's report; professional and physical examinations required; rank on promotion or retirement.] When the report of the board shall have been approved by the President, the officers recommended therein shall be deemed eligible for selection, and if promoted shall take rank with one another in accordance with their seniority in the grade from which promoted: Provided, That any officers so selected shall prior to promotion be subject in all respects to the examinations prescribed by law for officers promoted by seniority, and in case of failure to pass the required professional examination such officer shall thereafter be ineligible for selection and promotion. And should any such officer fail to pass the required physical examination he shall not be considered, in the event of retirement, entitled to the rank of the next higher grade.—(39 Stat., 579, chap. 417.)

Examinations for promotion: see sections 1493-1505, Revised Statutes.

See act of March 4, 1911 (36 Stat., 1267), which was modified by this provision as to the rank of officers retired after failure to pass the physical examination for promotion. By act of July 11, 1919 (41 Stat., 147), this restriction on retired rank was made inapplicable to any captain then on the active list who had been wounded in line of duty. (See note to sec. 1494, R. S.)

Eligibility for selection; when terminated.—Under the act of August 29, 1916, an officer's eligibility for selection continued until the end of the calendar year following the favorable recommendation of the board. Under the amendment of May 22, 1917 (40 Stat., 86), which authorized the Secretary to convene selection boards "at such times as the exigencies of the service may require," officers recommended by a board so convened continued eligible only until the next board was convened. If no vacancies occurred to which they could be promoted during the calendar year, in the one case, or, in the other, during the period until the next selection board was convened, their eligibility for promotion ceased, unless they were again selected; and their names, if otherwise eligible for consideration, must be submitted to the next selection board. (File 28687-22, June 20, 1917; 28687-22 : 1, Dec. 27, 1918.)

Examinations after selection.—An officer examined professionally and physically prior to being recommended for promotion by the selection board, must be reexamined after selection for promotion. (File 26521-337, June 23, 1919, citing 26260-3630 : 2.)

The requirements of the selection law, including examinations prior to promotion, were not applicable to temporary promotions authorized by act of May 22, 1917; but the President had power to make regulations requiring such examinations before promotion if he deemed such action advisable. (File 28687-22, June 14, 1917.)

[1916, Aug. 29. Sea service and age requirements for promotion; exceptions.] On and after June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and twenty, no captain commander, or lieutenant commander shall be promoted unless he has had not less than two years' actual sea service on seagoing ships in the grade in which serving or who is more than fifty-six, fifty, or forty-five years of age, respectively: Provided, That in exceptional cases where officers are specifically designated during war or national emergency declared by the President by the Secretary of the Navy as performing, or as having performed, such highly important duties on shore that their services can not be or could not have been spared from such assignment without serious prejudice to the successful prosecution of the war, the qualification of sea service in the cases of those officers so specifically designated shall not apply while the United States is at war, or during a national emergency declared by the President, or within two and one-half years subsequent to the ending of such war or national emergency: Provided, That the qualification of sea service shall not apply to officers restricted to the performance of engineering duty only.—(39 Stat., 579, chap. 417; 40 Stat., 717-718, chap. 114.)

This paragraph was expressly amended to read as above by act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 717-718), which inserted therein the first proviso above set forth, relating to shore duty in time of war or emergency. (See Joint Res., Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat., 1359, as to constructive termination of war with Germany and Austria-Hungary.)

By act of July 11, 1919 (41 Stat., 140), the "age and grade" requirement prescribed by this act "in the rank of commander" was "extended from June 30, 1920, to June 30, 1921;" and by act of June 4, 1920, section 10 (41 Stat., 837), "the age limits for promotion by selection" were "deferred until June 30, 1921" in the cases of officers "who may request such deferment."

By act of July 11, 1919 (41 Stat., 140), all "statutory requirements other than professional and physical examinations," with respect to promotion by selection were suspended in certain cases until July 1, 1920; and by act of June 4, 1920, section 5, (41 Stat., 836), all such requirements "other than age and professional and physical examination" were similarly suspended in certain cases until June 30, 1923.

See other special provisions of this act, set forth above, with respect to promotion by selection of engineer officers; and see special provisions of this act (39 Stat., 584), set forth below, as to promotion of officers commissioned for aeronautic duty only.

By act of June 4, 1920, section 5 (41 Stat., 836), the requirements of this provision as to age limits for promotion were suspended in the cases of officers appointed to the line from sources other than the Naval Academy, as authorized by that act, until they have rendered 10 years' service in the grade of lieutenant commander, six years in the grade of commander or eight years in the grade of captain.

[1916, Aug. 29. Retirement of officers ineligible for selection.] That captains, commanders, and lieutenant commanders who become ineligible for promotion on account of age shall be retired on a percentage of pay equal to two and one-half per centum of their shore-duty pay for each year of service: Provided further, That the total retired pay shall not exceed seventy-five per centum of the shore-duty pay they were entitled to receive while on the active list.—(39 Stat., 579, chap. 417.)

See sections 1443-1465, and 1588, Revised Statutes, for general provisions relating to retirement.

See acts of March 3, 1883 (22 Stat., 473), and June 10, 1896 (29 Stat., 361), and note to section 1443, Revised Statutes, as to service credited for retirement, etc.

[1916, Aug. 29. Retiring age, 64 years.] Except as herein otherwise provided, hereafter the age for retirement of all officers of the Navy shall be sixty-four years instead of sixty-two years as now prescribed by law.—(39 Stat., 579, chap. 417.)

See sections 1444, 1481, and 1588, Revised Statutes.

[1916, Aug. 29. Rank and pay not reduced.] Nothing contained in this Act shall be construed to reduce the rank, pay, or allowances of any officer of the Navy or Marine Corps as now provided by law.—(39 Stat., 579, chap. 417.)

OFFICERS FOR ENGINEERING DUTY ONLY.

[1916, Aug. 29. Detail of line officers for engineering duty.] Officers of the line of the Navy not below the grade of lieutenant may, upon application, and with the approval of the Secretary of the Navy, be assigned to engineering duty only, and that when so assigned and until they reach the grade of commander, they shall perform duty as prescribed in section four of the Personnel Act approved March third, eighteen hundred and ninety-nine, and thereafter shore duty only as now prescribed for officers transferred to the line from the former engineer corps, except that commanders may be assigned to duty as fleet and squadron engineers: Provided, That when so assigned they shall retain their place with respect to other line officers in the grades they now or may hereafter occupy, and also the right to succession to command on shore in accordance with their seniority, and shall be promoted as vacancies occur subject to physical examination and to such examination in engineering as the Secretary of the Navy may prescribe: Provided further, That the number of officers so assigned in any one year shall be in accordance with the requirements of the service as determined by the Secretary of the Navy.—(39 Stat., 580, chap. 417.)

See acts of March 3, 1899, section 4 (30 Stat., 1005), February 16, 1914, section 21 (38 Stat., 283), and March 3, 1915 (38 Stat., 930); see also notes to sections 1390-1394 Revised Statutes.

See provisions of this act (39 Stat., 578-579), as to promotion by selection of officers assigned to engineering duty only.

[1916, Aug. 29. Acting ensigns for engineering duty; appointment and promotion.] That the Secretary of the Navy is hereby authorized to appoint annually in the line of the Navy for a period of ten years following the passage of this Act, in the order of merit determined by such competitive examination as he may prescribe, thirty acting ensigns for the performance of engineering duties only. Persons so appointed must have received a degree of mechanical or electrical engineer from a college or university of high standing or be graduates of technical schools approved by the Secretary of the Navy, must have been found physically qualified by a board of medical officers of the Navy for the performance of the duties required, and must at the time of appointment be not less than twenty nor more than twenty-six years of age. Such appointments shall be for a probationary period of three years, and may be revoked at any time by the Secretary of the Navy.

Such acting ensigns shall, upon the completion of the probationary period of three years, of which two years shall have been spent on board cruising vessels and one year pursuing a course of instruction at the Naval Academy prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy, be commissioned in the grade of lieutenant of the junior grade after satisfactorily passing such examination as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy, and having been recommended for promotion by the examining board and found physically qualified by a board of medical officers of the Navy.

Such officers shall thereafter be required to perform engineering duties only, and shall be eligible for advancement to the higher grades in the manner herein provided for line officers assigned to engineering duty only.—(39 Stat., 580, chap. 417.)

See section 1410, Revised Statutes, and note thereto, as to status of "acting" officers.

See note above under this act (39 Stat., 576), as to number of commissioned officers not including acting ensigns.

[1916, Aug. 29. Absence due to misconduct.] Hereafter no officer or enlisted man in the Navy or Marine Corps in active service who shall be absent from duty on account of injury, sickness or disease resulting from his own intemperate use of drugs or alcoholic liquors, or other misconduct, shall receive pay for the period of such absence, the time so absent and the cause thereof to be ascertained under such procedure and regulations as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy: Provided, That an enlistment shall not be regarded as complete until the enlisted man shall have made good any time in excess of one day lost on account of injury, sickness or disease resulting from his own intemperate use of drugs or alcoholic liquors, or other misconduct.—(39 Stat., 580, chap. 417; 40 Stat., 717, chap. 114.)

This paragraph was expressly amended to read as above by act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 717), which inserted therein, in two places, the word "injury" followed by a comma.

See note to section 1556, Revised Statutes, under "40. Absence from duty;" note to section 1569, Revised Statutes, under "13. Forfeiture of pay;" note to section 1624, Revised Statutes, article 8, under "Making good time lost by absence;" note to Constitution, Article I, section 9, clause 3, as to bills of attainder; and notes to sections 1418 and 1608, Revised Statutes, as to detention of men after expiration of enlistment.

[1916, Aug. 29. Furloughs in lieu of discharge.] The Secretary of the Navy is hereby authorized to grant furlough without pay to enlisted men for a period covering the unexpired portion of their enlistment: Provided, That such furlough be granted under the same conditions and in lieu of discharge by purchase or by special order of the department. Enlisted men so furloughed shall be subject to recall in time of war or national emergency to complete the unexpired portion of their enlistment, and shall be in addition to the authorized number of enlisted men of the Navy.—(39 Stat., 580–581, chap. 417.)

As to discharge by purchase, see act of March 3, 1893 (27 Stat., 717); as to refund of enlistment bounty by men discharged within six months of enlistment, see act of June 29, 1906 (34 Stat., 556); and as to refund on discharge within 12 months of enlistment in certain cases, see act of March 2, 1907 (34 Stat., 1176).

See note to section 1417, Revised Statutes, under "Enlisted men furloughed without pay."

[1916, Aug. 29. Red Cross, detail of medical officers to.] Hereafter the authorized number of surgeons in the United States Navy be, and it is hereby, increased by one; and that hereafter the Secretary of the Navy be, and he is hereby, authorized to detail one or more officers of the Medical Corps of the United States Navy for duty with the Military Relief Division of the American National Red Cross.—(39 Stat., 581, chap. 417.)

See note to section 1368, Revised Statutes, as to authorized number of medical officers; and see provision of this act (39 Stat., 576), set forth above, as to number of commissioned officers of the Staff Corps.

See act of April 24, 1912 (37 Stat., 90-91), and Joint Resolution of May 8, 1914 (38 Stat., 771), relating to the Red Cross.

[1916, Aug. 29. Retired officer on duty with General Board.]

This provision read as follows:

“No officer who, after having commanded a fleet in active commission, has been retired for age and whom, in the judgment of the Secretary of the Navy, the public interests make it necessary to retain for a time after said retirement and who is performing active duty as chairman of the executive committee of the General Board, shall, for the period so retained, suffer any reduction in the emoluments he was receiving at the time of his retirement.” (39 Stat., 581, chap. 417.)

It has been fully executed, and is no longer in force or effect. The officer to whom it applied was Rear Admiral Charles J. Badger.

[1916, Aug. 29. Pay of retired officers on active duty.] That hereafter any retired officer of the naval service who shall be detailed on active duty shall, while so serving, receive the active duty pay and allowances of the grade, not above that of lieutenant commander in the Navy or of major in the Marine Corps, that he would have attained in due course of promotion if he had remained on the active list for a period beyond the date of his retirement equal to the total amount of time during which he has been detailed on active duty since his retirement: Provided, That nothing herein shall be construed to reduce the pay of any retired officer on active duty whose retired pay exceeds the active duty pay and allowances for the grade of lieutenant commander.—(39 Stat., 581, chap. 417.)

See note to section 1592, Revised Statutes, for other laws relating to pay of retired officers on active duty.

Hereafter all commissioned officers of the active list of the Navy shall receive the same pay and allowances according to rank and length of service: Provided, That this provision shall not be construed to reduce the pay and allowances of commissioned warrant officers as herein authorized.—(39 Stat., 581, chap. 417.)

As to effect of this provision, see note to section 1556, Revised Statutes, under “23. Chaplains and acting chaplains.”

NAVAL FLYING CORPS.

[1916, Aug. 29. Composition of Flying Corps.] The Naval Flying Corps shall be composed of one hundred and fifty officers and three hundred and fifty enlisted men, detailed, appointed, commissioned, enlisted, and distributed in the various grades, ranks, and ratings of the Navy and Marine Corps as hereafter provided. The said number of officers, student flyers, and enlisted men shall be in addition to the total number of officers and enlisted men which is now or may hereafter be provided by law for the other branches of the naval service.—(39 Stat., 582, chap. 417.)

See below (39 Stat., 592), as to Naval Reserve Flying Corps.

[1916, Aug. 29. Detail of officers to actual flying.] The number of officers detailed to duty in aircraft involving actual flying in any one year shall be in accordance with the requirements of the Air Service as determined by the Secretary of the Navy: Provided, That the officers so detailed from the line of the Navy and from the Marine Corps shall not exceed the total number herein prescribed for the Naval Flying Corps: Provided further, That the proportion of line officers of the Navy and of the Marine Corps thus detailed shall be the same as the proportion established for the regular services: And provided further, That the student flyers hereinafter provided for shall be in addition to the officers and enlisted men comprising the Naval Flying Corps.—(39 Stat., 582-583, chap. 417.)

[1916, Aug. 29. Pay and allowances, Flying Corps.] The officers detailed and the enlisted men of the Naval Flying Corps shall receive the same pay and allowances that are now provided by law for officers and enlisted men of the same grade or rank and rating in the Navy and Marine Corps detailed to duty with aircraft involving actual flying.—(39 Stat., 583, chap. 417.)

By act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 718), increased allowances for aviation duty were prohibited.

See act of March 3, 1915 (38 Stat., 939), and note to section 1556, Revised Statutes, under "38. Additional pay for special duty."

Number and pay of officers detailed to actual flying.—Under the act of August 29, 1916, in addition to the number of officers in the regular Naval Flying Corps, the Secretary of the Navy is authorized to detail for duty involving actual flying in aircraft, either as student aviators, student airmen, or qualified naval aviators, such number of naval officers, not in excess of the number prescribed in that act for the regular Flying Corps, as he shall determine the needs of the air service require; and while so detailed such officers are entitled to 50 per cent or 35 per cent increase of pay and allowances, according as they have or have not qualified as naval aviators. (23 Comp. Dec., 583. But see act of July 1, 1918, above noted, as to increase of allowances.)

These paragraphs read as follows:

"The Secretary of the Navy is hereby authorized to appoint annually in the line of the Navy and the Marine Corps for a period of two years following the passage of this Act, in order of merit as determined by such competitive examinations as he may prescribe, fifteen acting ensigns or acting second lieutenants for the performance of aeronautic duties only. Persons so appointed must be citizens of the United States, and may be appointed from warrant officers or enlisted men of the naval service or from civil life, and must, at the time of appointment, be not less than eighteen or more than twenty-four years of age: Provided, That no person shall be so appointed until he has been found physically qualified by a board of medical officers of the Navy for the performance of the duties required: Provided further, That the number of such appointments to the line of the Navy and of the Marine Corps shall be in the proportion decided for the regular services. Such appointments shall be for a probationary period of three years and may be revoked at any time by the Secretary of the Navy.

"Such acting ensigns and acting second lieutenants shall be detailed to duty in the Naval Flying Corps in aircraft involving actual flying.

"Such acting ensigns of the Navy and acting second lieutenants of the Marine Corps shall, upon completion of the probationary period of three years, be appointed acting lieutenants of the junior grade, or acting first lieutenants, respectively, by the Secretary of the Navy for the performance of aeronautic duties only, after satisfactorily passing such examinations as he may prescribe, and after having been recommended for promotion by the examining board and found physically qualified by a board of medical officers of the Navy. Such appointments shall be for a probationary period of four years and may be revoked at any time by the Secretary of the Navy.

"Such acting lieutenants (junior grade) and acting first lieutenants may elect to qualify for aeronautic duty only or to qualify for all the duties of officers of the same grade in the Navy and in the Marine Corps, respectively. Those officers who elect to qualify for aeronautic duty only shall be detailed to duty in the Naval Flying Corps involving actual flying in aircraft. Those officers who elect to qualify for the regular duties of their grade shall be detailed to duty in the regular service for at least two years to allow them to prepare for such qualification.

"Such acting lieutenants (junior grade) and acting first lieutenants who have elected to qualify for aeronautic duty only shall, upon completion of the probationary period of four years, be commissioned in the grade of lieutenant of the line of the Navy or captain of the Marine Corps for aeronautic duties only, after satisfactorily passing such competitive examination as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy to determine their moral, physical, and professional qualifications for such commissions and the order of rank in which they shall be commissioned. Such lieutenants for aeronautic duty only shall be borne on the list as extra numbers, taking rank with and next after officers of the same date of commission. (39 Stat., 583, chap. 417.)

"Such acting lieutenants (junior grade) and acting first lieutenants who have elected to qualify for the regular duties of the line of the Navy and of the Marine Corps, respectively, shall, upon completion of the probationary period of four years, two years of which shall have been on such regular duties, be commissioned in the grade of the line of the Navy or Marine Corps according to his length of service, after passing satisfactorily such competitive examinations as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy to determine their moral, physical, and professional qualifications for such commissions and to determine the order of rank in which they shall be commissioned. Such officers of the line of the Navy and Marine Corps will be borne upon the lists of their respective corps as extra numbers, taking rank with and next after officers of the regular services of the same date of commissions.

"Acting lieutenants (junior grade) of the line of the Navy for aeronautic duties only and acting first lieutenants of the Marine Corps for aeronautic duty only who have completed the probationary period of four years may, upon examination for commissions to the next higher grade, if recommended by the board of examination, be transferred to the Naval Reserve Flying Corps and commissioned in the same grade or the next higher grade as may be recommended in accordance with their qualifications as determined by the examination: Provided, That at any time during such probationary period any such officer can, upon his own request, if his record warrants it, be transferred to the Naval Reserve Flying Corps and commissioned in the acting grade he then holds. Any officer of the Naval Flying Corps holding an appointment of student flyer or acting ensign, second lieutenant, lieutenant (junior grade), or first lieutenant, who, upon examination for promotion, is found not qualified shall, if not recommended by the examining board for transfer to the Naval Reserve Flying Corps, be honorably discharged from the naval service." (39 Stat., 584, chap. 417.)

The above paragraphs were rendered obsolete two years after the passage of this act, owing to the fact that no appointments were made of acting ensigns or acting second lieutenants as therein authorized.

[1916, Aug. 29. Promotion of officers commissioned for aeronautic duty only.] Officers commissioned for aeronautic duty only shall be eligible for advancement to the higher grades, not above captain in the Navy or colonel in the Marine Corps, in the same manner as other officers whose employment is not so restricted, except that they shall be eligible to promotion without restriction as to sea duty, and their professional examinations shall be restricted to the duty to which personally assigned: Provided, That any such officer must serve at least three years in any grade before being eligible to promotion to the next higher grade.—(39 Stat., 584, chap. 417.)

[1916, Aug. 29. Detail from other branches as student aviators or airmen; pay.] Nothing in this Act shall be so construed as to prevent the detail of officers and enlisted men of other branches of the Navy as student aviators or student airmen in such numbers as the needs of the service may require.

Such officers and enlisted men, while detailed as student aviators and student airmen involving actually flying in aircraft, shall receive the same pay and allowances that are now provided by law for officers and enlisted men of the same grade or rank and rating in the Navy detailed for duty with aircraft.—(39 Stat., 584, chap. 417.)

See note above (39 Stat., 583), as to pay and allowances for aviation duty.

These paragraphs read as follows:
"The Secretary of the Navy is hereby authorized to appoint annually for a period of four years, from enlisted men of the naval service, or from citizens of the United States in civil life, not to exceed thirty student flyers for instruction and training in aeronautics who shall receive the same pay and allowances as midshipmen at the United States Naval Academy: Provided, That persons so appointed must, at the time of appointment, be not less than seventeen or more than twenty-one years of age: Provided further, That no person shall be appointed a student flyer until he shall have qualified therefor by such examination as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy. (39 Stat., 584, chap. 417.)

"The appointment of student flyers shall continue in force for two years, unless sooner revoked by the Secretary of the Navy, in his discretion, and at the end of such period student flyers shall be examined for qualification as qualified aviators: Provided, That if such student flyers are not qualified, their appointment will be revoked, or, if recommended by the examining board, they shall be transferred to the Naval Reserve Flying Corps and commissioned as ensigns therein.

"Student flyers shall, after receiving a certificate of qualification as an aviator for actual flying in aircraft, rank with midshipmen and shall receive the same pay and allowances as midshipmen, plus fifty per centum thereof: Provided, That student flyers who have qualified as aviators under the provisions of this Act shall be commissioned acting ensigns for aeronautic duties only, after three years' service: Provided further, That they shall have been examined by a board of officers of the Naval Flying Corps to determine by a competitive examination prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy their moral, physical, and professional fitness and the order of rank in which they shall be commissioned: And provided further, That any student flyer qualified as an aviator may at any time, in the discretion of the Secretary of the Navy, if his record warrants it, at his own request, be transferred to the Naval Reserve Flying Corps and be commissioned as ensign therein: And provided further, That student flyers not considered qualified for commissions as acting ensigns for aeronautic duties only may, upon recommendation of the examining board, be transferred to the Naval Reserve Flying Corps and be commissioned as ensigns therein.

"The Secretary of the Navy is hereby authorized to establish aeronautic schools for the instruction and training of student flyers and prescribe the course of instruction and qualifications for certificate of graduation as a qualified aviator." (39 Stat., 585, chap. 417.)

The above paragraphs were rendered obsolete four years after the date of this act, owing to the fact that no appointments were made of student flyers for instruction and training as therein authorized.

[1916, Aug. 29. Temporary details for aircraft duty.] Nothing in this or any other Act shall be so construed as to prevent the temporary detail of officers and enlisted men of any branch of the Navy for duty with aircraft.— (39 Stat., 585, chap. 417.)

"In the event of the death of an officer or enlisted man or student flyer of the Naval Flying Corps from wounds or disease, the result of an aviation accident, not the result of his own misconduct, received while engaged in actual flying in or in handling aircraft, the gratuity to be paid under the provisions of the Act approved August twenty-second, nineteen hundred and twelve, entitled 'An Act making appropriations for the naval service for the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and thirteen, and for other purposes,' shall be an amount equal to one year's pay at the rate received by such officer or enlisted man or student flyer at the time of the accident resulting in his death. In all cases where an officer or enlisted man or student flyer of the Navy or Marine Corps dies, or where a student flyer or an enlisted man of the Navy or Marine Corps is disabled by reason of any injury received or disease contracted in line of duty, the result of an aviation accident, received while employed in actual flying in or handling aircraft, the amount of pension allowed shall be double that authorized to be paid should death or the disability have occurred by reason of an injury received or disease contracted in line of duty not the result of an aviation accident." (39 Stat., 585, chap. 417.)

It was repealed, together with the provisions of the act of August 22, 1912 (37 Stat., 329), referred to herein, by act of October 6, 1917, section 312 (40 Stat., 408), which also repealed a provision on the same subject in the act of March 3, 1915 (38 Stat., 939-940). (See 31 Op. Atty. Gen., 205.)

By act of June 4, 1920 (41 Stat., 824), provision is made for payment in cases of death of persons in the naval service.

[1916, Aug. 29. Student flyers and acting officers, laws applicable to.]

This paragraph read as follows:

"Student flyers and the acting ensigns and acting lieutenants (junior grade) and acting second and first lieutenants for aeronautic duties only provided for herein shall be subject to the laws and regulations and orders for the government of the Navy, but shall not be entitled to retirement or retired pay." (39 Stat., 585, chap. 417.)

It was rendered obsolete by the fact that no appointments of student flyers or acting officers were made as authorized by this act. (See above, 39 Stat., 583, 584, and 585.)

[1916, Aug. 29. Ratings of enlisted men, Flying Corps.] The enlisted personnel of the Naval Flying Corps shall be distributed by the Secretary of the Navy in the various ratings as now obtain in the Navy in so far as such ratings are applicable to duties connected with aircraft.—(39 Stat., 585–586, chap. 417.)

This paragraph read as follows:

“Any enlisted man who passes satisfactorily the prescribed examination and is recommended by a board of officers may be appointed a student flyer as herein provided.” (39 Stat., 586, chap. 417.)

It was rendered obsolete by the fact that no appointments of student flyers were made from enlisted men as provided by this act. The authority for such appointments expired four years after the date of this act. (See above, 39 Stat., 584–585.)

ADMINISTRATION OF JUSTICE.

[1916, Aug. 29. Deck courts; punishments by commanding officers.] Hereafter all officers of the Navy and Marine Corps who are authorized to order either general or summary courts-martial may order deck courts upon enlisted men under their command, and shall have the same authority to inflict minor punishments as is conferred by law upon the commander of a naval vessel.—(39 Stat., 586, chap. 417.)

See act of February 16, 1909 (35 Stat., 621), establishing deck courts, and which was amended by this paragraph; see provisions of this act, set forth below, and notes to section 1624, Revised Statutes, articles service attached thereto, whether for duty or as patients.—(39 Stat., 586, chap. 417.)

See note to section 1624, Revised Statutes, article 26, as to summary courts-martial; and see note to section 1488, Revised [1916, Aug. 29. Marines embarked on naval vessels; power of officers.] When a force of marines is embarked on a naval vessel, or vessels, as a separate organization, not a part of the authorized complement thereof, the authority and powers of the officers of such separate organization of marines shall be the same as though such organization were serving at a navy yard on shore, but nothing herein shall be construed as impairing the paramount authority of the commanding officer of any naval vessel over the vessel under his command and all persons embarked thereon.—(39 Stat., 586, chap. 417.)

See sections 1616 and 1617, Revised Statutes, and notes thereto.

NAVAL RESERVE FORCE.

[1916, Aug. 29. Classes in Naval Reserve Force. There is hereby established, under the Department of the Navy, a Naval Reserve Force, to consist of six classes, designated as follows and as hereinafter described:

First. The Fleet Naval Reserve.

Second. The Naval Reserve.

Third. The Naval Auxiliary Reserve.

Fourth. The Naval Coast Defense Reserve.

Fifth. The Volunteer Naval Reserve.

Sixth. Naval Reserve Flying Corps.—(39 Stat., 587, chap. 417.)

The National Naval Volunteers was abolished, and the members thereof transferred to the various classes of the Naval Reserve Force and Marine Corps Reserve, by act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 708).

Mileage allowed naval reservists honorably released from active duty: See act of June 3, 1916, section 126 (39 Stat., 217), as amended and reenacted by act of February 28, 1919 (40 Stat., 1203).

[1916, Aug. 29. Members, citizenship; obligation assumed; naturalization.]

The Naval Reserve Force shall be composed of citizens of the United States who, by enrolling under regulations prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy or by transfer thereto as in this Act provided, obligate themselves to serve in the Navy in time of war or during the existence of a national emergency, declared by the President: Provided, That citizens of the insular possessions of the United States may enroll in the Naval Auxiliary Reserve. Provided further, That such persons who are not citizens of the United States, but who have or shall have declared their intention to become citizens of the United States, and who are citizens of countries which are at peace with the United States, may enroll in the Naval Reserve Force subject to the condition that they may be discharged from such enrollment at any time within the discretion of the Secretary of the Navy, and such persons who may, under existing law, become citizens of the United States, and who render honorable service in the Naval Reserve Force in time of war for a period of not less than one year may become citizens of the United States without proof of residence on shore and without further requirement than proof of good moral character and certificate from the Secretary of the Navy that such honorable service was actually rendered.—(39 Stat., 587, chap. 417; 40 Stat., 84, chap. 18.)

This paragraph was expressly amended to read as above by act of May 22, 1917 (40 Stat., 84), which added thereto the words,

"Provided further" to the end of the paragraph as above set forth.

[1916, Aug. 29. Regulations, Naval Reserve Force.] The Secretary of the Navy shall make all necessary and proper regulations not inconsistent with law for the administration of the provisions of this Act which relate to the Naval Reserve Force.—(39 Stat., 587, chap. 417.)

See notes to sections 161 and 1547, Revised Statutes, on the general subject of regulations.

Active duty afloat in time of peace was authorized by act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 711).

Not to perform active duty on shore of a kind ordinarily performed by civilians. (Act July 11, 1919, 41 Stat., 138.)

See below (39 Stat., 588), as to active service during war, etc.

See act of June 4, 1920, section 2 (41 Stat., 834), as to active duty authorized in time of peace to supply deficiencies in enlisted strength of the Navy.

[1916, Aug. 29. Ranks and ratings; engineering duties, etc.] There shall be allowed in the Naval Reserve Force the various ratings, grades, and ranks, not above the rank of lieutenant commander, corresponding to those in the Navy. Officers of the line may be appointed for deck or engineering duties, as they may elect.—(39 Stat., 587, chap. 417.)

Promotion above the grade of lieutenant commander in time of war was authorized by act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 711).

Transfer to the Naval Reserve Force of members of the National Naval Volunteers, in the ranks held by them at that time, was authorized by act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 708), which further authorized reenrollment of members in the Naval Reserve Force in the ranks held by them on termination of their last enrollment.

As to officers for engineering duty only, see act of February 16, 1914, section 21 (38 Stat., 289-290); see also act of March 3, 1915 (38 Stat., 930), and note thereto.

[1916, Aug. 29. Appointment of officers, how made; retainer pay, etc., not reduced.] Members of the Naval Reserve Force appointed to commissioned grades shall be commissioned by the President alone, and members of such force appointed to warrant grades shall be warranted by the Secretary of the Navy: Provided, That officers so warranted or commissioned shall not be deprived of the retainer pay, allowances, or gratuities to which they would otherwise be entitled.—(39 Stat., 587, chap. 417.)

[1916, Aug. 29. Precedence of officers, Naval Reserve Force.]

This provision read as follows:

"Officers of the Naval Reserve Force shall rank with but after officers of corresponding rank in the Navy." (39 Stat., 587, chap. 417.)

It was superseded by act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 711), which contained other provisions on the same subject.

[1916, Aug. 29. Term of enrollment; discharge on request.] Enrollment and reenrollment shall be for terms of four years, but members shall in time of peace, when no national emergency exists, be discharged upon their own request upon reimbursing the Government for any clothing gratuity that may have been furnished them during their current enrollment.—(39 Stat., 587, chap. 417.)

See below (39 Stat., 589), as to refund of uniform gratuity when discharged without compulsion.

See act of June 4, 1920 (41 Stat., 817), as to enrollments for instruction at summer schools for boys.

[1916, Aug. 29. Oath of allegiance.] Persons enrolling shall be required to take the oath of allegiance to the United States.—(39 Stat., 587, chap. 417.)

See act of March 3, 1899, section 25 (30 Stat., 1009).

[1916, Aug. 29. Provisional grade on enrollment; instruction prior to confirmation.] When first enrolled members of the Naval Reserve Force, except those in the Fleet Naval Reserve, shall be given a provisional grade, rank or rating in accordance with their qualifications determined by examination. They may thereafter, upon application, be assigned to active service in the Navy for such periods of instruction and training as may enable them to qualify for and be confirmed in such grade, rank or rating.—(39 Stat., 587, chap. 417.)

Advancement to higher provisional ranks.—When an enrolled member has been given a provisional rank, he may thereafter, either with or without being confirmed in such provisional rank, be given a higher provisional rank without examination by the statutory board of three naval officers of or above the rank of lieutenant commander and the statutory board of naval surgeons. Such assignment of higher provisional rank is not a "promotion" within the meaning of the law relating to examinations. (31 Op. Atty. Gen., 173; see below as to examinations for appointment and promotion.)

[1916, Aug. 29. Requirements for confirmation in grade.] No member shall be confirmed in his provisional grade, rank or rating until he shall have performed the minimum amount of active service required for the class in which he is enrolled, nor until he has duly qualified by examination for such rank or rating under regulations prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy.—(39 Stat., 587, chap 417.)

Duty performed in the Naval Militia may be counted as active service for the maintenance of efficiency required for members	of the Naval Reserve Force. (Act June 4, 1920, 41 Stat., 818.)

[1916, Aug. 29. Examinations for appointment and promotion; former officers and midshipmen.] No person shall be appointed or commissioned as an officer in any rank in any class of the Naval Reserve Force, or promoted to a higher rank therein, unless he shall have been examined and recommended for such appointment, commission, or promotion by a board of three naval officers not below the rank of lieutenant commander, nor until he shall have been found physically qualified by a board of medical officers to perform the duties required in time of war, except that former officers and midshipmen of the Navy, who shall have left the service under honorable conditions and who shall have enrolled in the Naval Reserve Force, may be appointed in the grade and rank last held by them without examination other than the physical examination above prescribed.—(39 Stat., 587–588, chap. 417.)

Promotion of officers below rank of lieutenant-commander shall be in accordance with regulations prescribed by Secretary of the Navy; above lieutenant commander, shall be by selection, in time of war. (Act July 1, 1918, 40 Stat., 711.)

“Appointment” and “promotion” construed.—The assignment of a provisional rank is not an “appointment,” and advancement to a higher provisional rank is not a “promotion” within the meaning of this paragraph. (31 Op. Atty. Gen., 173.)

Former officer dismissed from Navy; effect of pardon.—An officer of the Navy who has been dismissed by sentence of court-martial, and subsequently pardoned for the offense for which dismissed, is not eligible for reappointment to the Navy or to membership in the Fleet Naval Reserve. (31 Op. Atty. Gen., 225; see below, 39 Stat., 589, as to qualifications for Fleet Naval Reserve; and see note to Constitution, Art. II, sec. 2, clause 1, and note to sec. 1441, Revised Statutes, as to effect of pardon.)

[1916, Aug. 29. Retainer pay, before confirmation in grade.] The retainer pay of all members of the Naval Reserve Force, except the Volunteer Naval Reserve, while enrolled in a provisional rank or rating, and until such time as they shall have been confirmed in such rank or rating, shall be $12 per annum. Thereafter, the retainer pay shall be that prescribed for members in the various classes.—(39 Stat., 588, chap. 417.)

[1916, Aug. 29. Retainer pay while on active duty.] Retainer pay shall be in addition to any pay to which a member may be entitled by reason of active service.—(39 Stat., 588, chap. 417.)

See note to section 1556, Revised Statutes, under “37. Naval Reserve Force,” for laws and decisions relating to retainer pay.

[1916, Aug. 29. Retainer pay; conditions of payment.] Retainer pay shall only be paid to members of the Naval Reserve Force upon their making such reports concerning their movements and occupations as may be required by the Secretary of the Navy.—(39 Stat., 588, chap. 417.)

See below (39 Stat., 590), as to forfeiture of retainer pay in the Fleet Naval Reserve upon failure to report for required inspection; and see act of June 4, 1920 (41 Stat., 824 and 837), for other provisions relating to forfeiture of retainer pay.

[1916, Aug. 29. Increased retainer pay on reenrollment.] Members of the Naval Reserve Force who reenroll for a term of four years within four months from the date of the termination of their last term of enrollment, and who shall have performed the minimum amount of active service required during the preceding term of enrollment, shall, for each such reenrollment, receive an increase of twenty-five per centum of their base retainer pay.—(39 Stat., 588, chap. 417.)

No enrolled member to receive retainer pay in excess of amount authorized to members having had 16 years' continuous service. (Act July 1, 1918, 40 Stat., 710-711.)
Service in Navy, Marine Corps, Naval Militia, etc., counted as continuous service in the Naval Reserve Force for purpose of computing retainer pay. (Act July 1, 1918, 40 Stat., 710.)

Service in the Naval Reserve, created by act of March 3, 1915 (38 Stat., 940), credited as service in the Naval Reserve Force in certain cases. (Act of Mar. 4, 1917, 39 Stat., 1174; see note to act Mar. 3, 1915, 38 Stat., 940-941, and note to sec. 1556 R. S., under "37, Naval Reserve Force.")

[1916, Aug. 29. Retirement, enrolled members, 20 years' service.] That enrolled members who shall have completed twenty years of service in the Naval Reserve Force, and who shall have performed the minimum amount of active service required in their class for maintaining efficiency during each term of enrollment, shall, upon their own application, be retired with the rank or rating held by them at the time, and shall receive in lieu of any pay, a cash gratuity equal to the total amount of their retainer pay during the last term of their enrollment.—(39 Stat., 588, chap. 417.)

No member of the Naval Reserve Force shall be eligible for retirement other than for physical disability incurred in line of duty. (Act July 1, 1918, 40 Stat., 710.)

Members of Naval Reserve Force may become members of naval militia in any State or Territory, etc. (Act July 11, 1919, 41 Stat., 141.)
Until June 30, 1922, certain Naval Militia organizations shall be a part of the Naval Reserve Force. (Act June 4, 1920, 41 Stat., 817.)

See act of June 3, 1916, section 74 (39 Stat., 201-202), as amended by act of June 4, 1920, section 41 (41 Stat., 781-782), as to qualifications for appointment as National Guard officers.

[1916, Aug. 29. Marine Corps, number of officers; distribution in ranks.] Hereafter the total number of commissioned officers of the active list of the line and staff of the Marine Corps, exclusive of officers borne on the Navy list as additional numbers, shall be four per centum of the total authorized enlisted strength of the active list of the Marine Corps, exclusive of the Marine Band, and of men under sentence of discharge by court-martial, distributed in the proportion of one officer with rank senior to colonel to four with the rank of colonel, to five with the rank of lieutenant colonel, to fourteen with the rank of major, to thirty-seven with the rank of captain, to thirty-one with the rank of first lieutenant, to thirty-one with the rank of second lieutenant.—(39 Stat., 609, chap. 417.)

See section 1596, Revised Statutes, and note thereto.

Additional numbers.—This paragraph, in so far as it deals with distribution of commissioned officers in the various grades and ranks of the Marine Corps, refers only to officers who are regular numbers in grade, and not to officers who, for any reason are, or may become, additional numbers. Accordingly, in all computations having to do with the distribution of officers in the various ranks and grades, additional number officers are to be excluded from consideration. (File 28687-1, Aug. 18, 1916.)

See below as to additional number officers promoted to brigadier general.

Computations, final fractions.—The clause in this act (39 Stat., 577), relating to the disposition of final fractions which occur in computing the authorized number of any corps, grade, or rank in the naval service, applies to the Marine Corps, and accordingly "the nearest whole number shall be regarded as the authorized number" of marine officers in the cases mentioned in that clause. (File 28687-5, Aug. 29 and Nov. 20, 1916. See below, 39 Stat., 610, as to proportionate ratio of staff officers.)

There is a conflict between the provisions of the law fixing the total number of commissioned officers on the active list of the Marine Corps, and prescribing a method of determining the number of officers in each grade and rank therein by taking the nearest whole number in the case of a final fraction. Under such circumstances, the provision fixing the total number of officers on the active list is controlling, and the result is to increase the number allowed in the grade of second lieutenant by one officer in the present instance, in order that the total number may be fully distributed. This increase must be placed in the grade of second lieutenant, and can not be placed in any higher grade. (File 28687-5, Nov. 20, 1916.)

Distribution of actual number of officers when less than authorized number.—This paragraph provides for the distribution of the authorized number of officers, and is mandatory, when the Marine Corps has its full number of commissioned officers, as to the proportion in which such officers shall be distributed in the various ranks; but where the actual number of commissioned officers is less than the authorized number, it is within the discretion of the Secretary of the Navy to place the shortage in the higher or lower ranks, or to distribute same between the various ranks, as he deems expedient. (File 28687-5:1, Apr. 11, 1917.)

The act of August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 576), requires that the actual number of commissioned officers in the Navy shall be distributed in the various grades and ranks in certain proportions and in accordance with computations to be made by the Secretary of the Navy; but as to the Marine Corps, when the actual number is less than the authorized number, the distribution of the shortage is a matter in the discretion of the Secretary of the Navy. In the exercise of this discretion, the Secretary decides that the actual number of commissioned officers in the Marine Corps shall be distributed between the various ranks in the same proportion provided by said act of August 29, 1916, with reference to the distribution of the authorized number, thus establishing a uniform rule in this respect for the Navy and Marine Corps. Under this ruling, only commissioned officers actually in the regular service may be counted; and no officer is actually in the service until he has accepted his appointment. Computations should be based on definite information as to the actual number of officers in the service on a given date, counting changes due to new appointments, casualties, etc. (File 28687-5:1, Sept. 7, 1917; see also file 28687-5:5, Aug. 19, 1918.)

Total authorized enlisted strength.—See note to section 1596, Revised Statutes.

[1916, Aug. 29. Brigadier generals; additional numbers; filling vacancies.] That brigadier generals shall be appointed from officers of the Marine Corps senior in rank to lieutenant colonel: Provided further, That the promotion to the grade of brigadier general of any officer now or hereafter carried as an additional number in the grade or with the rank of colonel shall be held to fill a vacancy in the grade of brigadier general.—(39 Stat., 609, chap. 417.)

Promotion of additional number colonel.—Any officer carried as an additional number in the grade of colonel will, if promoted to the grade of brigadier general, immediately become a regular number in the latter grade, and will continue to be carried as a regular number therein, unless by operation of some other law applicable to his specific case his status should revert to that of an additional number in grade. (File 28687-1, Aug. 18, 1916.)

A colonel carried as an additional number by virtue of section 1605, Revised Statutes, as amended by act of June 16, 1906 (34 Stat., 296), would cease to be an additional number upon promotion to the grade of brigadier general. (File 28687-1, Aug. 18, 1916.)

A colonel, serving as Major General Commandant of the Marine Corps under the act of December 19, 1913 (38 Stat., 201), would continue to be an additional number while so serving, although in the meantime promoted to the grade of brigadier general. (File 28687-1, Aug. 18, 1916. See note to sec. 1601, R. S.)

If a colonel should be appointed to an existing vacancy in the position of Major General Commandant at the time when the grade of brigadier general was full, although said colonel would thereupon become an additional number in the grade of colonel, nevertheless he could not under the law be promoted to the grade of brigadier general unless a vacancy occurred therein. Should a former Major General Commandant be in the grade of brigadier general as an additional number, a vacancy thereafter occurring would be immediately filled, by operation of law, by the additional number brigadier general becoming a regular number in that grade. If thereafter another vacancy should occur in the grade of brigadier general, the additional number colonel serving as Major General Commandant might legally be promoted thereto, but he would become an additional number brigadier general under the act of December 19, 1913, and a vacancy would still exist to which a regular number colonel could be promoted. (File 28687-1, Aug. 18, 1916.)

Date of rank on promotion.—The date of rank given officers of the Marine Corps on promotion should ordinarily be the date of the vacancy to which promoted; but in no case will an officer permanently or temporarily promoted be given rank from a date earlier than his date of rank in the lower grade. (File 28687-5:1, Sept. 7, 1917. See note to sec. 1458, R. S.)

Vacancies resulting from the President's order of March 26, 1917, increasing the authorized number of enlisted men in the Marine Corps, as authorized by this act (39 Stat., 612), were created on the date of said order; and vacancies resulting from the temporary increase of enlisted men authorized by act of May 22, 1917, were created on the date of said act. (File 28687-5:1, Sept. 7, 1917.)

Rank of brigadier generals and rear admirals.—See note to section 1466, Revised Statutes.

[1916, Aug. 29. Major General Commandant counted as senior to colonel.] That in determining the officers with rank senior to colonel there shall be included the officer serving as major general commandant.—(39 Stat., 609, chap. 417.)

See below as to appointment of Major General Commandant from rank of colonel; and see above, as to promotion of additional number colonel; see also note to section 1601, Revised Statutes.

This provision has the effect of making the Major General Commandant one of the authorized number of officers above the rank of colonel, as though the law read, that there shall be one major general commandant, and so many brigadier generals, etc. (File 28687-1, Aug. 18, 1916.)

[1916, Aug. 29. Appointment as Major General Commandant.] That appointments hereafter made to the position of major general commandant under the provisions of the Act approved December nineteenth, nineteen hundred and thirteen, entitled "An Act to make the tenure of office of the major general commandant of the Marine Corps for a term of four years," shall be made from officers of the active list of the Marine Corps not below the rank of colonel.—(39 Stat., 609, chap. 417.)

See act of December 19, 1913 (38 Stat., 241), and note to section 1601, Revised Statutes.

Appointment from rank of colonel.—This provision expressly confers upon the President full discretion to fill a vacancy in the position of Major General Commandant from officers of the rank of colonel as well as from those having the rank of brigadier general.

Should the authorized number of officers senior to colonel be full, this could not operate to restrict the President's discretion by requiring him to appoint another brigadier general to fill the vacancy and preventing him from appointing a colonel should he desire to do so. (File 28687-1, Aug. 18, 1916.)

[1916, Aug. 29. Rank of senior staff officers; counted as colonels.] That the officers serving in the senior grade of the Adjutant and Inspector's, Quartermaster's, and Paymaster's Departments shall, while serving therein, have the rank, pay, and allowances of a brigadier general: And provided further, That for the purpose of determining the number of officers in the various ranks as herein provided such staff officers shall be counted as being of the rank of colonel.—(39 Stat., 609-610, chap. 417.)

See note to section 1602, Revised Statutes.

[1916, Aug. 29. Permanent staff officers not eligible for line promotion.] That officers holding permanent appointments in the staff departments shall not be eligible for appointment to the grade of brigadier general of the line as hereinbefore provided.—(39 Stat., 610, chap. 417.)

[1916, Aug. 29. Organization of staff departments; number of officers; filling vacancies.] The total commissioned personnel of the active list of the staff departments, whether serving therein under permanent appointments or under temporary detail, as herein provided, shall be eight per centum of the authorized commissioned strength of the Marine Corps, and of this total one-fifth shall constitute the adjutant and inspector's department, one-fifth the paymaster's department, and three-fifths the quartermaster's department.

No further permanent appointments shall be made in any grade in any staff department. Any vacancy hereafter occurring in the lower grade of any staff department shall be filled by the detail of an officer of the line for a period of four years unless sooner relieved; any vacancy hereafter occurring in the upper grade of any staff department shall be filled by the appointment of an officer with the rank of colonel holding a permanent appointment in the staff department in which the vacancy exists, or of some other officer holding a permanent appointment in such staff department in case there be no permanent staff officer with the rank of colonel in that department, or of a colonel of the line in case there be no officer holding a permanent appointment in such staff department. Such appointments shall be made by the President and be for a term of four years, and the officer so appointed shall be recommissioned in the grade to which appointed.—(39 Stat., 610, chap. 417.)

See note to section 1598, Revised Statutes.

Computations in staff departments.—The provision of this act (39 Stat., 577) relating to the disposition of final fractions does not in terms apply to the distribution of the authorized number of officers between the three staff departments. The total number in the three departments should be 8 per centum of the authorized commissioned strength of the Marine Corps, exclusive of additional numbers. Where counting the nearest whole number in cases of final fractions in computing the number for each department would increase the authorized number for the three departments by one, and disregarding such fractions would leave a shortage of two officers in the three departments, held, that the final fractions will be disregarded and the two officers remaining will be distributed between the three departments by the Secretary of the Navy, upon recommendation of the Major General Commandant, in such manner as may be to the best interest of efficient administration. (File 28687-5, Nov. 20, 1916.)

[1916, Aug. 29. Permanent staff officers reappointed in the line.]

This paragraph read as follows:

"That prior to June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and eighteen, an officer holding a permanent appointment in any staff department may, upon his own application, with the approval of the President, be reappointed in the line of the Marine Corps in the grade and with the rank he would hold on the date of his reappointment if he had remained continuously in the line: Provided, That no officer holding a permanent appointment in any staff department shall be recommissioned in the line with the rank of colonel or lieutenant colonel: Pro- vided further, That such staff officer shall, before being reappointed in the line of the Marine Corps as above provided, perform line duties for one year, at the expiration of which time he shall as a prerequisite to reappointment in the line be required to establish to the satisfaction of an examining board consisting of line officers of the Marine Corps his physical, mental, and professional fitness for the performance of line duty." (39 Stat., 610, chap. 417.)

It expired by its terms on June 30, 1918, and is no longer in force.

[1916, Aug. 29. Common promotion list, Marine Corps.] That for the purpose of advancement in rank to and including the grade of colonel, all commissioned officers of the line and staff of the Marine Corps shall be placed on a common list in the order of seniority each would hold had he remained continuously in the line. All advancements in rank to captain, major, lieutenant colonel, and colonel shall, subject to the usual examinations, be made from officers with the next junior respective rank, whether of the line or staff, in the order in which their names appear on said list.—(39 Stat., 610, chap. 417.)

See note to section 1599, Revised Statutes, under "Laws relating to promotion construed."

[1916, Aug. 29. Second lieutenants, qualifications; age; examination; former officers; probation; midshipmen failing to graduate.] Appointees to the grade of second lieutenant, if appointed from civil life, shall be between the ages of twenty and twenty-five years, and before receiving a commission in the Marine Corps, each appointee shall establish to the satisfaction of the Secretary of the Navy his mental, physical, moral, and professional qualifications for such commission: Provided, The President of the United States be, and hereby is, authorized, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, to appoint as second lieutenants on the active list in the United States Marine Corps, to take rank at the foot of the list of second lieutenants as it stands at the date of reinstatement, former officers of the Marine Corps who resigned from the naval service in good standing: Provided, That they shall establish their moral, physical, mental, and professional qualifications to perform the duties of that grade to the satisfaction of the Secretary of the Navy: Provided further, That the Secretary of the Navy, in his discretion, may waive the age limit in favor of the aforesaid former officers of the Marine Corps: Provided further, That the prior services of such officers and the service after reinstatement shall be not less than thirty years before the age of retirement. That appointments from noncommissioned officers of the Marine Corps and from civil life shall be for a probationary period of two years and may be revoked at any time during that period by the Secretary of the Navy: Provided further, That the rank of such officers of the same date of appointment among themselves at the end of said probationary period shall, with the approval of the Secretary of the Navy, be determined by the report of a board of Marine officers who shall conduct a competitive professional examination under such rules as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy and the rank of such officers so determined shall be as of date of original appointment with reference to other appointments to the Marine Corps: Provided further, That no midshipman at the United States Naval Academy or cadet at the United States Military Academy who fails to graduate therefrom shall be eligible for appointment as a commissioned officer in the Marine Corps until after the graduation of the class of which he was a member.—(39 Stat., 610-611, chap. 417.)

Probationary second lieutenants could be given probationary appointments in higher grades "during the continuance of the present war," under the act of May 22, 1917, section 10 (40 Stat., 87).

See note to section 1599, Revised Statutes.

Vacancies required.—Where the number of officers allowed a given grade, as in the case of second lieutenants, is fixed by law, such number can not be exceeded. Accordingly, midshipmen graduating from the Naval Academy can not be commissioned as second lieutenants in excess of the number in that grade fixed by law, even though the result would overfill the grade at most only for a period of a few days. (File 13261-486, June 8, 1916, citing 23 Op. Atty. Gen., 30, 35; file 26521-67, June 4, 1913; 26521-67.1, Dec. 4, 1913.)

Former officers.—The provision for probationary appointments does not apply to former officers of the Marine Corps who are reinstated as second lieutenants after they have established, by examination, their existing qualifications to perform the duties of that grade. (File 13261-544.1, Oct. 10, 1916.)

It is significant that the law requires civilians to establish their qualifications for a "commission" in the Marine Corps; while it requires former officers to establish their qualifications for the "duties" of the grade to which appointed (File 13261-544: 1, Oct. 10, 1916.)

Promotion of probationary officer.—The earliest date of commission in the grade of captain which may be assigned a probationary officer of the Marine Corps is the date on which he completed his probationary period. (File 29226-6:4, Apr. 28, 1921.)

[1916, Aug. 29. Warrant officers, Marine Corps.] That the warrant grades of marine gunner and quartermaster clerk are hereby established, and the appointment as herein prescribed of twenty marine gunners and twenty quartermaster clerks is hereby authorized. Officers in those grades shall have the rank and receive the pay, allowances and privileges of retirement of warrant officers in the Navy. They shall be appointed from the noncommissioned officers of the Marine Corps and clerks to quartermasters now serving as such and who have performed field service.—(39 Stat., 611, chap. 417.)

By act of May 22, 1917, section 11 (40 Stat., 87), the appointment was authorized of 30 marine gunners and 30 quartermaster's clerks, additional to the number prescribed by this paragraph.

By act of June 4, 1920 (41 Stat., 830), the authorized number of warrant officers in the Marine Corps was increased by not exceeding 50, to provide for the appointment of certain officers who held temporary commissions during the war.

See notes to sections 1405, 1487, and 1566, Revised Statutes, as to pay and allowances, etc., of warrant officers in the Navy; see also act of March 4, 1917 (39 Stat., 1188), as to foreign shore service pay of warrant officers in the Marine Corps; and see act of July 11, 1919 (41 Stat., 141), as to warrant officers who served as commissioned officers in the Marine Corps Reserve, and note to section 1612, Revised Statutes.

This paragraph reads as follows:

"That officers of the Marine Corps with the rank of colonel who shall have served faithfully for forty-five years on the active list shall, when retired, have the rank of brigadier general; and such officers who shall hereafter be retired at the age of sixty-four years before having served for forty-five years, but who shall have served faithfully on the active list until retired, shall, on the completion of forty years from their entry in the naval service, have the rank of brigadier general." (39 Stat., 611, chap. 417.)

It was expressly repealed by act of May 22, 1917, section 14 (40 Stat., 87).

See section 1481, Revised Statutes, for somewhat similar provision relating to staff officers of the Navy.

[1916, Aug. 29. Marine Corps, examinations for promotion.] The provisions of sections fourteen hundred and ninety-three and fourteen hundred and ninety-four of the Revised Statutes of the United States shall apply to the Marine Corps.—(39 Stat., 611, chap. 417.)

See sections 1493–1494, and note to section 1599, Revised Statutes.

[1916, Aug. 29. Officers failing in examination for promotion.] In lieu of suspension from promotion of any officer of the Marine Corps who hereafter fails to pass a satisfactory professional examination for promotion, or who is now under suspension from promotion by reason of such failure, such officer shall suffer loss of numbers, upon approval of the recommendation of the examining board, in the respective ranks, as follows: Lieutenant colonel, one; major, two; captain, three; first lieutenant, five; second lieutenant, eight: Provided, That any such officer shall be reexamined as soon as may be expedient after the expiration of six months if he in the meantime again becomes due for promotion, and if he does not in the meantime again become due for promotion he shall be reexamined at such time anterior to again becoming due for promotion as may be for the best interests of the service: Provided further, That if any such officer fails to pass a satisfactory professional reexamination he shall be honorably discharged with one year's pay from the Marine Corps.—(39 Stat., 611–612, chap. 417.)

See note to section 1599, Revised Statutes; and | note thereto, for law relating to the Navy
see section 1505, Revised Statutes, and | on the same subject.

[1916, Aug. 29. Authorized enlisted strength, Marine Corps.] Hereafter the number of enlisted men of the Marine Corps shall be exclusive of those sentenced by court-martial to discharge. * * *

The President is authorized, when, in his judgment, it becomes necessary to place the country in a complete state of preparedness, to further increase the enlisted strength of the Marine Corps to seventeen thousand four hundred: And provided, That the distribution in the various grades shall be in the same proportion as that authorized at the time when the President avails himself of the authority herein granted.—(39 Stat., 612, chap. 417.)

See note to section 1596, Revised Statutes, as to the number and grades of enlisted men in the Marine Corps.

[1916, Aug. 29. Marine Band; organization and pay; competition with civilians restricted.] That the band of the United States Marine Corps shall consist of one leader, whose pay and allowances shall be those of a captain in the Marine Corps; one second leader, whose pay shall be $150 per month and who shall have the allowances of a sergeant major; ten principal musicians, whose pay shall be $125 per month; twenty-five first-class musicians, whose pay shall be $100 per month; twenty second-class musicians, whose pay shall be $85 per month; and ten third-class musicians, whose pay shall be $70 per month; such musicians of the band to have the allowances of a sergeant and to have no increase in the rates of pay on account of length of service: Provided, That a member of the said band shall not, as an individual, furnish music or accept an engagement to furnish music, when such furnishing of music places him in competition with any civilian musician or musicians, and shall not accept or receive remuneration for furnishing music except under special circumstances when authorized by the President.—(39 Stat., 612, chap. 417.)

(39 Stat., 188), for other restrictions upon enlisted men competing with civilians.

[1916, Aug. 29. Sales to officers, etc., of subsistence stores.] PROVISIONS, MARINE CORPS: * * * That hereafter so much of this appropriation as may be necessary may be applied for the purchase, for sale to officers, enlisted men, and civilian employees, of such articles of subsistence stores as may from time to time be designated and under such regulations as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy.—(39 Stat., 613, chap. 417.)

See act of March 4, 1913 (37 Stat., 909), and note thereto.

[1916, Aug. 29. Marine Corps training camps.] The Secretary of the Navy is hereby authorized to establish and maintain at such places as he may designate, and prescribe regulations for the government thereof, Marine Corps training camps for the instruction of citizens of the United States who make application and are designated for such training; no such camps to be in existence for a period longer than six weeks in each fiscal year, except in time of actual or threatened war; to use Marine Corps and such other Government property as he may deem necessary for the military training of such citizens while in attendance at such camps. The Quartermaster's Department, United States Marine Corps, is authorized to sell such articles of uniform clothing as may be prescribed at cost price to the volunteer citizens who are designated to participate in these instructions: Provided, That these citizens shall be required to furnish at their own expense transportation and subsistence to and from these camps, and subsistence while undergoing training therein.—(39 Stat., 614, chap. 417.)

[1916, Aug. 29. Navy yard employees; leaves of absence.] That each and every employee of the navy yards, gun factories, naval stations, and arsenals of the United States Government is hereby granted thirty days' leave of absence each year, without forfeiture of pay during such leave: Provided further, That it shall be lawful to allow pro rata leave only to those serving twelve consecutive months or more: And provided further, That in all cases the heads of divisions shall have discretion as to the time when the leave can best be allowed: And provided further, That not more than thirty days' leave with pay shall be allowed any such employee in one year: Provided further, That this provision shall not be construed to deprive employees of any sick leave or legal holidays to which they may now be entitled under existing law.—(39 Stat., 617–618, chap. 417.)

Stat., 203), as to leaves of absence allowed Government employees who are members of the National Guard.

[1916, Aug. 29. Sales of Army, Navy, and Marine Corps subsistence supplies.] That hereafter the officers and enlisted men of the Navy and the Marine Corps shall be permitted to purchase subsistence supplies at the same price as is charged the officers and the enlisted men of the Army; and the officers and the enlisted men of the Army shall be permitted to purchase subsistence supplies from the Navy and Marine Corps at the same price as is charged the officers and the enlisted men of the Navy and Marine Corps.—(39 Stat., 630, chap. 418.)

[1916, Aug. 29. Transportation of troops, etc., in time of war.] The President, in time of war, is empowered, through the Secretary of War, to take possession and assume control of any system or systems of transportation, or any part thereof, and to utilize the same, to the exclusion as far as may be necessary of all other traffic thereon, for the transfer or transportation of troops, war material and equipment, or for such other purposes connected with the emergency as may be needful or desirable.—(39 Stat., 645, chap. 418.)

See act of February 4, 1887, section 6 (24 Stat., 380), as amended by act of August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 604, chap. 417).

[1916, Aug. 29. Director of Civilian Marksmanship.] That the President be, and he is hereby, authorized, in his discretion, to appoint, as Director of Civilian Marksmanship, under the direction of the Secretary of War, an officer of the Army or of the Marine Corps.—39 Stat., 648, chap. 418.)

[1916, Aug. 29, sec. 2. Council of National Defense.] That a Council of National Defense is hereby established, for the coordination of industries and resources for the national security and welfare, to consist of the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Navy, the Secretary of the Interior, the Secretary of Agriculture, the Secretary of Commerce, and the Secretary of Labor.

That the Council of National Defense shall nominate to the President, and the President shall appoint, an advisory commission, consisting of not more than seven persons, each of whom shall have special knowledge of some industry, public utility, or the development of some natural resource, or be otherwise specially qualified, in the opinion of the council, for the performance of the duties hereinafter provided. The members of the advisory commission shall serve without compensation, but shall be allowed actual expenses of travel and subsistence when attending meetings of the commission or engaged in investigations pertaining to its activities. The advisory commission shall hold such meetings as shall be called by the council or be provided by the rules and regulations adopted by the council for the conduct of its work.—(39 Stat., 649, chap. 418.)

That it shall be the duty of the Council of National Defense to supervise and direct investigations and make recommendations to the President and the heads of executive departments as to the location of railroads with reference to the frontier of the United States so as to render possible expeditious concentration of troops and supplies to points of defense; the coordination of military, industrial, and commercial purposes in the location of extensive highways and branch lines of railroad; the utilization of waterways; the mobilization of military and naval resources for defense; the increase of domestic production of articles and materials essential to the support of armies and of the people during the interruption of foreign commerce; the development of seagoing transportation; data as to amounts, location, method and means of production, and availability of military supplies; the giving of information to producers and manufacturers as to the class of supplies needed by the military and other services of the Government, the requirements relating thereto, and the creation of relations which will render possible in time of need the immediate concentration and utilization of the resources of the Nation.—(39 Stat., 649–650, chap. 418.)

That the Council of National Defense shall adopt rules and regulations for the conduct of its work, which rules and regulations shall be subject to the approval of the President, and shall provide for the work of the advisory commission to the end that the special knowledge of such commission may be developed by suitable investigation, research, and inquiry and made available in conference and report for the use of the council; and the council may organize subordinate bodies for its assistance in special investigations, either by the employment of experts or by the creation of committees of specially qualified persons to serve without compensation, but to direct the investigations of experts so employed.

* * * Reports shall be submitted by all subordinate bodies and by the advisory commission to the council, and from time to time the council shall report to the President or to the heads of executive departments upon special inquiries or subjects appropriate thereto, and an annual report to the Congress shall be submitted through the President, including as full a statement of the activities of the council and the agencies subordinate to it as is consistent with the public interest, including an itemized account of the expenditures made by the council or authorized by it, in as full detail as the public interest will permit: Provided, however, That when deemed proper the President may authorize, in amounts stipulated by him, unvouchered expenditures and report the gross sums so authorized not itemized.—(39 Stat., 650, chap. 418.)

By act of June 15, 1917 (40 Stat., 182), which contained appropriations for the council of National Defense, it was provided "that in the expenditure of said moneys the existence of a state of war shall not be construed as enlarging the powers or duties of the Council of National Defense, but that such powers and duties shall remain as prescribed by the Act creating said council, approved August twenty-ninth, nineteen hundred and sixteen."

[1916, Sept. 7. SEC. 9. That immediately after an injury sustained by an employee while in the performance of his duty, whether or not disability has arisen, and for a reasonable time thereafter, the United States shall furnish to such employee reasonable medical, surgical, and hospital services and supplies unless he refuses to accept them. Such services and supplies shall be furnished by United States medical officers and hospitals, but where this is not practicable shall be furnished by private physicians and hospitals designated or approved by the commission and paid for from the employees' compensation fund. First. Within the limits of the amounts appropriated therefor, to place an order with any person for such ships or war material as the necessities of the Government, to be determined by the President, may require and which are of the nature, kind, and quantity usually produced or capable of being produced by such person. Compliance with all such orders shall be obligatory on any person to whom such order is given, and such order shall take precedence over all other orders and contracts theretofore placed with such person. To require the owner or occupier of any factory in which ships or war material are built or produced to place at the disposal of the United States the whole or any part of the output of such factory, and, within the limit of the amounts appropriated therefor, to deliver such output or parts thereof in such quantities and at such times as may be specified in the order at such reasonable price as shall be determined by the President.

Fourth. To requisition and take over for use or operation by the Government any factory, or any part thereof without taking possession of the entire factory, whether the United States has or has not any contract or agreement with the owner or occupier of such factory.

That all authority granted to the President in this paragraph, to be exercised in time of national emergency, shall cease on March first, nineteen hundred and eighteen.

(d) That whenever the United States shall cancel or modify any contract, make use of, assume, occupy, requisition, or take over any factory or part thereof, or any ships or war material, in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (b), it shall make just compensation therefor, to be determined by the President, and if the amount thereof so determined by the President is unsatisfactory to the person entitled to receive the same, such person shall be paid fifty per centum of the amount so determined by the President and shall be entitled to sue the United States to recover such further sum as added to said fifty per centum shall make up such amount as will be just compensation therefor, in the manner provided for by section twenty-four, paragraph twenty, and section one hundred and forty-five of the Judicial Code.—(39 Stat., 1193, chap. 180.)

Other provisions for procurement of ships and material, cancellation of contracts, etc., were contained in act of June 15, 1917 (40 Stat., 182-183), which in terms was to expire six months after a treaty of peace proclaimed between this Government and the German Empire. Said act of June 15, 1917, was amended by acts of April 22, 1918 (40 Stat., 535), and November 4, 1918 (40 Stat., 1022), and was repealed, together with said amendments, by act of June 5, 1920 (41 Stat., 988), which also repealed an act approved July 18, 1918 (40 Stat., 913), which contained authority for commandeering vessels during the then existing war.

Other provisions on this subject, but limited to the then existing war, were contained in act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 719-720).

As to changes in contracts, see note to act of August 3, 1886 (24 Stat., 215).

[1917, Apr. 25. Extension of minority enlistments.] That hereafter any enlistment for minority in the Navy or Marine Corps may be extended as is provided by law for extending an enlistment for a term of four years, under similar conditions and with like rights, privileges, benefits, and obligations.—(40 Stat., 38, chap. 6.)

See sections 1418, 1573, and 1608, Revised Statutes, and notes thereto.

[1917, May 12. Government employees, members of Officers' Reserve Corps; leaves of absence; reinstatement.] That all officers and employees of the United States or of the District of Columbia who shall be members of the Officers' Reserve Corps shall be entitled to leave of absence from their respective duties, without loss of pay, time, or efficiency rating, on all days during which they shall be ordered to duty with troops or at field exercises, or for instruction, for periods not to exceed fifteen days in any one calendar year.

Provided further, That members of the Officers' Reserve Corps who are in the employ of the United States Government or of the District of Columbia and who are ordered to duty by proper authority shall, when relieved from duty, be restored to the positions held by them when ordered to duty.—(40 Stat., 72, chap. 12.)

See act of June 3, 1916, section 80 (39 Stat., 203), as to employees belonging to National Guard; and see note to section 416, Revised Statutes, under "Honorably discharged soldiers or sailors."

[1917, May 12. Seizure of vessels belonging to alien enemies.] That the President be, and he is hereby, authorized to take over to the United States the immediate possession and title of any vessel within the jurisdiction thereof, including the Canal Zone and all territories and insular possessions of the United States except the American Virgin Islands, which at the time of coming into such jurisdiction was owned in whole or in part by any corporation, citizen, or subject of any nation with which the United States may be at war when such vessel shall be taken, or was flying the flag of or was under register of any such nation or any political subdivision or municipality thereof; and, through the United States Shipping Board, or any department or agency of the Government, to operate, lease, charter, and equip such vessel in any service of the United States, or in any commerce, foreign or coastwise.

SEC. 2. That the Secretary of the Navy be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to appoint, subject to the approval of the President, a board of survey, whose duty it shall be to ascertain the actual value of the vessel, its equipment, appurtenances, and all property contained therein, at the time of its taking, and to make a written report of their findings to the Secretary of the Navy, who shall preserve such report with the records of his department. These findings shall be considered as competent evidence in all proceedings on any claim for compensation.—(40 Stat., 75, chap. 13, Pub. Res. No. 2.)

By act of June 5, 1920, section 4 (41 Stat., 990), it was provided that vessels acquired by the President pursuant to this joint resolution, "are hereby transferred" to the

Shipping Board, with certain exceptions which included "all vessels in the military and naval service of the United States."

[1917, May 18, sec. 12. Liquor prohibition authorized, near military camps, etc.] That the President of the United States, as Commander in Chief of the Army, is authorized to make such regulations governing the prohibition of alcoholic liquors in or near military camps and to the officers and enlisted men of the Army as he may from time to time deem necessary or advisable: Provided, That no person, corporation, partnership, or association shall sell, supply, or have in his or its possession any intoxicating or spirituous liquors at any military station, cantonment, camp, fort, post, officers' or enlisted men's club, which is being used at the time for military purposes under this Act, but the Secretary of War may make regulations permitting the sale and use of intoxicating liquors for medicinal purposes. It shall be unlawful to sell any intoxicating liquor, including beer, ale, or wine, to any officer or member of the military forces while in uniform, except as herein provided. Any person, corporation, partnership, or association violating the provisions of this section or the regulations made thereunder shall, unless otherwise punishable under the Articles of War, be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or imprisonment for not more than twelve months, or both.—(40 Stat., 82-83, chap. 15.)

This section was amended by act of October 6, 1917 (40 Stat., 393), which provided that, in construing this section, "the word 'Army' shall extend to and include 'Navy'; the word 'military' shall include 'naval'; 'Article of War' shall include 'Articles for the Government of the Navy'; the words 'camps, station, cantonment, camp, fort, post, officers' or enlisted men's club,' * * * shall include such places under naval jurisdiction as the President may prescribe, and the powers therein conferred upon the Secretary of War with regard to the military service are hereby conferred upon the Secretary of the Navy with regard to the naval service."

By the National Prohibition Act of October 28, 1919, section 7 (41 Stat., 307), it was provided that "None of the provisions of this Act shall be construed to repeal any of the provisions of the 'War Prohibition Act,' or to limit or annul any order or regulation prohibiting the manufacture, sale, or disposition of intoxicating liquors within certain prescribed zones or districts, nor shall the provisions of this Act be construed to prohibit the use of the power of the military or naval authorities to enforce the regulations of the President or Secretary of War or Navy issued in pursuance of law, prohibiting the manufacture, use, possession, sale, or other disposition of intoxicating liquors during the period of the war and demobilization thereafter." The same act, section 35 (41 Stat., 317), provided that "all provisions of law that are inconsistent with this Act are repealed only to the extent of such inconsistency and the regulations herein provided for the manufacture or traffic in intoxicating liquor shall be construed as in addition to existing laws."

See section 1624, Revised Statutes, article 13, and Constitution, eighteenth amendment. Section 13 of the above act of May 18, 1917 (40 Stat., 83), relating to prostitution, etc., near military places, which was also extended by act of October 6, 1917 (40 Stat., 393), to include naval places, was in terms limited to "the present war," and is therefore omitted.

Arrest of civilians by naval authorities.—

The act of May 18, 1917, section 12, as amended by act of October 6, 1917, was not repealed by the National Prohibition Act of October 28, 1919. The general orders issued pursuant to the former statutes (G. O. 411, Aug. 3, 1918, and G. O. 412, Aug. 16, 1918) are therefore still in effect, and the commanding officer of a marine barracks is authorized, in the enforcement of said orders, to arrest civilians who are apprehended in the act of violating any of the provisions of said orders, and to retain them in custody no longer than is necessary to turn them over to the proper civil authorities of the United States. He is not, however, authorized to arrest civilians except on the Government reservation; offenders outside, although within the zone prescribed by general orders, should be arrested by the Federal civil authorities, to whom report of the facts should be made. (File 29163-2, Feb. 24, 1920.)

[1917, May 22. "Authorized enlisted strength" defined; instruction in trade schools.] * * * That the phrase "authorized enlisted strength," as applied to the personnel of the Navy, shall mean the total number of enlisted men of the Navy authorized by law, exclusive of the Hospital Corps, apprentice seamen, those sentenced by court-martial to discharge, those detailed for duty with Naval Militia, those furloughed without pay, enlisted men of the Flying Corps, and those under instruction in trade schools: Provided further, That the number of enlisted men for instruction in trade schools shall not at any time exceed fourteen thousand, which number is hereby temporarily authorized. * * *.—(40 Stat., 84, chap. 20; 40 Stat., 714, chap. 114.)

This section was expressly amended and reenacted to read as above by act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 714). The omitted portions of this section and other provisions of this act were temporary legislation, no longer in force.

As to authorized enlisted strength of the Navy, see note to section 1417, Revised Statutes.

By act of July 11, 1919 (41 Stat., 138), temporarily increasing the "total authorized enlisted strength of the active list of the Navy," it was provided "that nothing herein shall be construed as affecting the permanent * * * enlisted strength of the Regular Navy as authorized by existing law."

[1917, May 22, sec. 2. Privates, first class, Marine Corps.] * * * That not more than twenty-five per centum of the authorized number of privates in the Marine Corps shall have the rank of private, first class, which rank is hereby established in the Marine Corps.—(40 Stat., 84-85, chap. 20; 40 Stat., 714, chap. 114.)

This section was expressly amended and reenacted to read as above by act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 714). Other portions of the section are omitted as temporary.

See note to section 1596, Revised Statutes, as to the organization of the Marine Corps and number of enlisted men.

[1917, May 22, sec. 5. Commissions to midshipmen on graduation.] * * * the class of midshipmen graduated from the Naval Academy on March twenty-ninth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, and the classes to be graduated hereafter, may be commissioned effective from date of graduation * * *.—(40 Stat., 86, chap. 20; 40 Stat., 716, chap. 114.)

This section was reenacted by act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 716), but without any change in the clause above set forth.

Other portions of this section are omitted as temporary.

See note to act of August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 576), as to distribution in grades of line officers; and note to section 1521, Revised Statutes, as to appointment of midshipmen to commissioned grades on graduation from the Naval Academy.

The word "effective" as used in this clause is sufficiently broad to authorize the treating of midshipmen, when commissioned, as though they had been commissioned on, instead of from, date of graduation; and in making computations to determine the distribution of officers in the various grades and ranks. Midshipmen so commissioned may be counted as though they had been commissioned on date of graduation. (File 11130-41, May 21, 1917; see act of August 29, 1916, 39 Stat., 577, as to computations.)

[1917, May 22, sec. 11. Additional warrant officers in the Marine Corps.] That the appointment of thirty marine gunners, thirty quartermaster's clerks, and nine clerks to assistant paymasters, additional to the number now prescribed by law, and the temporary appointment of eight clerks to assistant paymasters for the war, is hereby authorized, such appointments to be made in the manner now provided by law.—(40 Stat., 87, chap. 20.)

See act of August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 611), and note thereto, as to number of warrant officers in the Marine Corps; see act of

July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 735), as to pay clerks in the Marine Corps; see also note to section 1596, Revised Statutes.

Pay of enlisted men.] That commencing June first, nineteen hundred and seventeen, and continuing until not later than six months after the termination of the present war, all enlisted men of the Navy of the United States in active service whose base pay does not exceed $21 per month shall receive an increase of $15 per month; those whose base pay is over $21 and does not exceed $24 per month, an increase of $12 per month; those whose base pay is over $24 and less than $45 per month, an increase of $8 per month; and those whose base pay is $45 or more per month, an increase of $6 per month: Provided, That the increases of pay herein authorized shall not enter into the computation of continuous-service pay.—(40 Stat., 87, chap. 20.)

By act of July 11, 1919 (41 Stat., 140), the rates of pay prescribed in this section were "made the permanent rates of pay of the enlisted men of the Navy during their present current enlistment and for those who enlist or reenlist prior to July 1, 1920, for the term of such enlistment or reenlistment."

See note to section 1569, Revised Statutes, as to pay of enlisted men of the Navy.

Coast and Geodetic Survey, transfer to Navy during war; status and rank of personnel.] That the President is hereby authorized, whenever in his judgment a sufficient national emergency exists, to transfer to the service and jurisdiction of the War Department, or of the Navy Department, such vessels, equipment, stations, and personnel of the Coast and Geodetic Survey as he may deem to the best interest of the country, and after such transfer all expenses connected therewith shall be defrayed out of the appropriations for the department to which transfer is made: Provided, That such vessels, equipment, stations, and personnel shall be returned to the Coast and Geodetic Survey when such national emergency ceases, in the opinion of the President, and nothing in this Act shall be construed as transferring the Coast and Geodetic Survey or any of its functions from the Department of Commerce except in time of national emergency and to the extent herein provided: Provided further, That any of the personnel of the Coast and Geodetic Survey who may be transferred as herein provided shall, while under the jurisdiction of the War Department or Navy Department, have proper military status and shall be subject to the laws, regulations, and orders for the government of the Army or Navy, as the case may be, in so far as the same may be applicable to persons whose retention permanently in the military service of the United States is not contemplated by law * * *. While actually employed in active service under direct orders of the War Department or of the Navy Department members of the Coast and Geodetic Survey shall receive the benefit of all provisions of laws relating to disability incurred in line of duty or loss of life.

When serving with the Army or Navy the relative rank shall be as follows:

Hydrographic and geodetic engineers receiving $4,000 or more shall rank with and after colonels in the Army and captains in the Navy.

Hydrographic and geodetic engineers receiving $3,000 or more but less than $4,000 shall rank with and after lieutenant colonels in the Army and commanders in the Navy.

The Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Navy, and the Secretary of Commerce shall jointly prescribe regulations governing the duties to be performed by the Coast and Geodetic Survey in time of war, and for the cooperation of that service with the War and Navy Departments in time of peace in preparations for its duties in war, which regulations shall not be effective unless approved by each of the said Secretaries, and included therein may be rules and regulations for making reports and communications between the officers or bureaus of the War and Navy Departments and the Coast and Geodetic Survey.—(40 Stat., 87-88, chap. 20.)

See act of October 6, 1917 (40 Stat., 393-394), as to members of Coast and Geodetic Survey serving on naval courts-martial in time of war; and see note to section 1363, Revised Statutes.

[1917, May 22, sec. 17. Precedence of medical officers.] That nothing contained in the Act of August twenty-ninth, nineteen hundred and sixteen, shall operate to disturb the relative position of officers in the Medical Corps with reference to precedence or promotion, but all such officers otherwise qualified shall be advanced in rank with or ahead of officers in said corps who were their juniors on the date of said Act.—(40 Stat., 89, chap. 20.)

SEC. 3. [COMPUTATION OF SERVICE.] That for the purposes of this Act and subject to the provisions of section 10 hereof, the period of service shall be computed from the date of original employment, whether as a classified or unclassified employee in the civil service of the United States, and shall include periods of service at different times and services in one or more departments, branches, or independent offices of the Government, and shall also include service performed under authority of the United States beyond seas, and honorable service in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, or Coast Guard of the United States: Provided, That in the case of an employee who is eligible for and elects to receive a pension under any law, or compensation under the War Risk Insurance Act, the period of his or her military or naval service upon which such pension or compensation is based shall not be included for the purpose of assignment to classes defined in section 2 hereof, but nothing contained in this Act shall be so construed as to affect in any manner his or her right to a pension, or to compensation under the War Risk Insurance Act, in addition to the annuity herein provided.—(41 Stat., 615–616, chap. 195.)

It is further provided that in computing length of service for the purposes of this Act all periods of separation from the service and so much of any period of leave of absence as may exceed six months shall be excluded, and that in the case of substitutes in the Postal Service only periods of active employment shall be included.

SEC. 4. [COMMISSIONER OF PENSIONS, JURISDICTION; APPEALS.] That for the purpose of administration, except as otherwise provided herein, the Commissioner of Pensions, under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, be, and is hereby, authorized and directed to perform, or cause to be performed, any and all acts and to make such rules and regulations as may be necessary and proper for the purpose of carrying the provisions of this Act into full force and effect. An appeal to the Secretary of the Interior shall lie from the final action or order of the Commissioner of Pensions affecting the rights or interests of any person or of the United States under this Act, the procedure on appeal to be as prescribed by the Commissioner of Pensions, with the approval of the Secretary of the Interior.

SEC. 5. [DISABILITY RETIREMENT IN LIEU OF OTHER COMPENSATION.] That any employee to whom this Act applies who shall have served for a total period of not less than fifteen years, and who, before reaching the retirement age as fixed in section 1 hereof, becomes totally disabled for useful and efficient service by reason of disease or injury not due to vicious habits, intemperance; or willful misconduct on the part of the employee, shall upon his or her own application or upon the request or order of the head of the department, branch, or independent office concerned, be retired on an annuity under the provisions of section 2 hereof: Provided, however, That no employee shall be retired under the provisions of this section until examined by a medical officer of the United States or a duly qualified physician or surgeon or board of physicians or surgeons designated by the Commissioner of Pensions for that purpose and found to be disabled in the degree and in the manner specified herein.

Every annuitant retired under the provisions of this section, unless the disability for which retired is permanent in character, shall, at the expiration of one year from the date of such retirement and annually thereafter until reaching the retirement age as defined in section 1 hereof, be examined under direction of the Commissioner of Pensions by a medical officer of the United States, or a duly qualified physician or surgeon or board of physicians or surgeons designated by the Commissioner of Pensions for that purpose, in order to ascertain the nature and degree of the annuitant's disability, if any; if the annuitant recovers and is restored to his or her former earning capacity before reaching the retirement age, payment of the annuity shall be discontinued from the date of the medical examination showing such recovery; if the annuitant fails to appear for examination as required under this section, payment of the annuity shall be suspended until continuance of the disability has been satisfactorily established. The Commissioner of Pensions is hereby authorized to order or direct at any time such medical or other examination as he shall deem necessary to determine the facts relative to the nature and degree of disability of any employee retired on an annuity under this section.

Fees for examinations made under the provisions of this section by physicians or surgeons who are not medical officers of the United States shall be fixed by the Commissioner of Pensions, and such fees, together with the employee's reasonable traveling and other expenses incurred in order to submit to such examinations, shall be paid out of the appropriations for the cost of administering this Act.—(41 Stat., 616, chap. 195.)

In all cases where the annuity is discontinued under the provisions of this section before the annuitant has received a sum equal to the total amount of his or her contributions with accrued interest, the difference shall be paid to the retired employee, or to his or her estate, upon application therefor in such form and manner as the Commissioner of Pensions may direct.

No person shall be entitled to receive an annuity under the provisions of this Act, and compensation under the provisions of the Act of September 7, 1916, entitled "An Act to provide compensation for employees of the United States suffering injuries while in the performance of their duties, and for other purposes," covering the same period of time; but this provision shall not be so construed as to bar the right of any claimant to the greater benefit conferred by either Act for any part of the same period of time.

SEC. 6. [RETENTION IN SERVICE BEYOND RETIRING AGE.] That all employees to whom this Act applies shall, upon the expiration of ninety days next succeeding its passage, if of retirement age, or thereafter on arriving at retirement age as defined in section 1 hereof, be automatically separated from the service, and all salary, pay, or compensation shall cease from that date, and it shall be the duty of the head of each department, branch, or independent office of the Government to notify such employees under his direction of the date of such separation from the service at least sixty days in advance thereof:

Provided, That no person employed in the executive departments within the District of Columbia, retired under the provisions of this Act during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1921, shall be replaced by additional employees, but if the exigencies of the service so require, places made vacant by such retirement may be filled by promotion or transfer of eligible employees already in the service: Provided, That if within sixty days after the passage of this Act or not less than thirty days before the arrival of an employee at the age of retirement, the head of the department, branch, or independent office of the Government in which he or she is employed certifies to the Civil Service Commission that by reason of his or her efficiency and willingness to remain in the civil service of the United States the continuance of such employee therein would be advantageous to the public service, such employee may be retained for a term not exceeding two years upon approval and certification by the Civil Service Commission, and at the end of the two years he or she may, by similar approval and certification, be continued for an additional term not exceeding two years, and so on: Provided, however, That at the end of ten years after this act becomes effective no employee shall be continued in the civil service of the United States beyond the age of retirement defined in section 1 hereof for more than four years.—(41 Stat., 617, chap. 195.)

SEC. 7. [APPLICATION; CERTIFICATE OF HEAD OF DEPARTMENT.] That every employee who is or hereafter becomes eligible for retirement because of age as provided in this Act, shall, within sixty days after its passage or thirty days before reaching the retirement age, or at any time thereafter, file with the Commissioner of Pensions, in such form as he may prescribe, an application for an annuity, supported by a certificate from the head of the department, branch, or independent office of the Government in which the applicant has been employed, stating the age and period or periods of service of the applicant and salary, pay, or compensation received during such periods, as shown by the official records: Provided, however, That in the case of an employee who is to be continued in the civil service of the United States beyond the retirement age as provided in section 6 hereof, he or she may make application for retirement at any time within such period of continuance in the service; but nothing contained in this Act shall be construed to prevent the compulsory retirement of such employee when in the judgment of the head of the department, branch, or independent office in which he or she is employed such retirement would promote the best interests of the service.—(41 Stat., 617–618, chap. 195.)

Upon receipt of satisfactory evidence the Commissioner of Pensions shall forthwith adjudicate the claim of the applicant, and if title to annuity be established, a proper certificate shall be issued to the annuitant under the seal of the Department of the Interior.

Annuities granted under this Act for retirement on account of age shall commence from the date of separation from the service on or after the date this Act shall take effect, and shall continue during the life of the annuitant. Annuities granted for disability under the provisions of section 5 hereof shall be subject to the limitations specified in said section.

SEC. 8. [DEDUCTIONS FROM SALARIES; DONATIONS, ETC.] That beginning on the first day of the third month next following the passage of this Act and monthly thereafter there shall be deducted and withheld from the basic salary, pay, or compensation of each employee to whom this Act applies a sum equal to $2\frac{1}{2}$ per centum of such employee's basic salary, pay, or compensation. The Secretary of the Treasury shall cause the said deductions to be withheld from all specific appropriations for the particular salaries or compensation from which the deductions are made and from all allotments out of lump-sum appropriations for payments of such salaries or compensation for each fiscal year, and said sums shall be transferred on the books of the Treasury Department to the credit of a special fund to be known as "the civil-service retirement and disability fund," and said fund is hereby appropriated for the payment of annuities, refunds, and allowances as provided in this Act.

The Secretary of the Treasury is hereby directed to invest from time to time, in interest-bearing securities of the United States, such portions of the "civil-service retirement and disability fund" hereby created as in his judgment may not be immediately required for the payment of annuities, refunds, and allowances as herein provided, and the income derived from such investments shall constitute a part of said fund for the purpose of paying annuities and of carrying out the provisions of section 11 of this Act.

The Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized and empowered in carrying out the provisions of this Act to supplement the individual contributions of employees with moneys received in the form of donations, gifts, legacies, bequests, or otherwise, and to receive, invest, and disburse for the purposes of this Act all moneys which may be contributed by private individuals or corporations or organizations for the benefit of civil-service employees generally or any special class of employees.

SEC. 9. [DEDUCTIONS COMPULSORY.] That every employee coming within the provisions of this Act shall be deemed to consent and agree to the deductions from salary, pay, or compensation as provided in section 8 hereof, and payment less such deductions shall be a full and complete discharge and acquittance of all claims and demands whatsoever for all regular services rendered by such employee during the period covered by such payment, except the right to the benefits to which he or she shall be entitled under the provisions of this Act, notwithstanding the provisions of sections 167, 168, and 169 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, and of any other law, rule, or regulation affecting the salary, pay, or compensation of any person or persons employed in the civil service to whom this Act applies.—(41 Stat., 618, chap. 195.)

SEC. 10. [EMPLOYEES REINSTATED, ETC.] That upon the transfer of any employee from an unclassified to a classified status, or upon the reinstatement of a former employee, credit for past service rendered subsequent to the date this Act shall take effect, or for any part thereof, shall be granted only upon deposit with the Treasurer of the United States of the amount of such deductions with interest as provided in this Act as would have been made for the periods of actual service, or part thereof, for which credit is to be given, but such interest shall not be computed for periods of separation from the service: Provided, That failure to make such deposit shall not deprive the employee of credit for any past service rendered prior to the date this Act shall become operative, and to which he or she would otherwise be entitled.—(41 Stat., 618-619, chap. 195.)

SEC. 11. [PAYMENT OF DEDUCTIONS ON SEPARATION FROM SERVICE, ETC.] That in the case of an employee in the classified civil service of the United States who shall be transferred to an unclassified position, and in the case of any employee to whom this Act applies who shall become absolutely separated from the service before becoming eligible for retirement on an annuity, the total amount of deductions of salary, pay, or compensation with accrued interest computed at the rate of 4 per centum per annum, compounded on June 30 of each fiscal year, shall, upon application, be returned to such employee: Provided, That all money so returned to an employee must be redeposited with interest before such employee may derive any benefit under the provisions of this Act, upon reinstatement or retransfer to a classified position; and in case an annuitant shall die without having received in annuities an amount equal to the total amount of the deductions from his or her salary, pay, or compensation, together with interest thereon at 4 per centum per annum compounded as herein provided up to the time of his or her death, the excess of the said accumulated deductions over the said annuity payments shall be paid in one sum to his or her legal representatives upon the establishment of a valid claim therefor; and in case an employee shall die without having reached the retirement age or without having established a valid claim for annuity, the total amount of deductions with accrued interest as herein provided shall be paid to the legal representatives of such employee: Provided, That if in case of death the amount of deductions to be paid under the provisions of this section does not exceed $300, and if there has been no demand upon the Commissioner of Pensions by a duly appointed executor or administrator, the payment may be made, after the expiration of three months from date of death, to such person or persons as may appear in the judgment of the Commissioner of Pensions to be legally entitled to the proceeds of the estate, and such payment shall be a bar to recovery by any other person.

SEC. 12. [MONTHLY PAYMENT OF ANNUITIES.] That annuities granted under the terms of this Act shall be due and payable monthly on the first business day of the month following the month or other period for which the annuity shall have accrued, and payment of all annuities, refunds, and allowances granted hereunder shall be made by checks drawn and issued by the disbursing clerk for the payment of pensions in such form and manner and with such safeguards as shall be prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior in accordance with the laws, rules, and regulations governing accounting that may be found applicable to such payments.—(41 Stat., 619, chap. 195.)

SEC. 13. [REPORTS TO BE MADE BY DEPARTMENTS, ETC.] That it shall be the duty of the head of each executive department and the head of each independent establishment of the Government not within the jurisdiction of any executive department to report to the Civil Service Commission in such manner as said commission may prescribe, the name and grade of each employee to whom this Act applies in or under said department or establishment who shall be at any time in a nonpay status, showing the dates such employee was in a nonpay status, and the amount of salary, pay, or compensation lost by the employee by reason of such absence. The Civil Service Commission shall keep a record of appointments, transfers, changes in grade, separations from the service, reinstatements, loss of pay, and such other information concerning individual service as may be deemed essential to a proper determination of rights under this Act, and shall furnish the Commissioner of Pensions such reports therefrom as he shall from time to time request as necessary to the proper adjustment of any claim hereunder, and shall prepare and keep all needful tables and records required for carrying out the provisions of this Act, including data showing the mortality experience of the employees in the service, and the percentage of withdrawal from such service, and any other information that may serve as a guide for future valuations and adjustments of the plan for the retirement of employees under this Act.—(41 Stat., 619–620, chap. 195.)

The Commissioner of Pensions shall make a detailed comparative report annually showing all receipts and disbursements on account of refunds, allowances, and annuities, together with the total number of persons receiving annuities and the amounts paid them.

SEC. 14. [MONEYS NOT SUBJECT TO ATTACHMENT, ETC.] That none of the moneys mentioned in this Act shall be assignable, either in law or equity, or be subject to execution, levy, or attachment, garnishment, or other legal process.—(41 Stat., 620, chap. 195.)

[1920, May 29. (d) All retainers to the camp and all persons accompanying or serving with the armies of the United States without the territorial jurisdiction of the United States, and in time of war all such retainers and persons accompanying or serving with the armies of the United States in the field, both within and without the territorial jurisdiction of the United States, though not otherwise subject to these articles;

See note to section 1558, Revised Statutes.

[1920, June 4. Naval petroleum reserves.] That the Secretary of the Navy is directed to take possession of all properties within the naval petroleum reserves as are or may become subject to the control and use by the United States for naval purposes, and on which there are no pending claims or applications for permits or leases under the provisions of an Act of Congress approved February 25, 1920, entitled "An Act to provide for the mining of coal, phosphate, oil, oil shale, gas, and sodium on the public domain," or pending applications for United States patent under any law; to conserve, develop, use, and operate the same in his discretion, directly or by contract, lease, or otherwise, and to use, store, exchange, or sell the oil and gas products thereof, and those from all royalty oil from lands in the naval reserves, for the benefit of the United States: And provided further, That the rights of any claimant under said Act of February 25, 1920, are not affected adversely thereby: And provided further, That such sums as have been or may be turned into the Treasury of the United States from royalties on lands within the naval petroleum reserves prior to July 1, 1921, not to exceed $500,000, are hereby made available for this purpose until July 1, 1922: Provided further, That this appropriation shall be reimbursed from the proper appropriations on account of the oil and gas products from said properties used by the United States at such rate, not in excess of the market value of the oil, as the Secretary of the Navy may direct.—(41 Stat., 813-814, chap. 228.)

See act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat., 437-451); see also acts of August 25, 1914 (38 Stat., 709) and August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 559-560).

Similar provision was contained in act of July 11, 1919 (41 Stat., 133); see also act of June 24, 1910 (36 Stat., 607), and references thereunder.

[1920, June 4. Summer schools for boys; enrollments in Naval Reserve Force.]

The Secretary of the Navy is hereby authorized, in his direction, to establish at two of the permanent naval training stations experimental summer schools for boys between the ages of sixteen and twenty years. For this purpose he is authorized to use such buildings, or other accommodations, at such training stations; to loan any naval equipment necessary for such purposes, and to give instructions which will fit them for service in the Navy of the United States. He is empowered to establish and enforce such rules within the camp as may be necessary and to detail such members of the naval personnel as may be required in order to encourage and execute the spirit of this Act. The Secretary of the Navy is further authorized to loan the necessary naval uniforms during the period of training and to furnish subsistence, medical attendance, and other necessary incidental expenses for those attending these schools: Provided, That those under instruction, with the consent of their parents or their guardians, shall enroll in the Naval Reserve Force for not less than three months, and no person not so enrolled shall be admitted to said training schools. For carrying out the provisions of this paragraph the sum of $200,000 is appropriated.—(41 Stat., 817, chap. 228.)

See act of August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 587), as to enrollments in Naval Reserve Force.

[1920, June 4. Naval militia made part of Naval Reserve Force.]

This provision read as follows:

"That, until June 30, 1922, of the Organized Militia as provided by law, such part as may be duly prescribed in any State, Territory, or the District of Columbia shall constitute a Naval Militia; and, until June 30, 1922, such of the Naval Militia as now is in existence, and as now organized and prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy under authority of the Act of Congress approved February 16, 1914, shall be a part of the Naval Reserve Force, and the Secretary of the Navy is authorized to maintain and provide for said Naval Militia as provided in said Act: Provided further, That upon their enrollment in the Naval Reserve Force, and not otherwise, until June 30, 1922, the members of said Naval Militia shall have all the benefits, gratuities, privileges, and emoluments provided by law for other members of the Naval Reserve Force; and that, with the approval of the Secretary of the Navy, duty performed in the Naval Militia may be counted as active service for the maintenance of efficiency required by law for members of the Naval Reserve Force: And provided further, That all moneys appropriated for the Naval Reserve Force or for the Naval Militia shall constitute one fund and hereby are made available, under the direction of the Secretary of the Navy, for both." (41 Stat., 817-818, chap. 228.)

It temporarily modified the act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 708), which repealed all laws relating to the Naval Militia. The act of February 16, 1914 (38 Stat., 283-290), referred to above, is omitted from this compilation, in so far as relates to the Naval Militia, because of the repealing act of July 1, 1918, above cited, and the temporary character of this provision in the act of June 4, 1920.

[1920, June 4. Automobiles, quarterly reports.] Quarterly reports on all gasoline passenger and freight automobiles shall be made on Form number 124, and one copy of each report shall be filed in the Bureau of Yards and Docks.—(41 Stat., 819, chap. 228.)

[1920, June 4. Retainer pay, Naval Reserve Force, withheld for cause.] That retainer pay provided by existing law shall not be paid to any member of the Naval Reserve Force who fails to train as provided by law during the year for which he fails to train.—(41 Stat., 824, chap. 228.)

See note to section 1556, Revised Statutes, as to pay of Naval Reserve Force; see also section 9 of this act (41 Stat., 837), set forth below.

[1920, June 4. Death gratuity, six months' pay.] That hereafter, immediately upon official notification of the death from wounds or disease, not the result of his or her own misconduct, of any officer, enlisted man, or nurse on the active list of the Regular Navy or Regular Marine Corps, or on the retired list when on active duty, the Paymaster General of the Navy shall cause to be paid to the widow, and if there be no widow to the child or children, and if there be no widow or child, to any other dependent relative of such officer, enlisted man, or nurse previously designated by him or her, an amount equal to six months' pay at the rate received by such officer, enlisted man, or nurse at the date of his or her death. The Secretary of the Navy shall establish regulations requiring each officer and enlisted man or nurse having no wife or child to designate the proper dependent relative to whom this amount shall be paid in case of his or her death. Said amount shall be paid from funds appropriated for the pay of the Navy and pay of the Marine Corps, respectively: Provided, That nothing in this section or in other existing legislation shall be construed as making the provisions of this section applicable to officers, enlisted men, or nurses of any forces of the Navy of the United States other than those of the regular Navy and Marine Corps, and nothing in this section shall be construed to apply in commissioned grades to any officers except those holding permanent or probationary appointments in the Regular Navy or Marine Corps: Provided, That the provisions of this section shall apply to the officers and enlisted men of the Coast Guard, and the Secretary of the Treasury will cause payment to be made accordingly.—(41 Stat., 824-825, chap. 228.)

Prior legislation.—An allowance of six months' pay in cases of death occurring in line of duty was first authorized in the Navy by act of May 13, 1903 (35 Stat., 128-129). The provision of that act was expressly amended and reenacted by act of August 22, 1912 (37 Stat., 329), and further amendments were made by acts of March 3, 1915 (38 Stat., 938), and August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 572), relating to deductions from the gratuity on account of funeral expenses.

By the same act of March 3, 1915 (38 Stat., 939), provision was made for allowance of one year's pay, in the cases of officers and enlisted men whose death resulted from aviation accidents.

By act of October 6, 1917 (40 Stat., 392, chap. 89), it was provided that the enactment of August 22, 1912, as amended by act of March 3, 1915, both above cited, "be, and the same is hereby, amended by inserting after the words 'on the active list of the Navy or Marine Corps' a comma and the words 'or of any retired officer or enlisted man serving on active duty during the continuance of the present war,'" thereby extending the prior legislation on this subject to include retired officers on active duty, having previously been limited to officers of the active list.

On the same day another act (War Risk Insurance amendment of Oct. 6, 1917, sec. 312, chap. 105) enacted that "the laws providing for gratuities or payments in the event of death in the service and existing pension laws shall not be applicable after the enactment of this amendment to persons now in or hereafter entering the military or naval service, or to their widows, children, or their dependents, except in so far as rights under any such law shall have heretofore accrued." It was held by the Attorney General (31 Op. Atty. Gen., 205) that the enactment last quoted (sec. 312 of the act of Oct. 6, 1917, 40 Stat., 408), repealed the act of October 6, 1917 (40 Stat., 392), providing for payment of gratuities.

Section 312 of the act of October 6, 1917 (40 Stat., 408), was amended and reenacted by act of June 25, 1918, section 17 (40 Stat., 613), so as to render prior gratuity and pension laws inapplicable to persons "in the active military or naval service" on October 6, 1917, or who thereafter entered the "active military or naval service," or to their widows, etc.

[1920, June 4. Mining coal in Alaska.] That $1,000,000 of this appropriation shall be available for use, in the discretion of the Secretary of the Navy, in mining coal or contracting for the same in Alaska, the transportation of the same, and the construction of coal bunkers and the necessary docks for use in supplying ships therewith; and the Secretary of the Navy is hereby authorized to select from the public coal lands in Alaska such areas as may be necessary for use by him for the purposes stated herein.—(41 Stat., 826, chap. 228.)

This was a proviso following appropriations for the naval service under the caption "Fuel and transportation"; similar provision was contained in acts of July 1, 1918

(40 Stat., 730), and July 11, 1919 (41 Stat., 148).

See act of October 20, 1914, section 2 (38 Stat., 742).

[1920, June 4. Change in name of bureau.] The Bureau of Steam Engineering hereafter shall be designated the "Bureau of Engineering."—(41 Stat., 828, chap. 228.)

See section 419, Revised Statutes.

[1920, June 4. Enlisted strength, Marine Corps.] The authorized enlisted strength of the active list of the Marine Corps is hereby permanently established at twenty-seven thousand four hundred, distribution in the various grades to be made in the same proportion as provided under existing law.—(41 Stat., 830, chap. 228.)

See note to section 1596, Revised Statutes.

[1920, June 4. Temporary and reserve officers, Marine Corps; transfer to permanent service.]

This provision read as follows:

"That all officers serving temporarily in the grades of captain and below upon the date of the passage of this Act shall be eligible to fill existing vacancies and those hereby created in the permanent authorized strength in said grades by transfer to or reappointment in the permanent Marine Corps in the grades not above that of captain. Transfers so made shall be without regard to age, and if found not qualified for transfer to the same grade as that held by them on the date of transfer then to lower grades after qualification. All officers so transferred shall establish to the satisfaction of the Secretary of the Navy, under such rules as he may prescribe, their mental, moral, professional, and physical qualifications to perform the duties of the grade to which transferred or reappointed and shall take precedence with each other and with other officers of the Marine Corps in such order as may be recommended by a board of marine officers and approved by the Secretary of the Navy: Provided, That all persons who served honorably as officers in the Marine Corps or Marine Corps Reserve on active duty at any time between April 6, 1917, and the date of the passage of this Act and who have been honorably discharged or assigned to inactive duty shall be eligible for permanent appointment in the same or a lower rank than that held on discharge or assignment to inactive duty, but not above the rank of captain, to fill vacancies existing or hereby created in the permanent authorized strength of the Marine Corps under the same conditions as those above prescribed for officers now in the service: Provided further, That officers now holding temporary commissions in the Marine Corps and who have had more than ten years' service therein, if not found qualified for permanent commissions, and who are recommended by the board herein provided for, may be appointed warrant officers in the Marine Corps; and the authorized number of warrant officers is hereby increased by a number not to exceed fifty to provide for the appointment of the aforesaid officers: Provided further, That all transfers and appointments made in accordance with the provisions of this section shall be accomplished by June 30, 1921: Provided further, That the officers now holding temporary appointments as commissioned officers in the Marine Corps may retain their temporary commissions until the permanent appointments provided for in the foregoing section shall have been made." (41 Stat., 830, chap. 228.)

[1920, June 4, sec. 2. Naval reservists, active duty authorized; enrollments restricted; commissioned strength of Navy.] That the Secretary of the Navy is hereby authorized to employ on active duty, with their own consent, members of the Naval Reserve Force in enlisted ratings, the number so employed not to exceed during any fiscal year the average of twenty thousand men: Provided, That the number of naval reservists, so employed on active duty, together with the total number of enlisted men in the Regular Navy, shall not exceed the total enlisted strength of the Navy as authorized by law: Provided further, That such members of the Naval Reserve Force so employed shall serve on active duty for not less than twelve nor more than eighteen months unless sooner released: Provided further, That hereafter no person shall be enrolled in the Naval Reserve Force except for general service: And provided further, That the number of commissioned officers of the line, permanent, temporary, and reserve on active duty shall not exceed 4 per centum of the total authorized enlisted strength of the Regular Navy, and the number of staff officers on active duty of whatever kind shall be in the same proportions as authorized by existing law: Provided further, That five hundred reserve officers are also authorized to be employed in the aviation and auxiliary service.—(41 Stat., 834, chap. 228.)

See act of August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 587-593), as to the Naval Reserve Force; see note to section 1417, Revised Statutes, as to authorized enlisted strength of the Navy;

see act of August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 576-577), as to authorized commissioned strength of the Navy.

[1920, June 4, sec. 2. Temporary and reserve officers continued on duty.]

This provision read as follows:

"That, until December 31, 1921, temporary appointments now existing may be continued in force in any grade or rank, not to exceed the number allowed in any grade or rank based upon the total permanent authorized commissioned strength of the line or of any staff corps; and, within the limitations herein prescribed, officers of the Naval Reserve Force may, with their own consent, be continued on active duty ashore or afloat, including three on shore duty in the Historical Section of the Office of Naval Intelligence, who may be retained on active duty beyond the age of disenrollment but not beyond June 30, 1922.—(41 Stat., 834, chap. 228.)

[1920, June 4, sec. 2. Permanent Navy not reduced.] That nothing herein shall be construed as reducing the permanent commissioned or enlisted strength of the Regular Navy as authorized by existing law.—(41 Stat., 834, chap. 228.)

[1920, June 4, sec. 2. Retirement of reserve and temporary officers.] That all officers of the Naval Reserve Force and temporary officers of the Navy who have heretofore incurred or may hereafter incur physical disability in line of duty shall be eligible for retirement under the same conditions as now provided by law for officers of the Regular Navy who have incurred physical disability in line of duty.—(41 Stat., 834, chap. 228.)

Retirement of officers of the Regular Navy for physical disability is provided for by sections 1448-1457, Revised Statutes; retirement of temporary officers was previously authorized by act of May 22, 1917, section 9 (40 Stat., 86); retirement of enrolled members of the Naval Reserve Force after 20 years' service, and of transferred members of the Fleet Naval Reserve after 30 years' service, was authorized by act of August 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 588 and 591), as amended by act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 710).

By act of July 1, 1918 (40 Stat., 710), it was provided "that no member of the Naval Reserve Force shall be eligible for retirement other than for physical disability incurred in line of duty."

[1920, June 4, sec. 3. Transfer to permanent Navy of temporary, reserve, and Coast Guard officers; naval personnel credited with Coast Guard service.] That officers holding temporary commissioned and warrant ranks in the Navy and members of the Naval Reserve Force of commissioned and warrant ranks shall be eligible for transfer to an appointment in the permanent grades or ranks in the Navy for which they may be found qualified not above that held by them on the date of transfer, but not to exceed a total of one thousand two hundred commissioned officers in the line, of which number five hundred may be appointed from class five, Naval Reserve Flying Corps, with proportionate number in all Staff Corps as now authorized by law, except that the Medical, Dental, and Supply Corps shall be entitled to such additional numbers as are necessary to make up the full quota of officers in those corps, as now authorized by law:

Provided, That officers so appointed to the line of the Navy shall take rank in accordance with their precedence while holding temporary rank, and members of the Naval Reserve Force of commissioned and warrant ranks found qualified for a given rank shall be arranged according to their precedence among themselves and commissioned in the permanent service next after the lowest temporary officer who qualifies for the same rank and is appointed in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

Provided further, That included in the number of transfers and appointments hereinbefore allowed, commissioned officers of the Coast Guard, who have served creditably under the Navy Department in the War with the German Government, upon suitable application approved by the Secretary of the Navy and the Secretary of the Treasury, may be appointed to a permanent rank or grade in the Navy for which found qualified by a board of naval officers under the provisions of existing law, but not above the rank of lieutenant commander, and shall take such precedence therein as the Secretary of the Navy may determine: Provided further, That for the purposes of computing longevity pay and retirement privileges of officers and enlisted men of the Navy, all creditable service in the Coast Guard and former Revenue-Cutter Service shall be counted.—(41 Stat., 834–835, chap. 228.)

Temporary appointments were to terminate not later than December 31, 1921, in accordance with section 2 of this act (41 Stat., 834), set forth above.

Precedence of all officers transferred under this section to the staff corps was to be fixed upon recommendation of a board of naval officers in accordance with section 4 of this act, set forth below, which also limited transfers to rank of lieutenant.

Coast Guard Service was credited to naval officers for pay purposes by act of May 18, 1920, section 11 (41 Stat., 604).

Qualifications for transfer and appointment.—No transfer or appointment can be made under this provision unless the appointee, at the time of such appointment, holds a temporary commissioned or warrant rank in the Navy or is a member of the Naval Reserve Force. (File 26521–473, Oct. 24, 1921.)

As all temporary appointments, if not sooner revoked, will automatically terminate on December 31, 1921, under section 2 of this act (set forth above), that date would be the latest on which temporary officers could be appointed to the Navy under section 3. (File 26521–473, Oct. 24, 1921.)

[1920, June 4, sec. 4. Commissioned warrant officers with war service, promotion of; precedence of transferred officers; restriction on permanent rank; reversion to former status on professional failure.] That in addition to the number of transfers and appointments hereinbefore allowed, commissioned warrant officers of more than fifteen years' service since date of warrant or date of first appointment as paymaster's clerk, pharmacist or mate, who have creditably served in the war with the German Government in temporary commissioned ranks or grades in the regular Navy, shall be appointed to a permanent rank or grade for which they may be qualified as established and shown by their records of service during their term of service not above the temporary rank or grade held by them at the time of transfer: Provided, That officers so transferred to the line of the Navy shall take rank therein in accordance with their precedence while holding temporary rank: Provided further, That all officers so transferred in accordance with sections 3 and 4 of this Act to the staff corps of the Navy shall take precedence with each other and with other officers in the Navy in such order as may be recommended by a board of naval officers and approved by the Secretary of the Navy: Provided further, That no transfers or appointments made in accordance with sections 3 and 4 of this Act shall be to a higher grade or rank than lieutenant in the Navy: And provided further, That officers appointed to the permanent Navy in accordance with the foregoing sections who now hold permanent warrant or permanent commissioned warrant rank in the United States Navy shall, if they thereafter fail professionally on examination for promotion, revert to such permanent warrant or permanent commissioned warrant status.—(41 Stat., 835, chap. 228.)

[1920, June 4, sec. 5. Age limits for appointments under preceding sections.] That officers appointed under any of the foregoing provisions shall be not more than thirty-five years of age when so appointed to the line of the Navy, Construction Corps, or Supply Corps, and not more than forty-three years of age when so appointed to the Corps of Chaplains, or to the Medical, Dental, or Civil Engineering Corps: Provided, That said age limits shall be increased in the cases of officers who have rendered prior service as paymaster's clerks, or as mates, or as warrant or commissioned officers in the naval service to the extent of all prior naval service: Provided further, That officers originally appointed to the Dental Corps above the said age limits shall be eligible for appointment and promotion under this act irrespective of age.—(41 Stat., 835–836, chap. 228.)

[1920, June 4, sec. 5. Statutory requirements for promotion temporarily suspended.] That officers of the line of the Navy who are appointed thereto pursuant to this Act from sources other than the Naval Academy shall not be ineligible for promotion by reason of age as prescribed by the Act of August 29, 1916 (Thirty-ninth Statutes, page 579), until they have rendered ten years' service in the grade of lieutenant commander, six years' service in the grade of commander, or eight years' service in the grade of captain, respectively, upon the completion of which service such officers, if then ineligible for promotion by reason of age, shall be retired in accordance with said Act: And provided further, That until June 30, 1923, promotions to lieutenant (junior grade) and lieutenant may be made without regard to length of service: And provided further, That until June 30, 1923, officers of the permanent Navy who have served satisfactorily during the war with the German Government in a temporary grade or rank shall be eligible under the provisions of existing law for selection for promotion or for promotion to the same permanent grade or rank without regard to statutory requirements other than age and professional and physical examination.—(41 Stats., 836, chap. 228.)

This provision read as follows:

"That in making reductions in rank as may be required by this Act, officers holding temporary appointments may be given temporary appointments in lower grades, and officers so appointed shall take precedence from the dates of their original appointments in such lower grades." (41 Stat., 836, chap. 228.)

[1920, June 4, sec. 6. Bonus and travel pay on extension of enlistment or transfer to another branch of naval service.] That in case any enlisted man or enrolled man who, since the 11th day of November, 1918, has been or hereafter shall be discharged from any branch or class of the naval service for the purpose of reenlisting in the Navy or Marine Corps or heretofore has extended or hereafter shall extend his enlistment therein, he shall be entitled to the payment of the $60 bonus provided in section 1406 of the Act entitled "An Act to provide revenue, and for other purposes," approved February 24, 1919, and to travel pay as authorized in section 3 of the Act entitled "An Act permitting any person who has served in the United States Army, Navy, or Marine Corps in the present war to retain his uniform and personal equipment and to wear the same under certain conditions," approved February 28, 1919: Provided, That only one bonus shall be paid to the same person.—(41 Stat., 836, chap. 228.)

The act of February 24, 1919, section 1406 (40 Stat., 1151), was temporary legislation, providing for payment of $60 bonus to men discharged from the military or naval forces or, in the case of reservists, released from active duty. See note to section 1569, Revised Statutes, under "24. Sixty dollar bonus on discharge."

The act of February 28, 1919, section 3 (40 Stat., 1203), reenacted with amendments, section 126 of an act approved June 3, 1916

(39 Stat., 217). See the latter act and note thereto; see also note to section 1569, Revised Statutes, under "20. Mileage and transportation on discharge."

—Section 6 of the act of June 4, 1920, above set forth, was held by the Comptroller of the Treasury to apply only to men who were in the Navy or Marine Corps on November 11, 1918, and to be inapplicable to any enlistment accomplished after that date. (27 Comp. Dec., 32, 39, 305.)

[1920, June 4, sec. 7. Term of enlistment; grades and ratings established.]

That hereafter enlistments in the Navy and in the Marine Corps may be for terms of two, three, or four years, and all laws now applicable to four-year enlistments shall apply, under such regulations as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy, to enlistments for a shorter period with proportionate benefits upon discharge and reenlistment: Provided, That hereafter the Secretary of the Navy is authorized, in his discretion, to establish such grades and ratings as may be necessary for the proper administration of the enlisted personnel of the Navy and Marine Corps.—(41 Stat., 836, chap. 228.)

[1920, June 4, sec. 8. Unauthorized wearing of uniform.]

or existing emergency, meaning thereby the war between the Imperial German Government and the Imperial and Royal Austro-Hungarian Government and the Government and people of the United States, in any Acts of Congress, joint resolutions, or proclamations of the President containing provisions contingent upon the duration or the date of the termination of such war or of such present or existing emergency, the date when this resolution becomes effective shall be construed and treated as the date of the termination of the war or of the present or existing emergency, notwithstanding any provision in any Act of Congress or joint resolution providing any other mode of determining the date of such termination. And any Act of Congress, or any provision of any such Act, that by its terms is in force only during the existence of a state of war, or during such state of war and a limited period of time thereafter, shall be construed and administered as if such war between the Governments and people aforesaid terminated on the date when this resolution becomes effective, any provision of such law to the contrary notwithstanding; excepting, however, from the operation and effect of this resolution the following Acts and proclamations, to wit: Title 2 of the Act entitled "The Food Control and District of Columbia Rents Act," approved October 22, 1919 (Forty-first Statutes, page 297), the Act known as the Trading with the Enemy Act, approved October 6, 1917 (Fortieth Statutes, page 411), and all amendments thereto, and the First, Second, Third, and Fourth Liberty Bond Acts, the Supplement to the Second Liberty Bond Act, and the Victory Liberty Loan Act; titles 1 and 3 of the War Finance Corporation Act (Fortieth Statutes, page 506) as amended by the Act approved March 3, 1919 (Fortieth Statutes, page 1313), and Public Resolution Numbered 55, Sixty-sixth Congress, entitled "Joint resolution directing the War Finance Corporation to take certain action for the relief of the present depression in the agricultural sections of the country, and for other purposes," passed January 4, 1921; also the proclamations issued under the authority conferred by the Acts herein excepted from the effect and operation of this resolution: Provided, however, That nothing herein contained shall be construed as effective to terminate the military status of any person now in desertion from the military or naval service of the United States, nor to terminate the liability to prosecution and punishment under the selective service law, approved May 18, 1917 (Fortieth Statutes, page 76), of any person who failed to comply with the provisions of said Act, or of Acts amendatory thereof: Provided further, That the Act entitled "An Act to amend section 3, title 1, of the Act entitled 'An Act to punish acts of interference with foreign relations, the neutrality, and the foreign commerce of the United States, to punish espionage, and better to enforce the criminal laws of the United States, and for other purposes,'" approved June 15, 1917 (Fortieth Statutes, page 217), and for other purposes," approved May 16, 1918 (Fortieth Statutes, page 553), be, and the same is hereby, repealed, and that said section 3 of said Act approved June 15, 1917, is hereby revived and restored with the same force and effect as originally enacted.

Nothing herein contained shall be held to exempt from prosecution or to relieve from punishment any offense heretofore committed in violation of any Act hereby repealed or which may be committed while it remains in force as herein provided.—(41 Stat., 1359-1360, chap. 136, Pub. Res. No. 64.)

Navy statutes affected by resolution terminating war-time legislation.—This resolution affects statutory provisions relating to the Navy which in general terms apply to any emergency or national emergency and which included, without specific reference thereto, the emergency incident to the war with Germany. (32 Op. Atty. Gen., 505.)

terms to "time of peace." (32 Op. Atty. Gen., 505.)

SEC. 5. That the character, design, and location of any such inscriptions, tablets, busts, or other memorials when authorized as herein provided shall be subject to the approval of the commission herein created, which shall in each case obtain the advice of the Commission of Fine Arts.—(41 Stat., 1440, chap. 169.)

It shall be the duty of the officers charged by law to determine such questions in each case to call for such advice. The foregoing provisions of this act shall not apply to the Capitol building of the United States and the building of the Library of Congress. The commission shall also advise generally upon questions of art when required to do so by the President, or by any committee of either House of Congress. Said commission shall have a secretary and such other assistance as the commission may authorize, and the members of the commission shall each be paid actual expenses in going to and returning from Washington to attend the meetings of said commission and while attending the same.
